GOP Set For First Vote Test

Rules, Platform Critical For Ford, Reagan

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — With party rules and platform planks as the issues, Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan are heading into the first critical test of their delegate strength at the 1976 Republican National Convention.

Reagan and his strategists chose the issues on which the key votes would be taken tonight, but as the time for balloting drew near Ford's delegate total in the contest for the presidential nomination moved to within three votes of the 1,130 needed for victory.

The latest Associated Press survey, based on legal commitments and publicly stated preferences, gave Ford 1,127, Reagan 1,036, with 96 uncommitted.

For weeks the Ford camp has claimed the President had 1,135 votes, while Reagan's managers have said the former California governor was certain of 1,140 votes on the first ballot for the presidential nomination.

But those claims were viewed largely as part of the intense political, psychological warfare the two men aimed at each other and at the uncommitted delegates who hold the key to the aspirations of both men.

The roll call votes tonight, occurring just 24 hours before the presidential balloting, will be taken as a clear sign of which man will leave Kansas City as the Republican nominee for president.

A decisive victory for either man could cripple the other's chance for the nomination.

The Reagan forces are geared for a floor fight tonight on their proposal to require that each presidential candidate name his proposed running mate before the balloting on the presidential nomination.

Reagan backers call it the "right to know" rule. The Ford camp describes it as Reagan's attempt to force the President to endure an uproar similar to that which Reagan encountered when he named Sen. Richard S. Schweiker as his choice for the vice presidential nomination.

Ford's backers called the Reagan proposal the "misery loves company" rule.

During the pre-convention week, Reagan lost repeated attempts to win approval for his proposal in the convention rules committee where Ford had a clear majority.

But Reagan's managers repeatedly have contended that their man's strength is greater among the delegates as a whole than within the convention committees and that Reagan could count on more votes on procedural issues, such as the rules change, than he was credited with on surveys of backing for the presidential nomination.

The latter claim could be especially damaging if Reagan loses on the rules fight he has pressed so hard in recent days.

The other major fight planned by the Reagan camp involves the foreign policy plank in the Republican platform which will be presented to the convention for approval.

Entitled "Morality in Foreign Policy," the Reagan amendment to the platform would insert a statement implicitly critical of the policy of détente with the Soviet Union pursued by Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The Reagan statement would put the Republican party on record as supporting many of the criticisms of Ford foreign policy that the former California governor used as campaign issues.

Nonetheless, some Ford advisers were recommending that the President accept the amendment and avoid a divisive floor fight, according to sources close to the campaign.

But Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, Ford's convention floor manager, said a final decision on how to deal with the proposal probably wouldn't be made until Ford strategists could assess the vote on the

Penetrator Was Okayed, Says State

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm-Features Editor

Two officials of the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation today clarified a question of whether local units of government have given required approval of the proposed I-94 penetrator into St. Joseph. Resolutions of approval were adopted by the Berrien County Road commission on Feb. 3, 1964; by the St. Joseph city commission on May 3, 1965, and by the Shoreham village council on May 5, 1964, according to the two officials.

Jan Raad and Ralph Merrill said no additional approval is required from local governmental units. But, the added, the local units may still voluntarily change their position on the penetrator project, or reinforce their original approval.

Raad is manager of the environmental liaison section and Merrill is manager of the west planning section, both in the Highway department's bureau of transportation planning.

A question has arisen locally as to whether the Berrien County Road commission had ever approved the penetrator. Jack Morgan, manager of public information services for the state highway department, last week told the Herald-Palladium the county road commission had approved the penetrator.

But when his statement was challenged locally by John Crow, St. Joseph township attorney, Morgan yesterday told this newspaper he had been wrong and that the county road commission had not approved the penetrator project.

Raad suggested this morning that confusion had grown up over the matter because of the impact statement released last week on various alternative routes into the city for a business loop.

Raad said with release of the impact statement the state highway department now has asked local governmental units, agencies and the general public to make comments on the project based upon the impact statement. The highway department has asked that all such comments be provided to the department within 45 days so that the department can determine its next step in connection with the penetrator project.

Should the St. Joseph city commission and county road commission now act to withdraw or rescind their long-ago approval of the project, Raad said the highway department likely would not proceed with the next step, a public hearing, and that the project then would be shelved.

In an advisory vote earlier, residents of St. Joseph opposed a penetrator into the city by a 2 to 1 margin, and St. Joseph township took a 4 to 1 stand against it.

But barring an official change in the earlier approval given the project by the city commission and county road commission, Raad and Merrill both said the highway department considers the local approval given in the 1960s as meeting its requirement for local approval of the penetrator.

Raad explained that Village of Shoreham approval of the penetrator project was required because the project would involve abandonment of Lake Shore drive (Red Arrow highway) as a state route through the village.

$7 MILLION PLANT!

Martin Marietta Planning To Expand Sand Processing At Bridgman

BY STEVE McQUOWN
Assistant State Editor

BRIDGMAN — Martin Marietta Aggregates plans to build a $7 million sand-processing plant and loading system here, it was disclosed at the Bridgman city commission meeting last night.

The plant would employ about 100 people and would replace the firm's present sand mining and processing plant that employs about 50 people, according to Arnold Alekna, vice president of operations.

Alekna, in a telephone conversation from Martin's regional headquarters in Rockton, Ill., said it is hoped construction on the new plant can begin "sometime in 1977."

The proposed plant would be located in the southern part of the city, just north of Church Camp road on the west side of Red Arrow highway near the I-94 overpass.

The new plant would be entirely in the city. The present plant is located mostly in Lake township, at the northern edge of the city.

Besides the loading system, the plant itself will consist of a milling building, maintenance and shop buildings and storage bins for the processing of sand for foundries and fiberglass insulation and other products.

In August last year, the Bridgman city commission gave Martin Marietta permission to mine sand on 22.7 acres of land the firm owns within the city limits.

It has since received a city building permit for construction of a loading system that would include a tunnel under I-94, through which processed sand would be transported for loading at a rail site at Rambo and Baldwin roads.

The company has not yet submitted its formal application for a building permit for its proposed sand mining and processing plant, according to Craig Mathieu, city building inspector.

Alekna said the proposed plant "...will be one of the most modern of lakeside" plants in the field. He said the plant will meet requirements of city ordinances as well as state environmental standards.

It will also provide the financially limited city with an increased tax base.

"We plan to be a good neighbor to the city of Bridgman," Alekna said.

Robert Liskey, vice-chairman of the city planning commission, said the firm has already received permission from the state to run its tunnel under

Detroit Vows To Regain Control

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit will recall 450 laid-off police officers immediately to prevent the recurrence of what Police Chief Philip Tannian called a "small-scale riot" at a downtown rock concert.

Announcing the recall, Deputy Mayor William Beckham Jr. said Monday "We're going to take the city back — beginning tonight."

The fracas, which erupted Sunday night at the city's Cobo Hall, resulted in widespread robberies and assaults, including two sexual assaults, and 47 arrests, Tannian said.

The 450 police officers were originally scheduled to be rehired Sept. 1. Although the officers were to return to regular precinct work next month, police officials said most will be deployed in special crime-fighting units instead.

In addition to the extra police officers, Beckham said, the city curfew ordinance will be expanded to prohibit anyone 17 years or younger from being on the streets after 10 p.m.

"Police units, gang squads, plain clothes officers, and four-man cruiser units will move groups of young people after that hour," Beckham said.

"Someone's going to be hurt, beginning tonight. Don't let it be your child."

Nearly one-fifth of the city's police force was laid off July 1 as part of the city's efforts to reduce a multi-million dollar budget deficit. Some 224 of the 913 police officers were recalled earlier this month. The recall announced Monday will leave a total of 239 officers laid off.

Beckham said the city would use federal funds to rehire the 450 officers. But, he said, recalling them two weeks early would cause a temporary budget deficit of $432,000.

Tannian said the trouble started Sunday night when 200 to 300 black youths harassed a predominantly white, youthful audience at a concert featuring the Scottish group Average White Band.

Tannian said that police did not attempt to enter Cobo Hall "because what you had in there was a small scale riot. You do not commit the resources you have to a situation you can't handle, then lose it," he said.

The milling crowd of youngsters spilled out onto Woodward Ave., the city's main street, and the disturbance moved several blocks uptown. Several pedestrians told police they were beaten by roving gangs in Kennedy Square, a few blocks from Cobo Arena.

One young woman was raped and another molested as they headed for a car in a parking lot near the Hotel Pontchartrain, police said.

Police officials said they believed some large black gangs were involved.

Private police at Cobo finally cleared the building but not until seats and windows were damaged extensively, officials said.

Beckham said the outbreak was "an outright, flagrant challenge to our security and to police authority in Detroit, and we failed to meet it. It won't happen again."

Police said 18 adults and 10 juveniles arrested Sunday on charges ranging from breaking and entering to armed robbery were detained overnight, booked and released pending further court appearances.

The remaining curfew violators were released to their parents.

His Sister Is Top Gun Back Home

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Business at Milliken's department store is bustling, although one member of the owning family doesn't come around here as much as he used to.

Gov. William Milliken, who worked at the store in the past, still retains an interest in his family's business, according to an aide to the governor. But he doesn't take an active role in the operation.

"We don't see him around much anymore," said one sales clerk at the Traverse City Milliken's. "His sister is the top gun around here now."

The department store here, dealing mainly in women's clothing, is one of a chain in Northern Michigan.

"It's not a bad item for conversation — saying you bought this or that at the governor's place," said one shopper at Milliken's.

Penetrator Was Okayed, Says State

Two officials of the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation today clarified a question of whether local units of government have given required approval of the proposed I-94 penetrator into St. Joseph. Resolutions of approval were adopted by the Berrien County Road commission on Feb. 3, 1964; by the St. Joseph city commission on May 3, 1965, and by the Shoreham village council on May 5, 1964, according to the two officials.

Jan Raad and Ralph Merrill said no additional approval is required from local governmental units. But, the added, the local units may still voluntarily change their position on the penetrator project, or reinforce their original approval.

Raad is manager of the environmental liaison section and Merrill is manager of the west planning section, both in the Highway department's bureau of transportation planning.

A question had arisen locally as to whether the Berrien County Road commission had ever approved the penetrator. Jack Morgan, manager of public information services for the state highway department, last week told the Herald-Palladium the county road commission had approved the penetrator.

But when his statement was challenged locally by John Crow, St. Joseph township attorney, Morgan yesterday told this newspaper he had been wrong and that the county road commission had not approved the penetrator project.

Raad suggested this morning that confusion had grown up over the matter because of the impact statement released last week on various alternative routes into the city for a business loop.

Raad said with release of the impact statement the state highway department now has asked local governmental units, agencies and the general public to make comments on the project based upon the impact statement. But barring an official change in the earlier approval given the project by the city commission and county road commission, Raad and Merrill both said the highway department considers the local approval given in the 1960s as meeting its requirement for local approval of the penetrator.

Raad explained that Village of Shoreham approval of the penetrator project was required because the project would involve abandonment of Lake Shore drive (Red Arrow highway) as a state route through the village.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Federal Government's Coal Role Is Smoggy

Speaking to newsmen here last week, Jack F. Stark, executive vice president of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., predicted electric power shortages that could cause severe rationing by 1981.

Among the reasons were regulatory lag in granting rate increases to overcome inflation, the high cost of borrowing money, changes in design and operation of nuclear plants, and environmental opposition to both nuclear and fossil-fueled generating plants.

At one point, he was asked why I & M didn't build new coal-fired plants if nuclear plants were so hard to get completed. Jokingly, he replied "Well, you can't mine coal and you can't burn it."

One reason may be that one-third of America's land, including lots of coal country, is owned by the federal government. The public lands are often regarded as barren deserts, rugged mountains and empty plains, but they are also rich storehouses of energy. Federally owned lands hold more than half of the nation's fossil-fuel energy resources.

About 50 per cent of all domestic coal reserves are on federal lands. Perhaps 80 per cent of the high-grade oil shale deposits are controlled by the federal government. About half of the domestic uranium supply is in the public domain. And about half of the nation's geothermal resources are on public lands.

"It is impossible to be sure just how much the public owns," the Ford Foundation's Energy Policy Project concluded in its final report, A Time To Choose (1974), "since the government's knowledge of the resources it controls is, in general, inadequate..." An assortment of federal agencies have authority over various public lands, and they sometimes seem to work at cross purposes.

Moreover, there is still no comprehensive national policy for the development — or conservation — of public energy resources. "Enormous pressures are now being exerted to open these resources to much more rapid exploitation," the Ford Foundation's report said two years ago.

Today, if anything, the pressures have increased.

The method the government uses to open up energy reserves on public lands is the lease. "Leasing" is something of a misnomer, since the minerals actually are sold from public ownership to private corporations, either through competitive bids or non-competitive awards.

On Aug. 17, unless halted by a pending lawsuit, the Interior Department will lease to the highest bidders 876,750 acres of continental shelf land off the New Jersey and Delaware coasts for exploratory oil drilling. The sale is the first in Atlantic coastal waters.

Early in the month, Congress overrode President Ford's veto of the Federal Coal Leasing Amendments Act, a measure setting forth new procedures for the sale of coal deposits on public lands. Ford objected to the bill because he thought it would "inhibit coal production on federal lands."

Critics charge that such actions typify the government's uncoordinated, piecemeal approach to public energy resources. They contend that the traditional policy of selling energy rights to the private sector almost on demand, with minimal government planning, still holds true. Further, they charge that such a haphazard system encourages private speculation, inhibits environmental protection and increases the likelihood of future scarcities.

A conference on "Energy and the Public Lands," to be held in Park City, Utah, on Aug. 23-26, is expected to deal with some of these concerns. Co-sponsored by the University of Utah's College of Law and the Environmental Law Institute of Washington, D.C., the conference will bring together experts on a wide range of energy resources and the problems that accompany energy development.

A guest speaker on "energy alternatives and energy conservation" will be actor Robert Redford of Sundance, Utah. Today, the seemingly dull subject of public-domain energy has star appeal.

What Was The Motive In Chowchilla Case?

"Were they seeking publicity? Were they trying to prove to their parents they didn't need money? Was there a deeper psychological need? These rhetorical questions of Madera County (Calif.) Sheriff Ed Bates are being echoed across the country. "They" are James Schoenfeld and Frederick Woods, both 24, and Schuenfeld's brother, Richard, 22 — the three men from affluent families charged in the mass abduction of 26 school children on July 16 near Chowchilla, Calif.

The children and their bus driver

managed to escape, and reasons for the abduction remain a mystery to the public. There have been news reports that a ransom note demanding $5-million for the return of the children was found at the home of Frederick Woods. An order was issued by Justice Court Judge Howard Green, though, preventing the disclosure of any evidence seized by police at the estate of Woods' parents near San Francisco. More light could be shed on why the kidnapping took place when a preliminary hearing for the Schoenfeld brothers and Woods is held on Thursday, Aug. 26, in Chowchilla Justice Court.

Since last summer, two other kidnappings have occurred in which there was no doubt about motives. Alan Bortnick, 27, the son of a trucking executive in Washington, D.C., was released unharmed in January after kidnappers collected $250,000 in ransom money. Ten days later, five suspects were arrested, including Richard Hibblitt, who was charged with possession of the ransom money.

In the other kidnap case, Samuel Bronfman 2nd, the 21-year-old son of the president of Seagram Co., Ltd., was rescued by New York City police and FBI agents last August after being held for eight days. Mel Patrick Lynch, a 37-year-old New York City fireman, and Dominic Byrne, 53, a limousine service operator, were arrested and charged with the crime. They had demanded $4.6-million from the Bronfman family. The Bortnick and Bronfman kidnappings followed a similar pattern. Both victims were from wealthy families, and large ransoms were demanded. In the Chowchilla case, children also were involved, but it was the alleged kidnappers who were from affluent families.

A Discouraging Pattern!

CARTER CAN EXPECT SCRUTINY BY GOP

Editor,
It was ironic to many that the new president was being attacked so soon in Congress, the branch of government he knows best, but note that Mr. Ford wasn't counted out because he is highly respected on Capitol Hill. Members like his affable ways, requests for advice, and readiness to compromise. Good will like that can endure a lot even the storm over the Nixon pardon.

The Democratic nominee, Jimmy Carter, insists he isn't going to make the pardon a campaign issue but his running mate, Mondale, takes over and takes care of that. He says we have just lived through the worst political scandal in American history — that is true because the latest scandal brought to light was some of the Democratic congressmen's affairs and pleasures with mistresses with taxpayers money.

Even before the Presidential campaign begins before the Republicans have chosen a candidate, Jimmy Carter shows signs that he may be thin skinned. This is not a desirable quality among politicians especially those who enjoy dishing out criticism. He told reporters the Republicans are preparing a personal attack against him. If this is how he really feels, he better be prepared for some rough times this fall. When a man offers himself as a leader of this country, he lays his entire life before it for examination.

Such research is standard practice in every campaign and a wholesome one. The things he said and done must be examined in full politically and within certain bounds of decency, personally. The voters are electing a whole man.

Consistency of positions and attitudes is one factor that should be examined. Is the candidate telling one story to one audience and a contradictory one to another? When Rep. Gerald Ford was selected by President Nixon for appointment to the vice-presidency, his career and personal background were subjected to the most intense scrutiny by the Senate before he was confirmed. This cross-examination was held even though Ford had been a member of Congress for decades. Carter must be prepared for equal scrutiny without assuming that it will be used for a personal attack on him.

INVITATION TO VISIT PRISON

Editor,
I am writing to extend invitations to the people in Berrien County to see just what Bill Tolbert and Walter Knapp have going here at S.P.S.M. Soon, Bill Tolbert and T.C.O. will celebrate their 10th anniversary.

I believe that Mr. Tolbert knows our appreciation as members here inside for what he has done with 10 years of his life this November, '76. In this additional invitation I would like for our judges, attorneys, prosecutors and all county officials to know they would be honored guests to see it is renewal we want and not revenge. I spoke with Bill Tolbert tonight and asked about inviting John Smietanka as a guest.

I can say for myself, that not until I saw people thinking of me as human did I think of them as such. My life is like most who have fallen. Some are more fortunate than others. I myself thought people owed my wife and two daughters and myself — but, no one owed me but me, myself, Bill and Wally showed me this.

I cannot make anyone come to our meetings — I can only hope, pray and say, thanks, Bill, for the whole 10 years even though I have only been with you 1.

In closing, I will say, Mr. Lindendorf and all the Herald-Palladium staff has been very good to us and we thank them all. Anyone wishing to come as a guest inside S.P.S.M. can contact T.C.O. for security and clearance preparations. It's not that we bite, but for you not to be misidentified.

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

The King and Queen of the Berrien County Youth Fair, chosen to the throne last night, come from nearly opposite ends of Berrien county. Queen Nancy Lowmack is from Three Oaks and represented students of River Valley high school, and King Gerald Zuhl is from Coloma, representing Coloma high school.

— 25 Years Ago —

Only the price was different when the grand champion steer of the Berrien Youth fair sold at a new record high of $11.20 a pound this morning. The blocky, 1000-pound Black Angus steer that took the top award in judging yesterday was sold to Waldo Tiscornia, mayor of St. Joseph and vice-president of Auto Specialties. And the owner of the record-priced steer was 16-year-old Janeyce Ullrey of Niles, who also won the grand championship with another steer last year.

— 50 Years Ago —

The Benton Harbor city commission yesterday placed final approval on the purchase of the new American-LaFrance aerial fire truck. Chief Clausner was as pleased with the coming equipment, which puts Benton Harbor on a par if not above any city in Michigan of its size, as a boy with his first pair of long trousers — a fire chief with his first set of long ladders.

Stone-laying ceremonies in connection with the construction of the new $200,000 Elks temple in St. Joseph, are set for next Monday evening.

Mrs. W.H. McKinley, a resident of the North Shore drive, Benton Harbor, will be the successor of Mrs. Grace Robinson as mistress of the twin city Y.W.C.A. building. It was announced today by Miss Chesta Mitchell, general secretary.

— 75 Years Ago —

If it should rain tonight Sunday would be turned into a devout thanksgiving day for the blessing. Farmers and fruit growers would rejoice together and the merchants who are anticipating a dull trade this fall would be the earliest arrivals at the churches tomorrow.

The clever society leaders of St. Joseph are entertaining their friends at corn, marshmallow and other roasts on the beach these warm evenings. The roasts are getting to be quite the popular thing.

From all indications the long drought will be broken either tonight or in the morning. A never failing sign is the circle around the sun.

Govt. Reform

Bill Is Bad One

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The misshapen Watergate Reorganization and Reform Act of 1976 is a sorry excuse for improving American politics and would be voted down in ordinary times.

Its sponsors, which include Sen. Walter Mondale, Jimmy Carter's vice presidential running mate and a bevy of other prominent senators, both Democratic and Republican, know that few legislators in this election year dare vote against any bill which promises a "reform" of Watergate-type shenanigans.

However, in Bill No. 496, the Senate attempts to divorce itself and the rest of Congress from responsibility for cracking down on crimes by senators, representatives and their staffs, but retaining the authority to impose difficult roadblocks in the way of other agencies which may have strong cases against Congressional crooks.

The Congress in this bill runs away from the responsibility assigned it in the Constitution to search out high government officials who commit serious crime. If the members of the Senate who voted for No. 496 would read basic law, they would note it is the responsibility of Congress to consider impeachment for "all civil officers of the United States" — not just the President and Vice President — for bribery and an assortment of other crooked practices while in office. For practical purposes we are dealing with high officials of course.

The purpose of the Constitution will not be served by shifting that responsibility to a czar responsible to no one, not the president, attorney general of the United States, the courts or to Congress. In No. 495, as passed by the Senate, once appointed, this particular assistant attorney general would be virtually a law unto himself. His term of office would be fixed as identical with that of the president. He would not be subject to removal except under the most difficult to prove circumstances. He would not, in reality, be under the supervision of anyone.

Because his jurisdiction, by law, would be exceedingly broad, he would be in a position to concentrate power and information in his own hands and that of his staff so thoroughly as to rival the attorney general or disrupt the work of the president by a series of witch hunts.

This bill, too, gives lip service to the matter of full financial disclosure by senators, representatives and members of the federal bureaucracy in general. But the requirements are so detailed, and include such a rash of trivialities that apply across the board to so many officials that the financial disclosure becomes a mockery. Key information, essential for the determination of genuine conflict of interest or bribery, would be lost in the shuffle.

What's eminently clear is that the Senators who sponsored this abortion, very prominent men of both parties, were motivated more by the publicity they'd get from Common Cause and other reform organizations than by a genuine desire to improve honesty in government.

The members of the House of Representatives have not, as of this writing, passed this bill. With fortune, they will not.

Jeffrey Berman

Congressional Arrogance

The front pages of the daily newspapers display for us the more flamboyant examples of congressional misbehavior, but Senator Claiborne Pell (D-R.I.) has meanwhile been busy with a particularly nasty little operation of his own. In his arbitrariness and cynicism, Pell's performance is actually more typical of the arrogance of power in Washington than the publicized extravaganzas of Wayne Hays, Wilbur Mills, and other gargoyles of that sort.

Established under the Johnson Administration, and, indeed, with Senator Pell as one of its principal sponsors, the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) dispenses some $80 million per year to assist various kinds of cultural activities: art museums, libraries, scholarly research. It also sponsors high-grade popular productions like the recent televised "Adams Chronicles."

The NEH is supposed to be non-political — and, remarkably enough, has actually been so under both Democratic and Republican administrations. The $80 million spent by NEH was probably too small a sum to attract the attention of the leading pork-barrellers.

Two years ago, however, Senator Pell came up with a scheme to skim off millions of dollars of NEH money and distribute it to local politicians at the state level.

At present, grants awarded by NEH must pass before non-partisan committees of experts. The standards maintained have been high.

Pell wanted the local politicians to get into the process and distribute large sums of money themselves. The various states would receive the Federal funds as a matter of legal right. No nonsense about "merit" would intervene between the Federal treasury and the state-level politician.

The present chairman of the NEH, Dr. Donald Berman strenuously and correctly opposed Pell's scheme. Other senators found Berman persuasive. Berman's stand had practically universal academic support.

As a result, however, Senator Pell has been pursuing a personal vendetta, against Dr. Berman.

Berman's first term as chairman expired last December. After canvassing a wide range of opinion, and finding universal satisfaction with the job Berman had done, the White House resubmitted his name for a second term. Now, six months later, Pell has succeeded in blocking a hearing on the matter by the pertinent committee of the Senate, Labor and Public Welfare.

Except for Pell, no one on the committee has expressed any opposition to Berman. The National Council of the Endowment, which includes members from both parties, backs Berman 20-1. Well known throughout the academic and scholarly world as a Shakespeare scholar, Berman has proved to be a fair-minded and able administrator.

For six months, however, Pell — alone — has blocked a hearing, aware that Berman would be overwhelmingly approved.

As the Wall Street Journal summed up this matter in a recent major editorial: "The sex scandals have had the effect of picking up the rock of Capitol Hill, and giving the public a glimpse of what scurries underneath. The problem is not so much sex as it is the atmosphere of arrogant pettiness."

The entire matter now rests in the hands of Sen. Harrison Williams of New Jersey, chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee. He can agree, at long last, to hold hearings on the Berman confirmation. The predictable result would be that Berman would be confirmed overwhelmingly. Or, out of so-called senatorial "courtesy," he can defer to the arrogance of Senator Pell's power and penalize a fine public servant for doing his job.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Federal Government's Coal Role Is Smoggy

Speaking to newsmen here last week, Jack F. Stark, executive vice president of Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., predicted electric power shortages that could cause severe rationing by 1981.

Among the reasons were regulatory lag in granting rate increases to overcome inflation, the high cost of borrowing money, changes in design and operation of nuclear plants, and environmental opposition to both nuclear and fossil-fueled generating plants.

At one point, he was asked why I & M didn't build new coal-fired plants if nuclear plants were so hard to get completed. Jokingly, he replied "Well, you can't mine coal and you can't burn it."

One reason may be that one-third of America's land, including lots of coal country, is owned by the federal government. The public lands are often regarded as barren deserts, rugged mountains and empty plains, but they are also rich storehouses of energy. Federally owned lands hold more than half of the nation's fossil-fuel energy resources.

About 50 per cent of all domestic coal reserves are on federal lands. Perhaps 80 per cent of the high-grade oil shale deposits are controlled by the federal government. About half of the domestic uranium supply is in the public domain. And about half of the nation's geothermal resources are on public lands.

"It is impossible to be sure just how much the public owns," the Ford Foundation's Energy Policy Project concluded in its final report, A Time To Choose (1974), "since the government's knowledge of the resources it controls is, in general, inadequate. . . . An assortment of federal agencies have authority over various public lands, and they sometimes seem to work at cross purposes."

Moreover, there is still no comprehensive national policy for the development — or conservation — of public energy resources. "Enormous pressures are now being exerted to open these resources to much more rapid exploitation," the Ford Foundation's report said two years ago.

Today, if anything, the pressures have increased.

The method the government uses to open up energy reserves on public lands is the lease. "Leasing" is something of a misnomer, since the minerals actually are sold from public ownership to private corporations, either through competitive bids or non-competitive awards.

On Aug. 17, unless halted by a pending lawsuit, the Interior Department will lease to the highest bidders 876,750 acres of continental shelf land off the New Jersey and Delaware coasts for exploratory oil drilling. The sale is the first in Atlantic coastal waters.

Early in the month, Congress overrode President Ford's veto of the Federal Coal Leasing Amendments Act, a measure setting forth new procedures for the sale of coal deposits on public lands. Ford objected to the bill because he thought it would "inhibit coal production on federal lands."

Critics charge that such actions typify the government's uncoordinated, piecemeal approach to public energy resources. They contend that the traditional policy of selling energy rights to the private sector almost on demand, with minimal government planning, still holds true. Further, they charge that such a haphazard system encourages private speculation, inhibits environmental protection and increases the likelihood of future scarcities.

A conference on "Energy and the Public Lands," to be held in Park City, Utah, on Aug. 23-26, is expected to deal with some of these concerns. Co-sponsored by the University of Utah's College of Law and the Environmental Law Institute of Washington, D.C., the conference will bring together experts on a wide range of energy resources and the problems that accompany energy development.

A guest speaker on "energy alternatives and energy conservation" will be actor Robert Redford of Sundance, Utah. Today, the seemingly dull subject of public-domain energy has star appeal.

What Was The Motive In Chowchilla Case?

"Were they seeking publicity? Were they trying to prove to their parents they didn't need money? Was there a deeper psychological need? These rhetorical questions of Madera County (Calif.) Sheriff Ed Bates are being echoed across the country. "They" are James Schoenfeld and Frederick Woods, both 24, and Schoenfeld's brother, Richard, 22 — the three men from affluent families charged in the mass abduction of 26 school children on July 16 near Chowchilla, Calif.

managed to escape, and reasons for the abduction remain a mystery to the public. There have been news reports that a ransom note demanding $5-million for the return of the children was found at the home of Frederick Woods. An order was issued by Justice Court Judge Howard Green, though, preventing the disclosure of any evidence seized by police at the estate of Woods' parents near San Francisco. More light could be shed on why the kidnapping took place when a preliminary hearing for the Schoenfeld brothers and Woods is held on Thursday, Aug. 26, in Chowchilla Justice Court.

Since last summer, two other kidnappings have occurred in which there was no doubt about motives. Alan Bortnick, 27, the son of a trucking executive in Washington, D.C., was released unharmed in January after kidnappers collected $250,000 in ransom money. Ten days later, five suspects were arrested, including Richard Hibbitt, who was charged with possession of the ransom money.

In the other kidnap case, Samuel Bronfman 2nd, the 21-year-old son of the president of Seagram Co., Ltd., was rescued by New York City police and FBI agents last August after being held for eight days. Mel Patrick Lynch, a 37-year-old New York City fireman, and Dominic Byrne, 53, a limousine service operator, were arrested and charged with the crime. They had demanded $4.6-million from the Bronfman family. The Bortnick and Bronfman kidnappings followed a similar pattern. Both victims were from wealthy families, and large ransoms were demanded. In the Chowchilla case, children also were involved, but it was the alleged kidnappers who were from affluent families.

A Discouraging Pattern!

INDIANA'S BOBBY KNIGHT

Bobby Knight To Kick Off BUW Drive!

Bobby Knight, coach of the NCAA champion Indiana university basketball team, will be speaker for the 1976 Blossomland United Way kickoff banquet. Announcement was made by Dr. Walter Browe, general campaign chairman, who said the banquet will be Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 6:30 p.m. in the student union at Lake Michigan college.

Known for his fiery, intense coaching methods, Knight has compiled an astounding success record in his 11 coaching seasons, with 227 wins against 70 losses. Knight teams have been in nine tournaments in those 11 years. In the past two playing seasons, Knight's Indiana Hoosiers have lost only one game against 63 victories. He was named Associated Press Coach of the Year for 1975-76.

Browe said Knight's amazing success in leading team play is intended to inspire the hundreds of local volunteers who seek a record-high $775,000 in the upcoming United Way campaign. The community effort to enlist financial support for 37 human service agency programs will seek a fourth-year-in-a-row victory. Browe emphasized that local citizens receive the benefits produced by contributed dollars. Browe said that the 1976 Miss Michigan, Diane Hansen, will be featured on the kickoff program and will perform her contest-winning solo. Miss Michigan is a resident of the Blossomland United Way area's Berrien Center.

While final preparations for the public kickoff are made, a number of pacesetter solicitations are already complete, with other canvasses being planned, Browe reported. Most Blossomland United Way agencies have completed employee solicitations, while the Whirlpool Corporation campaign team will launch its drive on Sept. 7. A 1976 BUW produced film, "A Special Job" is now available for scheduling according to Harold Andrus, public relations chairman. The 16 mm color-sound film concentrates on the services of two BUW supported agencies, Gateway, Inc., and Michigan Heart association, to illustrate how contributed dollars are converted into vital services to Blossomland United Way area residents.

Reservations for the kickoff dinner may be arranged by calling 963-6515. Full table reservations will be accepted from employee groups.

Area Safety Council Changes Its Name

The Twin Cities Area Safety Council has changed its name to Safety Council of Southwestern Michigan.

Robert Primley, council executive director, said the council's board of directors voted for the name change in June and it became official Monday with notice of approval from the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Primley noted the non-profit agency has been serving all of Berrien county and some parts of Cass and Van Buren counties for many years. The new name reflects more truly its scope he added.

The council was founded in 1949 and is headquartered at 311 State street, St. Joseph.

SJ School Board Will Hold Public Workshops

The St. Joseph board of education starting in September will hold once-a-month workshop sessions that will be open to the public.

The workshops are to enable board members to discuss school matters and become better prepared for agenda items on the regular board meetings.

Regular board meetings are on the second Monday of each month.

The workshops will be at 7:30 p.m. in Jefferson school on the first Monday of each month. An exception will be in September when the workshop will be on Tuesday, Sept. 7, because of the Labor day holiday.

Labor day holiday Sept. 6.

The board this month adopted the regular workshop policy, suggested by Trustee Dr. John Parritt. The board reported that all formal votes and final decisions made will be at regular board meetings, not the workshops.

Publishing Plant Approved

Construction of a new publishing plant for The Herald-Palladium cleared the next to last hurdle Monday night when the St. Joseph township board of trustees voted 6-0 to issue a building permit.

A lot split allowing Palladium Publishing Co. to purchase and own a 10-acre site in the southwest quadrant of the I-94 Niles avenue interchange for the plant was also approved by the same 6-0 vote. The land is being purchased from Nye's Orchards which owns a total of 18.42 acres in the southwest corner of the interchange.

Harold E. Morrison, township building inspector, was authorized to issue the building permit after he and Barger Engineering, St. Joseph, the township's engineering consultants, review final plans and specifications for the 42,000 square foot main publishing plant and a 3,000 square foot attached garage.

Vernon Schmalz, vice president of Holland Construction Co., St. Joseph, said the final plans would be completed in one month. Schmalz also said his firm hopes to have the plant's roof and outside walls built this winter and finish construction next summer. There are no preliminary cost estimates, he added.

The board acted swiftly and with comments of pleasure in approving the building permit and lot split.

Trustee Isadore G. DiMaggio, supported by trustee Carl Reschke moved to approve the lot split. Reschke also moved to authorize Morrison to issue the building permit with support from Trustee Robert H. DeVries, Sr.

Approval of the proposed site plan and issuance of the building permit were recommended to the trustees by the township planning commission. The commission gave its unanimous approval at a special meeting Aug. 10.

Palladium Publishing was represented at both the commission and board meetings by Bert Lindenfeld, managing editor, and William Fisher, production manager.

Trustee Carroll Gerbel asked Fisher and Lindenfeld if the company planned to ask the board for classification as an industrial development district under the provisions under the state's Industrial Development Districts Act of 1974. That act gives firms building new plants a 50 per cent reduction in taxes for 12 years, according to Gerbel.

Lindenfeld and Fisher said provisions of the industrial development act had not been considered or discussed up to this time.

Fisher and Lindenfeld represented W. J. Banyon, president of The Palladium Publishing Co., who could not attend the meeting.

Banyon sent a letter of apology to Benson, attributing his absence to a reunion with a lifetime friend who dropped in for a visit from a distant state.

Benson called the new publishing plant "the kind of industry we want in our township" because it is noiseless and pollution free.

His sentiments were echoed by Trustee Reschke, Treasurer DiMaggio and Trustee Carroll Gerbel while others nodded assent.

The township board also approved a planning commission recommendation to incorporate 12 lots owned by Berrien Hills Country club under the club's special use district zoning.

However, the special zoning approval of the proposed incorporation meant construction of tennis courts would be allowed because the township's zoning ordinance does not offer any explanation. Opposition to con-

In other action, the board authorized a $25 fee for Morrison's services to inspect any home or building when such an inspection is needed by a realtor to complete a sale or property appraisal.

Benson also reported the installation of water distribution mains in Eaton Park authorized by the board during its Aug. 2 meeting was almost completed. He said the low bid for $6,899 from Ace Plumbing Co., St. Joseph, was accepted.

Sand Tunnel Collapses, Boy Dies

BRIDGMAN — A 15-year-old Illinois boy died last night about four hours after a sand tunnel he was digging at Warren Dunes state park collapsed on him.

The victim was buried about 4½ to 5 feet below ground level for 15 to 20 minutes. He was digging the tunnel between two 4 to 5 feet deep holes which he and other youths with him had dug earlier.

The victim was identified by state police from New Buffalo as James Howard, Elk Grove Village. He died in Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, at 7:30 p.m. Howard was among 187 youths on a church outing at the park.

A hospital spokesman said this morning that the Howard boy had been revived, but never regained consciousness after being rushed to the hospital by a Lake township ambulance shortly after 3 p.m. No exact cause of death has been determined, the hospital spokesman said.

Robert Ingram, manager of the state park, said Howard was digging a tunnel into the sand about 150 feet from the Lake Michigan shoreline when it collapsed. Ingram said other teens on the outing, passers-by, and two beach guards worked for 15 to 20 minutes to free the boy.

Ingram said he was told by other youths on the outing from the Queen of Rosary church that Howard and several other boys had dug two shafts in the sand earlier and were trying to connect them.

Howard apparently was the only teen inside the tunnel when it collapsed, Ingram said. The two beach guards, Scott Jackson, 21, Berrien Springs, and Paul McMinn, 20, South Bend, gave first aid to the Howard boy as soon as he was freed and accompanied the boy to the hospital in the ambulance, Ingram said.

Gast Promotes Five Managers

Warren Gast, president and general manager of Gast Manufacturing Corp., has announced promotion of five managers and realignment of various duties. Ray Backus will become assistant to the president with responsibility of coordinating new products from engineering through processing to customer introduction. He also will be responsible for relationships with customers and suppliers. Backus has been with the company 37 years. He and his wife, Marie, live in Benton Harbor.

Replacing Backus as plant manager at the Reciprocating Products division in Bridgman is Richard Nelson, formerly plant engineering manager at the main plant, M-139, Benton township. A Gast employee nine years, he is a graduate of Michigan State university and has a master's degree from Western Michigan. He and his wife, Dawne, live near Berrien Springs.

Donald D. Rimes becomes plant and process engineering manager responsible for industrial engineering, plant engineering and tool design. He has been head of production control. Rimes, a six-year employee of Gast, attended Western Michigan and lives in Stevensville with his wife, Mary.

New head of production control is Edward F. Miller who continues as inventory manager. Miller was with Kawneer Co., Niles, before joining Gast recently. A graduate of Michigan State, he and his wife, Dee, live near Niles.

John Salay, tools and equipment manager, will devote full-time to selection or construction of extremely close tolerance, high production equipment and tooling. Gast said Salay's part-time work in this area has resulted in better parts quality and higher productivity. Salay has been with Gast 19 years and lives in Watervliet with his wife, Margaret.

Gast manufactures vacuum pumps, compressors and air motors.

INDIANA'S BOBBY KNIGHT

Bobby Knight To Kick Off BUW Drive!

Bobby Knight, coach of the NCAA champion Indiana university basketball team, will be speaker for the 1976 Blossomland United Way kickoff banquet. Announcement was made by Dr. Walter Browe, general campaign chairman, who said the banquet will be Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 6:30 p.m. in the student union at Lake Michigan college.

Known for his fiery, intense coaching methods, Knight has compiled an astounding success record in his 11 coaching seasons, with 227 wins against 70 losses. Knight teams have been in nine tournaments in those 11 years. In the past two playing seasons, Knight's Indiana Hoosiers have lost only one game against 63 victories. He was named Associated Press Coach of the Year for 1975-76.

Browe said Knight's amazing success in leading team play is intended to inspire the hundreds of local volunteers who seek a record-high $775,000 in the upcoming United Way campaign. The community effort to enlist financial support for 37 human service agency programs will seek a fourth-year-in-a-row victory. Browe emphasized that local citizens receive the benefits produced by contributed dollars. Browe said that the 1976 Miss Michigan, Diane Hansen, will be featured on the kickoff program and will perform her contest-winning solo. Miss Michigan is a resident of the Blossomland United Way area's Berrien Center.

While final preparations for the public kickoff are made, a number of canvasser solicitations are already complete, with other canvasses being planned, Browe reported. Most Blossomland United Way agencies have completed employee solicitations, while the Whirlpool Corporation campaign team will launch its drive on Sept. 7. A 1976 BUW produced film, "A Special Job" is now available for scheduling according to Harold Andrus, public relations chairman. Consumers: Buy Beef Now

Consumers who have been "beefing" about meat prices this year, need beef no more, says Maryann Beckman, District Consumer Marketing Agent. Supplies of fed beef cattle are well above year earlier levels and prices are more reasonable than they have been for a long time.

For cattle producers, the story is not nearly as good, for prices paid to them are well below production costs. As with other foods, the relationship between supply and demand establishes the market price of beef. If the price fluctuates, it is because supply and demand are changing. Right now, supplies are large, prices are large. Prices at retail stores are lower, but consumer demand has not been great.

Getting beef to the dinner table is a complex saga of breeding, grazing, feeding, shipping, grading and marketing. Once the beef supply situation is set in motion, it is difficult to alter or reverse its course, because it takes nearly a year between the breeding of the cow and the birth of the calf and an additional two years of growing, grazing and feeding before the calf is ready for market.

The beef producer, of course, has to cover his production costs and realize a profit to stay in business. When the supply situation becomes as large as it is now, prices paid to cattlemen drop.

Since the first of the year, beef producers have lost money on nearly every animal sold and in recent weeks have lost as much as $100 a head. The current price level being paid to beef producers is about $10 per hundred pounds below the break-even level for most producers.

There are several reasons why this has happened, Mrs. Beckman says. First, more cattle were on feed than in past years and therefore are now ready for market.

One of the other major contributing factors to the current price squeeze is the high cost of feed. In some of the drought stricken areas of the country, for example, there is not enough hay to feed to cattle and grain prices are relatively high. Because of this high cost of production, cattle producers are liquidating herds and slaughtering not only steers and feeder cattle, but also breeding animals.

All this adds to the total supply of beef coming to market and means supplies are about 19 per cent over year earlier levels.

The selling of breeding cattle now will affect the beef supply situation 30 to 60 months from now. If too many are sold now, long-term beef production is in peril and we may have shorter supplies and higher consumer prices later.

Consumer prices are as low as they have been in several years, so most anyone can now again enjoy those steaks and other favorite cuts they have felt have been too expensive in recent years.

CIVIC BENEFIT EVENT OCT. 22-23

Antiques-On-The-Lake

The third annual "Antiques on the Lake" show and sale, sponsored by Civic Benefit club, will be held Friday and Saturday, Oct. 22 and 23, at Shadowland ballroom in St. Joseph.

It was incorrectly reported in the Aug. 13, issue of this newspaper that the event was to be held Aug. 22 and 23.

Proceeds from this year's event will be used for materials to build a nature lab at Saret Nature Center in Benton Harbor.

Tickets are $1.50 in advance and $2 at the door. The show will be open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday.

Thirty-five quality dealers will be participating, according to Mrs. David (Mary Lou) Matzen, general chairman of the event. In addition there will be a country store selling homemade baked goods and a snack bar serving sandwiches, desserts and beverages.

The nature lab planned for the nature center will measure 36 by 24 feet including a 12 by 24 foot porch, according to Charles Nelson, director-naturalist. A Stevensville carpenter, James Mullins, has agreed to donate his time and labor if the center is provided the materials.

Other committee chairmen for the antique show include Mrs. Kent (Diane) Baker, dealer; Mrs. Thomas (Priscilla) Adams, house; Mrs. Burton (Mary) Carle with Mrs. John (Judy) Rumble, finance; Mrs. Douglas (Pat) Heaps and Mrs. James (Marie) Straub, tickets; Mrs. John (Arlene) Porritt, publicity; Mrs. Michael (Chris) McDonald, hostess; Mrs. Richard (Marion) Hagenauer and Mrs. Robert (Evelyn) Quevillon, snack bar; Mrs. James (Liddy) Riccioni and Mrs. Rodney (Sherril) Alexander, country kitchen; Mrs. Kenneth (Anne) VanderMolen and Mrs. Jerry (Jan) Reimann, art; Mrs. Gordon (Mary) Dill, decorations, and Mrs. Michael (Connie) Yore, advisor on authenticity of antiques.

Indians First Cowboys

America's first "cowboys" were Indians.

Spanish missionaries, working in the southwest, raised domestic cattle. To help with the cattle, the missionaries provided the native Indians with horses and trained them in raising the animals. The "Cowboy" that has become an American legend did not appear until after the Civil War, during the time of the great cattle drives.

By the turn of the century, the railroads had built tracks far enough westward that the cattle drives were no longer needed. Though little trail driving is involved, the cowboy on horseback is still part of the range or ranch scene of the United States. But generally, he'll more likely be found in a jeep or pick-up truck -- or even working from a light plane or helicopter.

Mix up a large salad with canned tuna, golden canned pineapple chunks and cooked rice. Add celery, onion and water chestnuts for crisp crunch.

Toss with your favorite dressing. Serve on crisp lettuce with hot cheese biscuits.

Consumers: Buy Beef Now

Consumers who have been "beefing" about meat prices this year, need beef no more, says Maryann Beckman, District Consumer Marketing Agent. Supplies of fed beef cattle are well above year earlier levels and prices are more reasonable than they have been for a long time.

For cattle producers, the story is not nearly as good, for prices paid to them are well below production costs. As with other foods, the relationship between supply and demand establishes the market price of beef. If the price fluctuates, it is because supply and demand are changing. Right now, supplies are large, prices are large. Prices at retail stores are lower, but consumer demand has not been great.

Getting beef to the dinner table is a complex saga of breeding, grazing, feeding, shipping, grading and marketing. Once the beef supply situation is set in motion, it is difficult to alter or reverse its course, because it takes nearly a year between the breeding of the cow and the birth of the calf and an additional two years of growing, grazing and feeding before the calf is ready for market.

The beef producer, of course, has to cover his production costs and realize a profit to stay in business. When the supply situation becomes as large as it is now, prices paid to cattlemen drop.

Since the first of the year, beef producers have lost money on nearly every animal sold and in recent weeks have lost as much as $100 a head. The current price level being paid to beef producers is about $10 per hundred pounds below the break-even level for most producers.

There are several reasons why this has happened, Mrs. Beckman says. First, more cat-tles were on feed than in past years and therefore are now ready for market.

One of the other major contributing factors to the current price squeeze is the high cost of feed. In some of the drought stricken areas of the country, for example, there is not enough hay to feed to cattle and grain prices are relatively high. Because of this high cost of production, cattle producers are liquidating herds and slaughtering not only steers and feeder cattle, but also breeding animals.

All this adds to the total supply of beef coming to market and means supplies are about 19 per cent over year earlier levels.

The selling of breeding cattle now will affect the beef supply situation 30 to 60 months from now. If too many are sold now, long-term beef production is in peril and we may have shorter supplies and higher consumer prices later.

Consumer prices are as low as they have been in several years, so most anyone can now again enjoy those steaks and other favorite cuts they have felt have been too expensive in recent years.

Take a look at the weekly specials and the prices on other cuts and see how much less they cost. Take a good look at the family's freezer, too. Now is the perfect time to buy beef for the freezer to help reduce the budget later in the year, as well as to assure a supply of all cuts for good eating for many months.

By buying beef now, consumers not only will be taking advantage of the lowest prices in several years, but will also be helping to even out the cattle supply picture to assure having a good supply of meat for the next several months as well as years.

CIVIC BENEFIT EVENT OCT. 22-23

Antiques-On-The-Lake

The third annual "Antiques on the Lake" show and sale, sponsored by Civic Benefit club, will be held Friday and Saturday, Oct. 22 and 23, at Shadowland ballroom in St. Joseph.

It was incorrectly reported in the Aug. 13, issue of this newspaper that the event was to be held Aug. 22 and 23.

Proceeds from this year's event will be used for materials to build a nature lab at Sarett Nature Center in Benton Harbor.

Tickets are $1.50 in advance and $2 at the door. The show will be open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday.

Thirty-five quality dealers will be participating, according to Mrs. David (Mary Lou) Matzen, general chairman of the event. In addition there will be a country store selling homemade baked goods and a snack bar serving sandwiches, desserts and beverages.

The nature lab planned for the nature center will measure 36 by 24 feet including a 12 by 24 foot porch, according to Charles Nelson, director-naturalist. A Stevensville carpenter, James Mullins, has agreed to donate his time and labor if the center is provided the materials.

Other committee chairmen for the antique show include Mrs. Kent (Diane) Baker, dealer; Mrs. Thomas (Priscilla) Adams, house; Mrs. Burton (Mary) Carle with Mrs. John (Judy) Rumble, finance; Mrs. Douglas (Pat) Heaps and Mrs. James (Marie) Straub, tickets; Mrs. John (Arlene) Porritt, publicity; Mrs. Michael (Chris) McDonald, hostess; Mrs. Richard (Marion) Hagenauer and Mrs. Robert (Evelyn) Quevillon, snack bar; Mrs. James (Liddy) Riccioni and Mrs. Rodney (Sherry) Alexander, country kitchen; Mrs. Kenneth (Anne) VanderMolen and Mrs. Jerry (Jan) Reimann, art; Mrs. Gordon (Mary) Dill, decorations, and Mrs. Michael (Connie) Yore, advisor on authenticity of antiques.

Indians First Cowboys

America's first "cowboys" were Indians.

Spanish missionaries, working in the southwest, raised domestic cattle. To help with the cattle, the missionaries provided the native Indians with horses and trained them in raising the animals. The "Cowboy" that has become an American legend did not appear until after the Civil War, during the time of the great cattle drives.

By the turn of the century, the railroads had built tracks far enough westward that the cattle drives were no longer needed. Though little trail driving is involved, the cowboy on horseback is still part of the range or ranch scene of the United States. But generally, he'll more likely be found in a jeep or pick-up truck — or even working from a light plane or helicopter.

SISTER LAKES

"My Daughter's Rated 'X'," an adult comedy, opens Wednesday, Aug. 18, at the Sister Lakes Playhouse, Sister Lakes, and runs through Sunday, Aug. 22.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The play concerns Ralph Stevens whose job is to assign film ratings to all movies submitted. Being old-fashioned in his views, Stevens becomes the enemy of all the libertine breed of film producers.

When Ralph's daughter leaves her baseball-playing husband and moves back home with her baby, Stevens' Puritan ethics crack — not so much because his women's libber daughter left her husband, but because he discovers they were never married in the first place.

Featured in the adult comedy are Luther Patrick of Casopolis, Linn Macdonald of Niles and Tom Nolan, Jill Halperin, Hal Vaughan Jr. and Peggy Jo Orosz of Kalamazoo.

Director is John F. Scott.

Straight From Nature

For those who wish to play it safe, corn starch is a straight-from-nature alternative to talc. Not only that, corn starch is inexpensive and readily available; most kitchens contain a box ready for its more familiar use as a cooking ingredient.

Although this natural, fine white powder is unscented, a perfume quality can be added following this old-fashioned, natural recipe.

Fill a container with fragrant flower petals and corn starch. Several times during the day, shake the mixture. Next day, pour the mixture through a coarse sieve and discard the old flowers. Replace them with new petals. Repeat the process for four or five days, or until the fragrance seems just right.

Plan Open Houses Sunday

MR. AND MRS. LEON RAY INGLERIGHT II

EAU CLAIRE — Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ray Ingleright II, Keigley street, Eau Claire, will be honored at an open house Sunday, Aug. 22, from 2 to 5 p.m. at their home in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary. Friends and relatives are invited.

Hosting the open house will be their children, Leon Ray III of Niles and Mrs. Marvin (Peggy) LaVanway of Eau Claire.

Leon Ray Ingleright and the former Margaret W. Murphy were married Aug. 22, 1926, in South Bend, Ind.

The couple resided in Niles prior to moving to Eau Claire in 1940 when Ingleright purchased Hubbard's Drug Store.

The Inglerights have five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

MR. AND MRS. AUBREY CHESHIRE

HARTFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Cheshire of Hartford will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a buffet luncheon open house Sunday, Aug. 22, from 2 to 5 p.m. in the community room of the First Savings Association, Hartford. Friends and relatives are invited.

Cheshire and the former Bessie Williamson were married Aug. 23, 1926, in New Hope, Ky. The Rev. F. O'Shea officiated.

The couple has lived in the Hartford area for 34 years.

They have six children, Mrs. Charles (Freda) Harbin, Coloma; Jerry Cheshire, Coloma; Kenneth Cheshire of Sterling, Ill.; James Cheshire of Schofield, Wis., and Leonard and Joseph Cheshire of Hartford. A son, Francis, died in 1951.

There are 28 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Appointments Made Women's Commission

Gov. William G. Milliken announced Aug. 13 three appointments and two reappointments to the Michigan Women's Commission for terms expiring July 15, 1979, subject to Senate confirmation.

Milliken also designated Patricia H. Burnett of Detroit as chairman and Dr. Bernadine N. Denning of Detroit as vice-chairman.

Appointed were Connie Tarran, 269 Red Oak, Rochester; Norma J. Laskey, 6184 Guilford avenue, Detroit, and Barbara T. MacQueen, 13691 Lakeshore, Grand Haven.

Mrs. Tarran, a member of Happiness of Womanhood, succeeds Jacqueline Nanni of Sterling Heights. She has been active in the Girl Scouts of America for 15 years, serving as a troop leader, troop consultant and district delegate.

Mrs. Laskey is a member of the Wayne County Board of Jury Commissioners and succeeds Fran Harris of Detroit. Nominated for "Who's Who Among Authors and Journalists" in 1972, she has served as area coordinator for muscular dystrophy and as a member of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce Education Task Force.

Mrs. MacQueen succeeds Joan S. Guy of Haslett. A graduate of Hope college and the University of Michigan's School of Law, she practices with a Muskegon law firm. She attended the Paris American high school in Paris, France, while her father was in the Army. She has studied in Ethiopia and Yugoslavia.

Those reappointed by Milliken were Irene B. Prophater, 6335 Golf Lakes Court, Bay City, and Lorna J. Otto, 2445 Nish Na Be Anog road, Mt. Pleasant.

Mrs. Prophater, who was first appointed in 1975, is Bay County Republican chairman and is past president of the Mobile Meals of Bay City.

Mrs. Otto is community health representative and program coordinator for the Inter-Tribal Council of Michigan. A one-year board member, she has served on the State Task Force on Health Needs for Migrants and American Indians.

Mrs. Burnett, 182611 Hamilton road, a professional artist and sculptor, has been a member of the commission for four years, serving as vice-chairman for the past year. She succeeds Clare C. Daniels of Muskegon as chairman.

Dr. Denning, 3309 Leslie, assistant professor of education and director of special projects and studies at the University of Michigan, succeeds Mrs. Burnett as vice-chairman. Appointed last year, she is a member of the National Council of Negro Women, a member of the Wayne University Alumni board and past co-chairman of the March of Dimes.

How To Make Speedy Spaghetti

What's for supper? Speedy Spaghetti 'n' Beef.

In saucepan, brown one-half pound ground beef and cook one-fourth cup chopped onion with one medium clove garlic, minced, and one-fourth teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed, until tender (use shortening if necessary). Stir to separate meat.

Add one can (fourteen and three-fourth ounces) spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese. Heat; stir occasionally. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese. Makes about two and one-half cups, two to three servings.

BE CAREFUL TAKING LAXATIVES

The primary function of a laxative is to make it easier for solid waste material to pass through the human body. However, there are also other medical functions a laxative can perform. A laxative should not be taken over a long period of time unless this is directed by a physician for it is possible for laxative use to become habit forming.

There are many types of laxatives. Stimulants, wetting agents, saline cathartics, lubricants and bulk forming agents. We stock them all. If you have a question about a laxative, please ask us.

Straight From Nature

For those who wish to play it safe, corn starch is a straight-from-nature alternative to talc. Not only that, corn starch is inexpensive and readily available; most kitchens contain a box ready for its more familiar use as a cooking ingredient.

Although this natural, fine white powder is unscented, a perfume quality can be added following this old-fashioned, natural recipe.

Fill a container with fragrant flower petals and corn starch. Several times during the day, shake the mixture. Next day, pour the mixture through a coarse sieve and discard the old flowers. Replace them with new petals. Repeat the process for four or five days, or until the fragrance seems just right.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Ardent Husband's Too Much

Dear Ann Landers: You might not be able to print this but I am going to write it anyway. Please tell me if I am wrong.

I am 24, my husband is 29. This is my second marriage. His first. We have been married 15 months. If I don't agree to having sex every night he gets mad.

I've explained a hundred times that I work at a job eight hours a day, the same as he does. I also have the house to take care of, the cooking and laundry. Some nights I'm just too exhausted for romance.

I can't wash dishes without him coming up behind me and making some obscene gesture. If I lie down on the couch after supper he is right there. The man is after me all the time.

I love him, Ann, and I want this marriage to work, but I don't think it is fair of him to be so demanding. What is "enough" and what is "too much"? You tell me and I'll tell him. Hiding From "Hot Stuff"

Dear Hiding: Nothing I say will lower his thermostat, but I'm going to say something anyway. Even though your husband is paying you the ultimate compliment, he is inconsiderate, selfish, and probably oversexed.

I get the impression you receive no help from "Hot Stuff" with the household chores. Unfair! The next time he chases you around the house, hand him the vacuum sweeper and tell him to work off some of that excess energy by giving you some assistance.

Surprise

Dear Ann Landers: I agree wholeheartedly with your comments to the woman who surprised the hostess with a chocolate cake. I've been surprised like that and was not pleased. I respect the intentions of guests who bring cakes, but too often a random dessert collides with the hostess's carefully prepared menu.

And now you please say something to dinner guests who insist on bringing an armful (or a box) of beautiful, fresh, UNARRANGED flowers?

Here I am, welcoming guests, and someone thrusts flowers at me. How can I do an adequate job of flower arranging under those conditions? It seems ungracious not to display the posies, but it's worse to pop them carelessly into an inappropriate container — a container should also be a gift to the hostess. Tell 'em, Annie. — Milly in Michigan

Dear Milly: Right you are. BUT, when a hostess finds herself the recipient of an armful (or box) of unarranged flowers, the trick is to get the flowers off her hands and on display as quickly as possible. I suggest she ask another guest to do the flower arranging, and not be too fussy about the container.

Kids Don't Care

Dear Ann Landers: This is going to seem foolish, but I need some reassurance from someone who is smarter than I. Our nine-year-old Cindy has become "best friends" with a chum at school. Cindy has been invited to Jan's home for dinner and says it's like a "palace" and they eat "like Thanksgiving every night."

Our home is very simple and our table meager. Jan loves to come here and does so often. I'm self-conscious about the difference, especially at mealtime. We have seven kids and sometimes there's barely enough to go 'round. Should I say something? — A Mom

Dear Mom: Kids don't visit a friend's house because it's palatial or the food is good. There's nothing to say — so keep quiet.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

BOLD DESIGNS: Long look knits, such as this one with Peruvian motif, left, wrap up the ethnic look for fall, worn over skirt as shown or your favorite pants. New tunic length sweater, right, may be worn with self belt or without. The 25-inch trumpet sleeves end with Persian jacquard weave which also is woven across the yoke.

Dr. Lester Coleman

One of our daughters constantly scrubs her hands and arms with soap and antiseptic and then applies antiseptic lotions. She is 16 and has an unusual fear of germs. She has been doing this for two years. — Mrs. J.E.R., Fla.

Dear Mrs. R.: Cleanliness is an admirable quality, but when it begins to dominate one's life, important psychological values must be considered.

I know a young lady who began such a pattern from the time she began to menstruate. This was established only after intensive psychotherapy brought to light her unnatural feelings about menstruation.

Under hypnosis, it was established that her aunt had planted the idea that menstruation was ugly and dirty. It is difficult to believe that in this enlightened age such ignorance still exists.

I also recall an international union leader whose life revolved around his fear of bacteria on the skin. He would not shake hands with people. He would not turn a faucet or touch a door knob without the protection of a clean towel.

It is obvious that cleanliness was not the basis for his fear. Thousands of cases are on record of people who manipulate their lives to live with such unrealistic fears.

These thoughts must lead you to the realization that some form of psychotherapy must be begun as soon as possible in order to find the underlying reasons for your daughter's attempt to "wipe herself clean" of bugs, of germs, possibly of guilt, and emotional conflict.

The sooner you do this, the greater are her chances for being liberated from her problems and for finding inner peace.

Is it possible to explain what is done when a child's eyes are corrected by surgery for cross-eyes? — Mrs. E.L., N.J.

Dear Mrs. L.: There are six muscles attached to the eyeball which control each movement of the eye. Occasionally, one of these muscles may be weaker and another stronger than normal. The result is that the eyeball is "not in balance" and looks off to one side.

Before surgery is considered for this condition, known as "strabismus," the eye surgeon has laid out a detailed plan of action for the amount and degree of muscle changing required in each case.

The weakened muscle may be shortened and thus give it more strength. The over-strong muscle may be weakened by another surgical variation.

The operation is usually successful. It is not a dangerous one. There are no external scars. Only in rare cases is it necessary to repeat the operation for minor adjustments.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
South looked over dummy and remarked, "I can't resist cigarettes, temptation or free finesses." Then he reached over and played dummy's jack of diamonds.

East produced the queen and it turned out that there was nothing free about the finesse. When the smoke of battle had cleared away, South had lost two spades and a diamond and North had lost his temper.

North said, "I am not going to get into an argument about whether or not cigarettes are bad for your health and I can see nothing against being tempted at the right time, but if you would just keep your mouth shut and your mind open you would have refused that free finesse and made your contract."

North was right. The finesse of the diamond jack would allow South to collect an overtrick, if diamonds broke 3-3 with the queen on side. But South wasn't interested in an overtrick; he wanted to make five.

That four-spot lead looked a lot like a singleton and it was. South could play low, take his ace, draw trumps, ruff out his two clubs and finally play ace and another spade. The defense would take two spades and give up. If West took the second spade, he would have to give South a ruff and a sluff. If East took it, he'd have to lead into dummy's king, jack of diamonds or concede a ruff and a sluff.

Ask the Jacobys

Continuing with point count, it is most important to remember that cards, not points, take tricks. The great value of point count is to enable a partnership to explore game and slam possibilities with general success. You start by counting your high-card points. Then you add extra points for short suits in your early valuation. These additions are three for a void, two for a singleton, and one for a doubleton.

UAW Job Security Plan Includes More Time Off

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, finally unwrapping its plan for increasing job security, has demanded the Big Three automakers give employees more paid time off — possibly one day each month — to preserve current positions and create new ones.

The reduced work time proposal, placed before company negotiators Monday at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, was the union's first clear signal of the route it has chosen for bolstering job security in new labor contracts.

The union has said since the spring that shortened work time would be its top priority in this year's talks but it had not issued any specific proposals.

Separately, the UAW said its international board would meet Aug. 24 to select one of the three companies as the "target" for either reaching a pattern settlement or striking when current three-year pacts expire on Sept. 14. Bargaining at the other companies will cease until a settlement is reached with the target.

The union likely will pick either Ford, the target in 1967, or GM, which was tagged in 1970. Chrysler was the target during the last triennial round of talks in 1973.

The union's reduced work time demand called for an unspecified number of paid days off each year on top of the 30 days which auto workers already receive under current holiday and vacation programs.

Union officials said the plan would open up additional jobs by forcing the companies to hire more employees to fill in for those who are off.

The proposal also lays to rest speculation the union would take a more radical approach by demanding a four-day work week.

"We're not asking for a four-day week," said UAW Vice President Ken Bannan, head of the union's Ford department. "No way in 1976."

The UAW would not say exactly how many additional days off it would seek, saying that will be determined in negotiations. But Bannan suggested, as an example, one day off a month — equal a 5 per cent reduction in current work time.

"That could be the minimum we're after, or the maximum," he said. "... for example purposes, we mentioned one day per month. It could be more."

Ford negotiator Robert M. Middlekauff contended, however, that his understanding of the union's proposal "would amount to at least one additional day per month."

Termining the plan "unacceptable," Middlekauff said it represents "the largest single amount of vacation time sought at Ford in one chunk" since the start of a vacation pay plan in the early 1960s.

GM's top negotiator, George B. Morris, branded the plan "tantamount to a national featherbedding agreement," adding that even "one additional day off would be too many."

The union — negotiating three-year contracts covering 665,000 Big Three workers — wants to provide members with more protection from another recession like that in 1974-75 which left more than 200,000 workers on long-term layoff. Some 20,000 still are off the job.

The union's proposal would have the days off scheduled at regular intervals and rotated so that worker eventually gets a different day of the week off during the course of a year.

The plan also makes it mandatory for an employee to take the time off so that the same percentage of the workforce would be absent each day. Pay in lieu of taking the time off would be prohibited, the union said.

Bannan explained that under an agreement whereby each employee gets one paid day off every month — which now consists of about 20 working days, five per cent of each shift would

Milliken Hunts Votes For Ford

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Searching for crucial Ford votes, Michigan Gov. William Milliken lobbied the Maine delegation Monday on behalf of the President.

In an early morning meeting over coffee and rolls, Milliken and other Ford backers sought the vote of Maine's lone uncommitted delegate and worked to firm up the votes of those already pledged to the President.

Maine is currently 15-4 for Ford over Ronald Reagan, with one delegate uncommitted.

It was the third visit to other state delegations that Milliken has made since arriving in Kansas City. On Sunday, he appeared before the Pennsylvania group and a combined meeting of the Massachusetts and Alaska delegations.

Milliken told the Maine contingent that Ford has restored "honor, decency and integrity" in the White House, and has turned the economy around.

"If we've got a President with that kind of record, then for Heaven's sake, let's lead from strength," he urged the delegates.

He said Ford would wage a positive and very aggressive campaign if nominated.

Also speaking on behalf of Ford were Carla Hillis, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, (HUD) and New York Rep. Barber Conable.

Milliken circulated among the Maine contingent, singling out the uncommitted delegate, David Osgood of Portland, who noted: "I'm the one they're all after."

"It's a difficult decision you have to make and a very personal one," Milliken responded. "I hope that when the time comes you'll be with us."

Osgood said the presentation by the Ford group did little to affect his decision, which he said he will announce Tuesday.

"It's just more input," he said.

A Ford delegate said the Ford boosting "reaffirms what we felt all along."

A Reagan man said he respected those who were speaking, but said the Maine delegates for Reagan were solid.

State Consumer Complaint System Totally Unmanageable Says Panel

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Consumer complaints are getting lost in the shuffle because of a totally unmanageable system in the state Department of Licensing and Regulation, some lawmakers say.

The charge was part of a preliminary report released by a special legislative committee that has been investigating the department for more than a year.

Rep. Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, chairman, released tentative staff recommendations at a Monday news conference. The recommendations have not yet been approved by the full panel.

"We have found a system that through poor legislative action and other causes is totally unmanageable," Owen said.

"There's an inability by the department to deal with licensing boards and the boards to deal with the department caused by poor legislation, buck-passing, or an inability to deal with consumer complaints. There's a lackadaisical approach to consumer complaints."

The preliminary report recommends that:

—Present laws dealing with occupational licensing be codified into a single statute.

—The authority and duties of the state's 34 licensing agencies be consolidated under the umbrella of the department.

Twenty-two are now completely independent. The report recommends they all become semi-autonomous and that their public membership be increased to one-third.

—The department be given broader powers to protect consumers from malpractice and fraud, and that it establish a complaint and audit system to arbitrate disputes between licensees and consumers.

—The department be able to adjust licensing fees with legislative approval to help finance effective work by the department.

—Licensing requirements be reevaluated to determine whether they are needed.

—Alternatives to written licensing exams be provided.

—There be periodic re-examination and continuing education for licensees.

—The department's investigative powers be turned over to the sole authority of the Michigan State Police to avoid overlapping investigatory work by various state agencies.

—Information on policies, programs and access to records be made available to the public.

—The department institute an affirmative action program for itself.

—A joint legislative committee be created to further study the situation.

Owen said no evidence of graft was uncovered in the investigation of the department.

Beverly Clark, director of the department, endorsed the committee findings.

"We're pleased to have this report for it will allow us to move ahead with appropriate guidance and understanding," she said.

be absent daily. That would require the companies to add approximately five per cent more workers per shift, he said.

The union proposal said it further would seek contract language that would prevent the companies from calling in workers on their days off unless an emergency situation arises.

The companies have opposed any plan to shorten work time but not pay, saying it would drive up labor costs, which in turn would lead to higher car prices for consumers, declining sales and more layoffs.

"It's unclear to us how this is the right way to increase employment," said Middlekauff. "By having the same amount of work done by more employees only adds to cost."

"The more appropriate way would be to increase the work performed through an expanding economy."

Quakes Rock Philippines; 811 Are Dead; 251 Hurt

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — More than 1,000 persons were reported dead or missing today in the worst earthquakes in Philippine history.

The National Disaster Coordinating Center reported tonight that at least 811 dead had been confirmed, 249 were missing and 251 were injured in two major quakes that hit the southern Philippines just after midnight Monday and just after noon today.

Unofficial counts raised death toll to 917, with more than 500 injured and 400 missing.

Among the missing were 11 children swept away by 24-foot waves caused by the quake.

The Philippine Disaster Center said 1,200 families were homeless and 315 buildings, bridges and other structures were destroyed in only one of the areas hit by the quake, southwestern Mindanao.

A major earth tremor also hit central China Monday night, but sketchy reports from the area did not mention damage or casualties.

The first quake in the southern Philippines occurred at 12:13 a.m., when most people were asleep. It sent high waves crashing onto the southernmost coast, sweeping away fishermen's homes, and collapsed schools, hotels and stores on Mindanao, the Philippines' largest southern island.

The U.S. National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., recorded the first quake at 6.0 on the Richter Scale, 0.2 less than the July 28 quake that devastated the Tangshan area of northeast China.

Aftershocks continued through the morning. The Honolulu Observatory of the International Tsunami Information Center recorded another major tremor in the area at 6.8 on the Richter in early afternoon.

The Golden center recorded the Chinese quake Monday night at 6.9 on the Richter Scale.

The disaster center said the worst damage was done on Basilan island, southwest of Mindanao, and on Mindanao in the cities of Pagadian, Zamboanga, Cagayan de Oro and Cotabato.

The government geophysical observatory said the quake was centered in the Celebes Sea southwest of Mindanao. The U.S. earthquake center put it in the Moro Gulf, on the north side of the Celebes Sea.

Rescue officials on Mindanao said a three-story department store, two schools and two hotels collapsed in Cotabato, about 100 miles south of Manila.

No buildings in the area hit by the quake are known to be higher than five floors, the officials said. Sketchy reports were received that the quake also triggered landslides and caused power failures.

The high waves caused by the quake lashed at least five coastal villages on the peninsula where Zamboanga is located, destroying more than 100 houses.

Abdul Rahmis Jamil, a fisherman, said he lost three of his four children when the waves swept away his house, which was about 300 feet inland.

"We were caught unaware and asleep by the waves," he said. "All of a sudden my house and children were gone."

President Ferdinand E. Marcos proclaimed Mindanao and the Sulu archipelago a national calamity area. He ordered immediate relief and rescue efforts.

The worst recent earthquake in the Philippines, on Aug. 2, 1968, killed 328 persons and injured 147 when a six-story apartment building collapsed in Manila.

The official Chinese news service Hsinhua did not mention the quake in central China. But the Japanese news agency Kyodo reported from Shanghai that a rolling quake had been felt for more than 10 seconds in Sian, 500 miles southwest of Peking. It said no damage was reported.

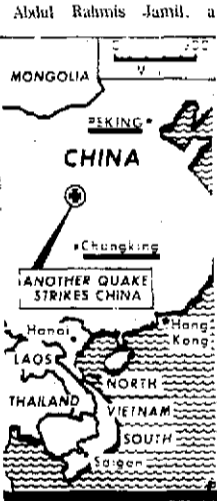

Kyodo said about 100 foreigners were ordered out of the People's Hotel in Sian and told to stay outdoors. The quake was not felt in Peking, it said.

Foreign seismic stations said the Chinese quake was centered near the border between Kansu and Szechwan provinces, 600 to 700 miles west-southwest of Peking.

Last month's quake in Tangshan caused damage and casualties in the Chinese capital, but the Chinese have released no casualty report or damage estimate. That quake and today's first quake in the Philippines were classified as "great" quakes, capable of tremendous damage. Tangshan was reported 80 per cent destroyed, and the industrial city of Tientsin, 70 miles away, was heavily damaged.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number, say from magnitude 5.5 to magnitude 6.5, means the ground motion is 10 times greater. Some experts say the actual amount of energy released may be 30 times greater.

An earthquake registering 7 on the Richter scale is a major quake, capable of widespread, heavy damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, registered 8.3.

Experts Flee Danger Area

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP) — The 15 French scientists monitoring the Soufriere volcano were evacuated from the danger zone Monday night after an explosion inside the mountain caused an earth tremor felt 30 miles away.

Dr. Robert Brousse of the University of Paris, the leader of the team of volcanologists, planned a helicopter flight today to try to penetrate the heavy cloud mass covering the 4,813-foot peak of La Soufriere.

The volcano on Basse Terre island has been emitting ashes, steam and fumes for more than a month. The team of scientists says a major eruption is imminent, and the 22,000 people living in the danger zone — more than 20 per cent of Guadeloupe's population — were evacuated last weekend.

"It's impossible to say when it will happen," Brousse told reporters, "but I think that eight to 15 days from now we'll see some very grave events."

The volcanologists had been keeping watch on La Soufriere from Ft. St. Charles, near the volcano. Slight tremors started rocking the area around 7:45 p.m. Monday, and civil security chief Max Vincent telephoned one of the scientists.

"He was really frightened," said Vincent. "They moved immediately into a shelter inside the fort."

The tremors continued. After the big one was felt in Pointe-a-Pitre, 20 miles northeast of the volcano, Jean-Claude Aroussseau, the administrator of the French islands, ordered a navy boat to move the men from Basse Terre to Terre de Haut island, about eight miles from the larger island and 14 miles from the volcano's peak.

The scientists set up a new observation post at Ft. Napoleon, where a seismograph was already monitoring the volcano.

La Soufriere, French for "the sulphur mine," last erupted in 1956, but there was no lava flow and no loss of life then. Fissures opened in the side of the mountain July 8 and began belching gas, steam, ash, stones and mud. The activity intensified last Thursday.

Relatives took in two thirds of the refugees. The rest were housed in schools in 12 communities, all more than 40 miles from the danger zone.

Many were still sleeping on stone floors, but officials said 18,000 cots were on the way. Canteens were set up to feed those being housed by the government, and ration tickets were issued.

France's director of civil security, Christian Gerondeau, arrived from Paris Sunday night. He said the French government had appropriated $2 million for relief expenses and that more would be available when needed.

"If it's necessary to keep the evacuation in effect for two more weeks, the French government will have to give serious consideration to permanently relocating the people from the volcano zone," he said.

Long lines formed at the airport to get planes to France.

Detroit Officers Deny Charge

DETROIT (AP) — Seven white police officers denied Monday that they attacked and damaged a car driven by a young, black woman during a violent police union protest in May 1975.

The defendants, who testified on their own behalf in Recorder's Court, were allegedly among hundreds of police officers protesting a federal court order banning layoffs of minority officers.

Three of the defendants provided witnesses who corroborated their testimony.

Asked by the prosecution why they failed to help the woman, nearly all of the witnesses replied that they were too far from her car to see what was going on.

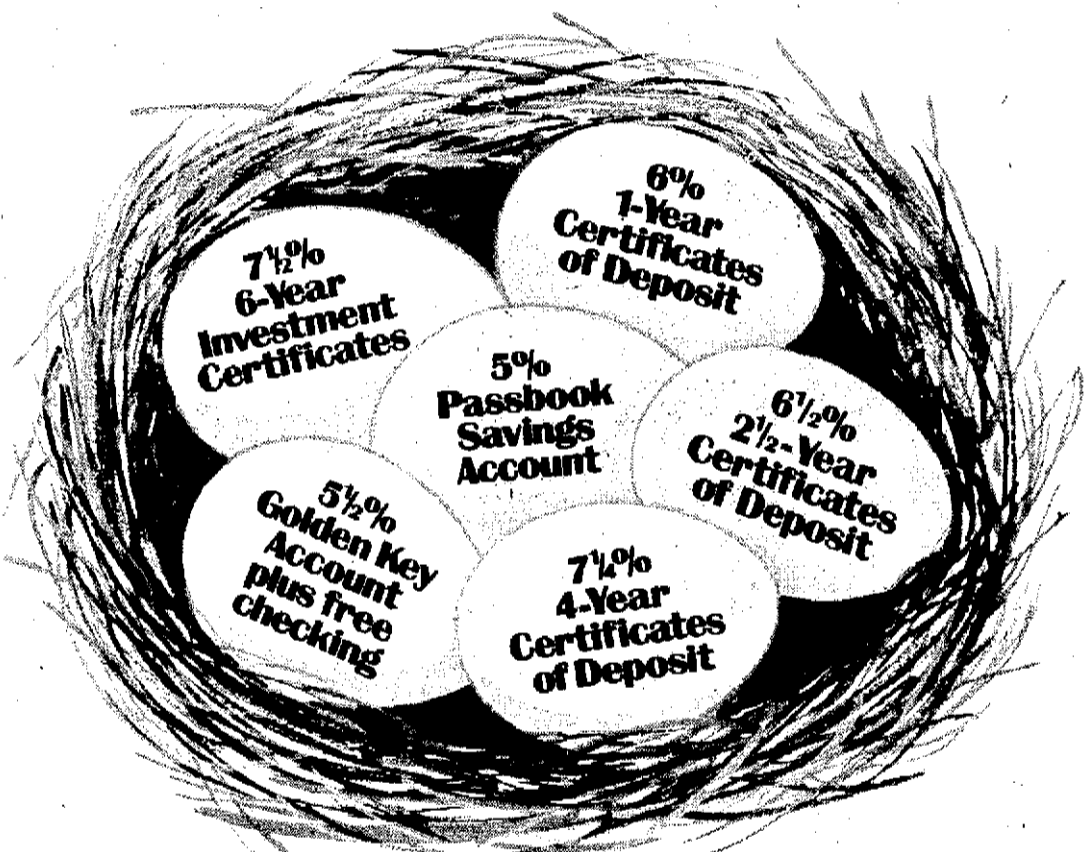

They also told Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor John Thompson Jr., that they didn't think the woman was in danger.

Sylvia Wright testified last week that she was driving out of a parking lot across the street from Detroit's Federal Building when the seven police officers surrounded her car and wouldn't let her out.

She said they rocked her car, jumped on the hood, dented the doors and hubcaps and broke the front grill. She said one of them also threw a sticky substance over the windshield.

She said she was positive of her identification of the seven police officers as those who attacked her car.

The trial, which is being presided over by Judge Elvin Davenport, is expected to go to the jury later this week.

Quakes Rock Philippines; 811 Are Dead; 251 Hurt

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — More than 1,000 persons were reported dead or missing today in the worst earthquakes in Philippine history.

The National Disaster Coordinating Center reported tonight that at least 811 dead had been confirmed, 249 were missing and 251 were injured in two major quakes that hit the southern Philippines just after midnight Monday and just after noon today.

Unofficial counts raised death toll to 917, with more than 500 injured and 400 missing.

Among the missing were 11 children swept away by 24-foot waves caused by the quake.

The Philippine Disaster Center said 1,290 families were homeless and 315 buildings, bridges and other structures were destroyed in only one of the areas hit by the quake, southwestern Mindanao.

A major earth tremor also hit central China Monday night, but sketchy reports from the area did not mention damage or casualties.

The first quake in the southern Philippines occurred at 12:13 a.m., when most people were asleep. It sent high waves crashing onto the southernmost coast, sweeping away fishermen's homes, and collapsed schools, hotels and stores on Mindanao, the Philippines' largest southern island.

The U.S. National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., recorded the first quake at 8.0 on the Richter Scale, 0.2 less than the July 28 quake that devastated the Tangshan area of northeast China.

Aftershocks continued through the morning. The Honolulu Observatory of the International Tsunami Information Center recorded another major tremor in the area at 6.8 on the Richter in early afternoon.

The Golden center recorded the Chinese quake Monday night at 6.9 on the Richter Scale.

The disaster center said the worst damage was done on Basilan island, southwest of Mindanao, and on Mindanao in the cities of Pagadian, Zamboanga, Cagayan de Oro and

State's Disease Danger Remote

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State health officials say chances are very remote that 11 persons now in Michigan will show symptoms of a rare African fever though they were on a jet with an Ontario woman believed to have the deadly disease.

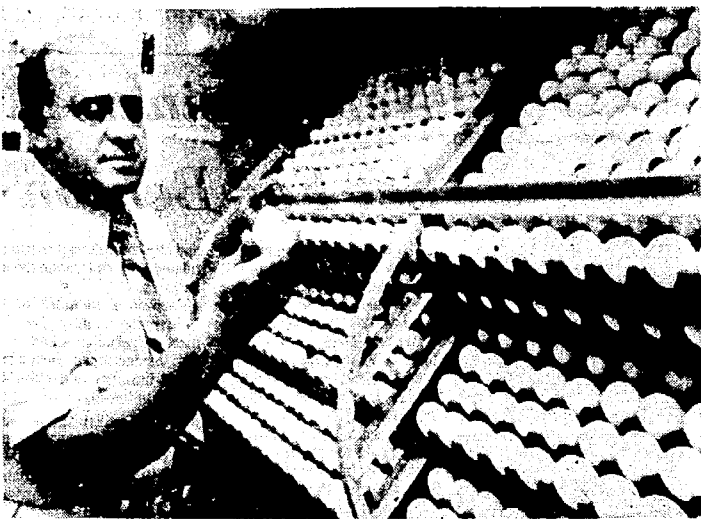

Officials also say diagnosis of the disease as the deadly Lassa fever may not be accurate.

State health director Dr. Maurice Reizen said Monday the 11, who have shown no symptoms but are under surveillance, have only a very remote possibility of contacting the virus.

The 11, four of whom are permanent Michigan residents, range in age from 5 to 51. All were on a British Airways flight from London, England to Toronto, Ont., on Aug. 1 and 2.

Olga Kamcey, 56, collapsed after arriving in Toronto and was diagnosed as having the disease.

But Dr. Joel Breman, epidemic surveillance officer for Michigan, said Monday the diagnosis that Mrs. Kamcey has Lassa fever is "certainly suspect." He said only one blood test showed evidence of the disease and several other body tests did not.

FOR FLU FIGHT: Robert Conrad of Goodells, Mich., ships 200,000 eggs a week to Parke-Davis Pharmaceutical Co. The eggs are used in production of swine flu vaccine. (AP Wirephoto)

"The fever resembles influenza, encephalitis, meningitis, strep throat or typhoid fever," Reizen said. Its symptoms include a high fever, a severe sore throat, headache, eye inflammation, muscle pains, overwhelming fatigue, cough and mouth sores.

Reizen told reporters the disease is not highly contagious. "The odds are overwhelming that you can't pass this thing that readily," he said, indicating chances are very good that the 11 on the flight with Mrs. Kamcey are in no danger.

The disease is fatal, however, 30 to 50 per cent of the time.

Reizen said the incubation period for the virus is seven to 17 days, though the 11 will be under surveillance until Sunday as an extra precaution.

"They have been asked to check their own temperatures twice daily and report in to local health centers for examinations each morning.

None of the 11 has been placed in quarantine, since the disease cannot be passed unless symptoms appear," Reizen said.

Merchants Blame Crime Detroit Losing Business

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's downtown merchants say business has fallen off this summer because of increasing incidents of violent crime in the central business district.

Detroit officials say the city has lost at least one $1 million convention because of the violence.

Leonard Rolston, president of the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau, said the National Funeral Directors in Milwaukee had voted to hold their convention in Boston rather than Detroit after seeing newspaper articles about the city's crime problems.

Rolston said the convention, which had been scheduled for 1981, would have brought 5,500 persons to Detroit and put $1,000,000 into the city's economy.

One downtown restaurateur said his customers, many of whom are affluent suburbanites, "would rather take their chances getting the Legionnaires flu than walking the streets of Detroit."

Robert Winkel, president of Crowley's, an area department store, said sales in the downtown store have dropped more sharply in the last six months than at any other time in the store's history.

"Along with other factors, crime is most certainly one causing a decrease in sales over a number of years," Winkel said. Winkel had previously announced that the downtown store was closing.

Ted Nied, president of Checker Cab of Detroit, said in the last two months, two of his drivers have been killed and there have been eight other shooting incidents.

"People are afraid to stand and wait for cabs downtown," he said, "and our people are afraid to pick them up."

Seymour Wasserman, owner of Henry the Hatter, said "police are outnumbered" by the criminals on the street.

"We are going to have to decide now whether this place is going to become an empty jungle or a viable business place," he said.

Morton School Principal Reassigned As Teacher

Clarence C. Hodges, principal of Henry C. Morton elementary school of the Benton Harbor district since 1966, has been reassigned to a teaching post at Seely McCord elementary school, the board of education announced last night.

The board appointed George Loder, currently assistant principal at Hull school, as acting principal of Morton school. Loder was named to a 44-week contract at a salary of $19,200. He will be considered for a full principalship after receiving a master's degree next year.

In another administrative move, it was announced that Yvonne Chapman, principal at Columbus elementary school, was reassigned to the principal's post of Johnson, Millburg and Spinks Corners elementary school. She replaces Mary Buesing, who retired this year. A new principal at Columbus school has yet to be hired.

Loder has served the Benton Harbor district for eight years, including the past six as assistant principal at Hull school. He expects to receive a master's degree in elementary school administration from Michigan State university next year.

The reassignment of Hodges to a teaching post was a move to secure new leadership at Morton school, according to James Caudill, district public information officer for the district, who said the move is a demotion for Hodges. Caudill, however, said Hodges may have abilities to become "the best teacher in the district."

Hodges salary was adjusted downward by placing him on the teachers' salary schedule. He will receive $17,200 for a 39-week work year. His salary as principal was $20,423. Loder received $16,268 at Hull school.

Hodges was the first black person to assume duties as full principal in the Benton Harbor district, it was reported in 1966. Loder also is black.

In other areas, the board set the 1976 tax levy at 30.3716 mills, which will raise $5,522,384. The levy includes 29,720 operating mills (21,350 extra voted and 8,370 county allocated); and .6456 of a mill for debt retirement. The state equalized valuation of the district was reported to be $181,830,592.

District voters will ballot on a millage proposition sometime next year, because all the extra-voted millage expires with December tax collections, it was reported.

The board voted to sell the former Stump Alma school to Colonia Circle church for $4,001. The building has been unused as a district school since 1971, but has housed varied activities, including Head Start.

The board also approved the sale of two portable classrooms on the Bard school site to After Fifty, Inc., for $10. One of the structures recently was damaged by fire.

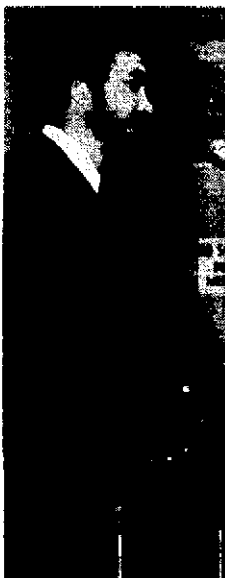

The board adopted the 1976-77 school calendar which provides for 180 student days and 190 teacher days. The calendar includes:

Teacher orientation, Aug. 30-Sept. 2; first full class day, Tuesday, Sept. 7; Thanksgiving recess, Nov. 25-26; Christmas recess, Dec. 20-Jan. 2, 1977; spring recess, April 4-8; end of first commencement, June 9; teacher record day, June 9; schools closed, June 10.

For the third straight year, school lunch and milk prices will be unchanged. Rates are:

K-8 student lunches, 50 cents each or $2.50 per week ticket; K-8 student lunches (reduced price) 30 cents each or $1 per week ticket; adult lunches, 70 cents each or $3.50 for five lunches; student milk, 5 cents per one-half pint or 50 cents per one-half pint or $1 per ticket.

The board also:
—Changed special education high school graduation requirements to require a minimum of 15 hours work experience per week for 12th grade students, require one additional mathematics credit at 10th grade level; schedule driver education as an elective credit rather than required; and delete credits for pre-vocational courses and a healthful living course.

—Voted to accept interest rate quotations for the financing of one new 36-passenger bus for special education students over a five-year period in the amount of $15,905. The bus was ordered last May and will be delivered in September.

New Business Reported Set For Benton Harbor

The Benton Harbor city commission last night voted to sell city-owned land at 218 Water street which will be used by a new business as a parking lot.

The new business was identified as Valley Equipment Co., a South Bend-based firm that sells heating and air conditioning parts.

The vacant lot at 218 Water will be sold for $1,500 to Twin Cities Electric and Heating Supply Co. of Benton Harbor which owns the former LaSalle hotel building adjacent to the lot.

Tom Karp, president of Twin Cities Electric and Heating Supply, told city commissioners his company will lease the building and the lot to Valley Equipment. Leasing of the 10,000 square-foot building was contingent on obtaining parking space.

The building has been vacant about four years and Valley Equipment has already started to occupy it, Karp said.

The approximately 100 by 200-foot parcel of land on the west side of the building will provide about 30 spaces for cars, according to Karp.

Announcement of the new business was warmly received by city commissioners. "This is a trend in the right direction," City Manager James Peeples, Jr., said. Mayor Joel Patterson and city commissioners congratulated Karp on locating the new business.

Karp is a member of the United Community Development Corporation, a body of 25 city businessmen formed to foster business and industrial growth in the city.

In other action, the commission voted unanimously to terminate the city's contract with Grand Rapids Atty. Benjamin Logan III to do legal business for the city.

No explanation was given in a resolution calling for the termination, but Commissioner Edmund Eaman said after the meeting the commission took the action "to consolidate costs."

The termination of Logan's contract effective Friday leaves Benton Harbor Atty. K. Morris Gavin to perform the city's legal business on a contractual basis. The resolution passed by the city commission also requests Logan to turn all files over to Gavin. Gavin and Logan were both hired by the city commission March 8 to conduct the city's legal business previously assigned to City Atty. Yvonne Hughes who was fired in February.

The commission reappointed Rev. Ellis Marshburn of 397 North Hall street to a three-year term on the city's civil service commission.

A request for use of the city-owned Highland House by the Berrien county Senior Citizens Nutrition Project was taken under advisement by the commission for further study. The request was made by Ruth Bruck, of the Berrien county senior citizens program.

The commission set public hearings Sept. 7 on the demolition of sub-standard housing at 286 North Winans street, 867 Territorial road, 973 Pipestone street, 844 Monroe avenue, 1185 Pearl street, 412 High street, and 315 Summit.

BH Has Year's Sixth Homicide

A Benton township man died Monday of injuries sustained when he was apparently struck on the head with a piece of concrete early Saturday, according to Benton Harbor police.

hospital, Kalamazoo, where he had been transferred from Mercy Hospital, Benton Harbor.

Det. Lt. Al Edwards said that two warrants had been authorized Monday on charges of assault with intent to commit murder. The warrants were to be returned to the Berrien prosecutor's office to determine if murder charges will be authorized. The names are being withheld until arrests are made.

Police said Bowman was found about 1:15 a.m. Saturday on a grassy area near the Benton Harbor fire station, 200 Wall street. It was the sixth homicide recorded in the city in 1976.

Theotis Bowman was born Dec. 28, 1956, in Hughes, Ark.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Jones, Benton Harbor; two step-brothers, Ray and Otis Jones, and two step sisters, Delores Jones and Ruby Haskins, all of Benton Harbor; and his grandmother, Mrs. Laura Haskins, Turrell, Ark.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete this forenoon at the Robbins Brothers funeral home, Benton Harbor.

Car Crash Starts Gas Pump Fire

A Benton township man told township police Monday he lost brakes and steering on his car when it ran out of gas as he coasted into a service station and struck a gas pump starting a fire.

Edward Leslie, 62, of 118 Quince drive, driver of the car, was not injured in the incident at Meek's Quick-Way service station, Highland and Fair avenues.

Township firemen said the pump was destroyed by fire and damage was estimated at about $500. Police said no tickets were issued in the incident about 3:15 p.m.

SJ Commission Advances Cleveland Ave. Project

St. Joseph city commissioners last night passed a second resolution for construction work on Cleveland avenue that would include widening and cost an estimated $168,000.

It will take three resolutions passed by the commission before the project will begin, according to City Manager Gerald W. Heppler.

The resolution was passed after a public hearing attended by about 15 people. Heppler explained a tentative assessment roll for the project calls for property owners along Cleveland from Hilltop road to Lake Shore drive to pay $8.50 a front foot.

Property owners would have 10 years to pay it off.

The construction project would widen Cleveland from 20 to 28 feet and include storm sewers, curb and gutter work.

Heppler said the city would pay about 80 per cent of the cost and property owners the rest.

Heppler said the project, pending final approval, could begin in about four or five weeks and, hopefully, would be done by the beginning of next year.

Another public hearing followed by a final commission vote will be held in three weeks. The public hearing will be for comments on the assessment roll. A first resolution on the project was passed at the July 26 meeting.

In other business, the commission passed an ordinance to amend ordinances pertaining to inspections of apartments.

The ordinance actually changes two code ordinances by adding a few words to clarify and tighten them up, according to City Atty. Arthur G. Preston Jr.

The amendments are to plug possible loopholes in the following ordinances: (1) required city inspection of all vacated apartments prior to being rented out again and (2) city inspectors do not have to inspect an entire apartment building after one unit is vacated.

Preston said the changes were made at the recommendation of Berrien Fifth District Judge

Hugh Black. Black made the recommendations during the pre-trial stage of a case in which a city landlord was challenging the ordinance which required her to have one of her apartments inspected prior to being re-rented. The case has since been dropped by the landlord, Preston said.

The commission also had a rare split vote last night when Warren Gast voted in opposition to an amendment proposed by the Twin Cities Area Transportation authority, operator of Dial-A-Ride bus service.

The amendment, which the other four commissioners voted for, was to increase the authority from its present six membership positions to nine. Each participating area government (St. Joseph, Benton Harbor and Benton township) would add one member.

Gast said he voted against it because "Big boards (of directors) don't get anything more done than little boards." He added, "I don't see why they need a larger board."

U.S. Decision To Drop Sex Case 'Floors' Lawmaker's Ex-Staffer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Colleen Gardner says she is "totally bewildered, totally floored" by reports that federal prosecutors have decided against pressing criminal charges on her accusations that her congressman-boss demanded sex in return for continued employment at premium pay.

The congressman, Democrat John Young, said Monday in a statement from his Victoria, Tex., office that he was "pleased but not surprised at the position taken by the Department of Justice relative to the allegations made against me."

Young's Washington office simultaneously disclaimed knowledge of such a decision, even though the Victoria office had distributed a copy of one of the reports. It had been published in the Washington Star.

A Justice Department spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny the reports that the prosecutors will recommend dropping the probe for lack of evidence of fraud. From the beginning, Young had called the allegations "pop-psych."

A lawyer close to the prosecutors said that they "never thought they'd find much there as far as a criminal indictment, anyway. ... She did do some work, after all," so government payroll funds would not have been fraudulently disbursed.

Asked about the possibility of sexual extortion as a charge, he replied, "That was never charged."

Told of that, Mrs. Gardner said Monday night, "That's very strange. I thought that's what I was charging."

She indicated that prosecutors told her one hour's work a month could satisfy the fraud law under the unique working conditions for congressional employees.

Employees of members of Congress are specifically exempted from most federal labor laws and serve at the pleasure of the official.

At the time she went public with her story two months ago, Mrs. Gardner said she was doing so in the hope other women and men who suffered under that system would come forward and force it to be changed.

No others have.

Mrs. Gardner, 28, lives in suburban Virginia with her 12-year-old child from her former marriage.

She went to federal prosecutors with testimony and tape recordings to describe what she said were almost five years, in two segments, of "humiliation and abuse" by Young. She quit his staff this past March.

Specifically, she alleged that the 10-term congressman would not let her use her office and occupational skills to capacity, that he instead pressured her into staying available for sexual acts as a requirement for keeping the job and a premium salary.

He eventually paid her $28,000 a year, considerably higher than the average salary for women professionals on Capitol Hill staffs.

She said Monday night she no longer has a lawyer and hadn't "really heard anything from (the prosecutors) one way or another.

"I'm confused completely (at the reports). To me, it's inconceivable that they would think there's been no crime. ... I thought my tapes were pretty conclusive."

Mrs. Gardner on June 15 gave prosecutors a number of tape recordings of telephone calls. Some were of Young and some were with other employees, who said Young expected sex from them. The Associated Press obtained copies of several of the recordings.

"The other people (on the tapes) make the picture a lot clearer" than Young did, she maintained.

Mrs. Gardner came forward about three weeks after Elizabeth Ray kicked off a congressional payroll-sex scandal with the charge that Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, hired her as a secretary, a job for which she says she has no skills, solely to provide him with sex. Hays denied that Miss Ray was not supposed to work as a secretary for her $14,000 a year.

Miss Ray — who has published a book and been featured in two nude magazine pictorials — is a correspondent at the Republican National Convention for the sex-oriented Genesis magazine.

Mrs. Gardner says she has been unable because of the no-

COLLEEN GARDNER
"Totally Bewildered"

tory to find work and has refused similar book, film and nude-photographs offers.

Three years ago, after about three years on Young's staff, she quit and first went to U.S. prosecutors with her allegations. She was rebuffed because they felt no crime was committed or proved.

In 1975, she returned to Young's staff and began making the tapes and gathering what she thought would stand as other evidence of abuse.

"If you look at the payrolls, you have to know something is going on when you see all those rapid raises ... when women are making $10,000 to $15,000 more than they would in the same job anywhere else," she said.

"People keep saying to me, you could have quit. ... That shouldn't be your only option."

Court Ruling Clears Way For Atlantic Oil Leases

NEW YORK (AP) — The Interior Department won a last-minute appeals court decision clearing the way for the first sale of oil and natural gas leases in the Atlantic Ocean today.

Oil company executives will gather in a hotel ballroom here to present sealed bids for the right to buy leases on 876,750 acres lying 60 miles south of New York's Long Island and within 45 to 90 miles of the coasts of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and Virginia.

The Atlantic acreage, known as the Baltimore Canyon Trough, is believed to hold as much as 1.4 billion barrels of oil and up to 9.4 trillion cubic feet of gas, worth together as much as $31 billion.

The sale — expected to bring as much as $800 million — was made possible late Monday when the three-man 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned U.S. District Court Judge Jack Weinstein's injunction delaying the proceedings. He had ruled Friday in a suit by the State of New York, two of its counties and environmental groups that environmental interests should be considered more fully.

Weinstein said the Interior Department had failed to conduct thorough environmental impact studies or to consider adequately the possibility that the states might block pipelines and other facilities needed to produce and transport oil.

But Asst. U.S. Atty. J. Christopher Jensen, arguing for the Interior Department, told the appeals court that any delay in the sale would jeopardize the government's program to hasten the nation's move toward energy independence from foreign oil.

Jensen said it would be at least three years before oil production could begin and that if the Interior secretary meantime found environmental hazards, the government could suspend operations.

The appeals court called for hearings the week of Sept. 27 on the environmental issues of Atlantic oil exploration, with a final decision on whether to permit actual drilling to come later.

"We find nothing in this case which satisfies us that the Aug. 17 sale, in and of itself, will cause appellees any irreparable injury," the appeals court said in its unanimous decision.

"On the other hand, the national interests, looking toward relief of this country's energy crisis, will be clearly damaged if the proposed sale is aborted."

The sale is the latest in a series of federal offshore lease sales, which since 1954 have resulted in more than 13,000 wells that have pumped oil and gas worth more than $23.2 billion.

The high bidders on each tract in any sale win the right to search for oil and to produce any they find. Leases not developed in five years are forfeited.

State Team Wins Dart Match

DETROIT (AP) — America captured the world's first international dart match, played Sunday via trans-Atlantic telephone, when Tommy Morrow flicked a tungsten "arrow" at a regulation dart board in a suburban bar. Morrow, captain of Detroit's Wolverine Dart Association, was pitted against a corresponding competitor in the Manchester, England, Beech Hill Social Club.

U.S. Decision To Drop Sex Case 'Floors' Lawmaker's Ex-Staffer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Colleen Gardner says she is "totally bewildered, totally floored" by reports that federal prosecutors have decided against pressing criminal charges on her accusations that her congressman-boss demanded sex in return for continued employment at premium pay.

The congressman, Democrat John Young, said Monday in a statement from his Victoria, Tex., office that he was "pleased but not surprised at the position taken by the Department of Justice relative to the allegations made against me."

Young's Washington office simultaneously disclaimed knowledge of such a decision, even though the Victoria office had distributed a copy of one of the reports. It had been published in the Washington Star.

A Justice Department spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny the reports that the prosecutors will recommend dropping the probe for lack of evidence of fraud. From the beginning, Young had called the allegations "poppycock."

A lawyer close to the prosecutors said that they "never thought they'd find much there as far as a criminal indictment, anyway. ... She did do some work, after all," so government payroll funds would not have been fraudulently disbursed.

Asked about the possibility of sexual extortion as a charge, he replied, "That was never charged."

Told of that, Mrs. Gardner said Monday night, "That's very strange. I thought that's what I was charging."

She indicated that prosecutors told her one hour's work a month could satisfy the fraud law under the unique working conditions for congressional employees.

Employees of members of Congress are specifically exempted from most federal labor laws and serve at the pleasure of the official.

At the time she went public with her story two months ago, Mrs. Gardner said she was doing so in the hope other women and men who suffered under that system would come forward and force it to be changed.

No others have.

Mrs. Gardner, 28, lives in suburban Virginia with her 12-year-old child from her former marriage.

She went to federal prosecutors with testimony and tape recordings to describe what she said were almost five years, in two segments, of "humiliation and abuse" by Young. She quit his staff this past March.

commission announced the company wants a water line built to the plant site.

City commissioners said preliminary engineering indicates that water line construction would cost nearly $90,000.

Under a preliminary assessment plan, Martin Marietta would pay some $80,000 of the cost and five other property owners in front of whose property the line would be built would pay the other $10,000, according to a spokesman for Barger Engineering, the city's engineers.

In other action last night, the city commission unanimously voted to hire Milford Mellon as the city superintendent, effective Sept. 1.

Mellon, 34, has for the past 3 1/2 years been city clerk and assessor for Grant, Mich., located about 40 miles north of Grand Rapids.

The city superintendent's job has been vacant for about two years. Mellon's starting salary will be $288 weekly.

In other action, the commission:

- Created a five-member parks and recreation board, to be appointed by the mayor, for the purpose of studying and recommending to the commission ways to meet the city's recreational needs.
- Introduced an ordinance that will set new procedures for establishing special assessment districts, and determination of benefits and assessments.
- Accepted the $1,785 bid of Downing Electric Co. of Kalamazoo for two, four-way stoplights to be installed within

Rouge Cleanup Ending Today

DETROIT (AP) — The cleanup of thousands of gallons of oil, sewage and debris that poured into the River Rouge after thunderstorms last week should be completed today, according to a Coast Guard spokesman. Ens. Richard Ouellette, the on-the-scene commander, said Monday Marine Pollution Control workers were removing the material that remained near the Oakwood Drain below I-75. "Tuesday the crew will go along the shore and collect the debris pushed to the side during the cleanup and bring it to a treatment plant to reclaim the water," he said. Ouellette said the overflow was caused by flooded storm drains which dumped some 20,000 gallons of oil and untreated sewage into the river Friday.

Poison Turns Up Far At Sea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Traces of the roach poison Kepone, the cause of liver and brain damage in Virginia chemical workers, have turned up in oon-hazardous levels in fish caught hundreds of miles from the plant where it was made, a federal agency says.

GOP Roll Calls Test Of Strength

rules, scheduled to come up before the platform committee report.

Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, co-chairman of the Reagan campaign, said that if the Ford camp decides to fight the Reagan foreign policy plank "there would be a lot of political fallout." He contended that there wouldn't be any reason to challenge it if Ford could accept it as "simply a statement of principles."

The Reagan plank also contains a statement describing exiled Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn as a "great beacon of human courage and morality." Many conservative Republicans, including Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, were outraged that Ford refused to invite Solzhenitsyn to the White House when the author was in Washington.

Another platform fight is likely to occur on the abortion issue. But that does not involve a test between Ford and Reagan supporters.

The opening day was split between morning and afternoon sessions. The oratorical highlight was the keynote speech by Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, regarded as one of the leading prospects for the vice presidential nomination on a ticket headed by Ford.

Baker opened his speech with a call for "straight talk and fair common sense. For straight talk about the condition of our party, and for common sense about the needs of our nation."

Baker was the senior Republican on the Senate Watergate committee and he dealt with the scandal and its effect on the Republican Party early in his speech.

"The Watergate era was a painful time for all of us. ... We did not shy away from our duty in that difficult time, even though we knew that Watergate would be embarrassing, humiliating, and even potentially devastating," he said.

Baker went on to accuse the Democrats of "running around rattling the dusty old skeletons of Watergate all over again."

From there, Baker's keynote turned upbeat. He credited the Republicans with bringing the country out of a recession and concluded that "we can look forward with confidence and pride to a Republican year in 1976. Because we offer effective government but limited government."

What most of Baker's listeners didn't know was that the senator came under White House pressure to drop the early emphasis on Watergate.

"A lot of people were concerned about handling Watergate at the beginning of the speech fairly extensively," Baker said later. "But I thought we had to handle it and I did. ... You can't wish it away ... because in 1976, for Republicans I think it's an inevitable issue and for the Democrats, I think it's irresistible."

Monday night's schedule also offered speeches by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller. Not too many years ago the appearance of those two men at a Republican convention would incite delegates and spectators to extended demonstrations of adoration or hostility. Many at this convention could recall the night in 1964 when the delegates who gave the presidential nomination to Goldwater booed Rockefeller so loudly he was repeatedly forced to interrupt his speech.

But Goldwater and Rockefeller have become party elders to be politely applauded. The delegates listened quietly as each, in turn, called for unity and warned of the consequences of a Democratic victory in November.

Goldwater called for "a political crusade to retain the last vestiges of individual freedom." The senator said the election of Carter would bring "the same old left-wing politics which exploits the differences among people, instead of building on things they hold in common ... freedom and faith and lives of quiet honor."

Rockefeller drew laughter from the delegates when he opened his speech with a reference to his many unsuccessful tries for the presidential nomination.

"I've tried to get your nomination for 15 years," he said and then noted that "I greet you tonight as the only now-candidate I know on this program."

A potential scandal in the battle for the nomination surfaced in the Illinois delegation when Marie Goodlow of Chicago, a Ford supporter, said she was offered $2,500 to switch her vote to Reagan. Former Gov. Richard Ogilvie had said earlier he knew of two Illinois delegates who had been offered "material consideration" to switch from Ford to Reagan. Mrs. Goodlow confirmed later she was one of the delegates referred to by Ogilvie.

A spokesman for the FBI confirmed that a complaint had been lodged and that the Justice Department was considering opening an investigation.

Lynn Nofziger, a top Reagan aide, called the accusation "a cheap, two-bit, last-minute effort to smear us." Reagan called it "a falsehood" and said "there is absolutely nothing in it."

Probationer Faces Break-In Attempt Charge

A man who has been convicted five times of window peeping, according to Berrien Sheriff's Det. Fred Reeves, was arraigned Monday in Fifth District court on a new charge of attempted breaking and entering.

BRONNELL GREEN
Faces new charge

Demanding examination was Bronnell R. Green, 40, route 1, Hill road, Watervliet township. He was freed on $10,000 bond to await preliminary hearing.

Reeves said Green was arrested last Saturday on a warrant issued in connection with an alleged attempted break-in Aug. 10 at the home of William Stewart, Paw Paw lake, Watervliet township.

Reeves said Green has been arrested a total of 12 times on window peeping charges since 1964, but was convicted only five times. Reeves said Green is presently on probation after a window peeping conviction March 26, 1975.

GOP Roll Calls Test Of Strength

rules, scheduled to come up before the platform committee report.

Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, co-chairman of the Reagan campaign, said that if the Ford camp decides to fight the Reagan foreign policy plank "there would be a lot of political fallout." He contended that there wouldn't be any reason to challenge it if Ford could accept it as "simply a statement of principles."

The Reagan plank also contains a statement describing exiled Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn as a "great beacon of human courage and morality." Many conservative Republicans, including Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, were outraged that Ford refused to invite Solzhenitsyn to the White House when the author was in Washington.

Another platform fight is likely to occur on the abortion issue. But that does not involve a test between Ford and Reagan supporters.

The opening day was split between morning and afternoon sessions. The oratorical highlight was the keynote speech by Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, regarded as one of the leading prospects for the vice presidential nomination on a ticket headed by Ford.

Baker opened his speech with a call for "straight talk and for common sense. For straight talk about the condition of our party, and for common sense about the needs of our nation."

Baker was the senior Republican on the Senate Watergate committee and he dealt with the scandal and its effect on the Republican Party early in his speech.

"The Watergate era was a painful time for all of us. ... We did not shy away from our duty in that difficult time, even though we knew that Watergate would be embarrassing, humiliating, and even potentially devastating," he said.

Baker went on to accuse the Democrats of "running around rattling the dusty old skeletons of Watergate all over again."

From there, Baker's keynote turned upbeat. He credited the Republicans with bringing the country out of a recession and concluded that "we can look forward with confidence and pride to a Republican year in 1976. Because we offer effective government but limited government."

What most of Baker's listeners didn't know was that the senator came under White House pressure to drop the early emphasis on Watergate.

"A lot of people were concerned about handling Watergate at the beginning of the speech fairly extensively," Baker said later. "But I thought we had to handle it and I did. ... You can't wish it away ... because in 1976, for Republicans I think it's an inevitable issue and for the Democrats, I think it's irresistible."

Monday night's schedule also offered speeches by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller. Not too many years ago the appearance of those two men at a Republican convention would incite delegates and spectators to extended demonstrations of adoration or hostility. Many at this convention could recall the night in 1964 when the delegates who gave the presidential nomination to Goldwater booed Rockefeller so loudly he was repeatedly forced to interrupt his speech.

But Goldwater and Rockefeller have become party elders to be politely applauded. The delegates listened quietly as each, in turn, called for unity and warned of the consequences of a Democratic victory in November.

Goldwater called for "a political crusade to retain the last vestiges of individual freedom." The senator said the election of Carter would bring "the same old left-wing politics which exploits the differences among people. Instead of building on things they hold in common ... freedom and faith and lives of quiet honor."

Rockefeller drew laughter from the delegates when he opened his speech with a reference to his many unsuccessful tries for the presidential nomination.

"I've tried to get your nomination for 15 years," he said and then noted that "I greet you tonight as the only noncandidate I know on this program."

A potential scandal in the battle for the nomination surfaced in the Illinois delegation when Marie Goodlow of Chicago, a Ford supporter, said she was offered $2,500 to switch her vote to Reagan. Former Gov. Richard Ogilvie had said earlier he knew of two Illinois delegates who had been offered "material consideration" to switch from Ford to Reagan. Mrs. Goodlow confirmed later she was one of the delegates referred to by Ogilvie.

A spokesman for the FBI confirmed that a complaint had been lodged and that the Justice Department was considering opening an investigation.

Lynn Nofziger, a top Reagan aide, called the accusation "a cheap, two-bit, last-minute effort to smear us." Reagan called it "a falsehood," and said "there is absolutely nothing to it."

LMC Says He's Not Student

Delong Hendrix Jr., 29, arrested last Friday by Benton Harbor police on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants, is not a law enforcement student at Lake Michigan college, according to Lt. Michael Devine, LMC law enforcement coordinator.

Devine said Hendrix attended one class in the spring of 1975 then dropped out. Benton Harbor Patrolwoman C.J. Medders told The Herald-Palladium Hendrix said he is a current student.

Plans Revealed For Big Plant

commission announced the company wants a water line built to the plant site.

City commissioners said preliminary engineering indicates that water line construction would cost nearly $90,000.

Under a preliminary assessment plan, Martin Marietta would pay some $80,000 of the cost and five other property owners in front of whose property the line would be built would pay the other $10,000, according to a spokesman for Barger Engineering, the city's engineers.

In other action last night, the city commission unanimously voted to hire Milford Mellon as the city superintendent, effective Sept. 1.

Mellon, 34, has for the past 3½ years been city clerk and assessor for Grant, Mich., located about 40 miles north of Grand Rapids.

The city superintendent's job has been vacant for about two years. Mellon's starting salary will be $288 weekly.

In other action, the commission:

— Created a five-member parks and recreation board, to be appointed by the mayor, for the purpose of studying and recommending to the commission ways to meet the city's recreational needs.

— Introduced an ordinance that will set new procedures for establishing special assessment districts, and determination of benefits and assessments.

— Accepted the $1,765 bid of Downing Electric Co. of Kalamazoo for two, four-way stoplights to be installed within 30 days at the Lake street and Red Arrow highway intersection.

— Set for Sept. 7, the date when it will open up bids for cleaning some 5,770 feet of sewer lines along Church, Maplewood, Lake and Baldwin streets.

— Voted to lease a copy machine for $145 monthly and to donate the present city hall copy machine to the public library.

Rouge Cleanup Ending Today

DETROIT (AP) — The cleanup of thousands of gallons of oil, sewage and debris that poured into the River Rouge after thunderstorms last week should be completed today, according to a Coast Guard spokesman. Ens. Richard Ouellette, the on-the-scene commander, said Monday Marine Pollution Control workers were removing the material that remained near the Oakwood Drain below I-75. "Tuesday the crew will go along the shore and collect the debris pushed to the side during the cleanup and bring it to a treatment plant to reclaim the water," he said. Ouellette said the overflow was caused by flooded storm drains which dumped some 20,000 gallons of oil and untreated sewage into the river Friday.

ARRIVAL NEAR CHRISTMAS

Berrien To Welcome 'Explorers'

The Berrien county Bicentennial commission is making preparations to host a group of 23 "French explorers" who left Montreal in canoes Aug. 11 and will be landing in St. Joseph around Christmastime midway on their 3,000 mile journey to New Orleans.

The group, made up of Elgin, Ill., high school students, six educators, a playwright and a priest, is retracing the 1681-1682 voyage of the French explorer LaSalle.

David Upton, chairman of the county Bicentennial committee handling arrangements for their visit here, said current plans for their Dec.

19-21 stop include a mass at St. Joseph Catholic church, an address to area service clubs and a community dinner in their honor.

During the arduous eight-month expedition, the voyageurs will travel up the St. Lawrence seaway, down the Great Lakes to the western shore of Lake Michigan and around the southern end of Lake Michigan to St. Joseph.

"They appear to be a group of real dedicated and enthusiastic people," said Upton who went to Montreal last week to witness the departure of the voyageurs. "They each have chosen one of the explorers. They each have chosen one of the explorers on LaSalle's voyage, researched him carefully, and will play his role throughout the entire voyage."

The group will stop off in St. Joseph, Berrien Springs, and Niles as they travel up the St. Joseph river from the Twin Cities harbor to South Bend. At South Bend, they will make a four-mile portage to the Kankakee river, then proceed down the Mississippi river to New Orleans, where LaSalle claimed the Mississippi valley for Louis the Great and France.

"When LaSalle reached this area it was snowing and the men were cold and tired," Upton said. "It probably won't be much different for the 23 voyagers who come here this winter."

MEETING AT RAPIDS: David Upton of St. Joseph (right) meets on LeChemin rapids on St. Lawrence river near Montreal, Quebec, with Reid Lewis, Elgin, Ill., chief of "French explorers" group that left recently for canoe journey tracing Explorer LaSalle's journey to New Orleans. Group will stop at St. Joseph around Christmastime. Upton is chairman of Berrien Bicentennial committee handling host arrangements.

VOYAGEURS EMBARK: Canoe starts out on St. Lawrence river for 3,000-mile journey from near Montreal, Canada, to New Orleans in journey that will include St. Joseph, Berrien Springs and Niles.

Watervliet Girl New County Apple Queen

Stricter rules for older exhibitors at the Berrien County Youth Fair reduced the number of items entered this year but upgraded the quality of the exhibits that were accepted, according to James Harrison, fair publicity director.

At the conclusion of Entry Day yesterday, Harrison reported that 20,104 exhibits were checked into the Berrien Springs fairgrounds by 7,408 youngsters. Last year, he said, there were 1,273 more exhibits and 677 more exhibitors.

Under rules first used this year, exhibitors aged 18 through 20 must enter at least one "major exhibit." Major exhibits require more work and time than normal entries. The older teens can no longer "just exhibit a pickle on a plate for a free pass," Harrison said.

Even as the last entries were road, Watervliet. Second runner-up and Miss Congeniality honors were won by Tammy Enders, 18, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Enders, 4092 Britain avenue, Benton township.

Twelve young women and five young men, all of whom have been active for several years in fair competition, fought for the fair king and queen titles.

The winners — Scott Foster, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Foster, M-140, Niles; and Susan Bennett, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bennett, Red Bud trail, Berrien Springs — and all other contestants must have exhibits entered in this year's fair.

Scott also captured Mr. Con-

Later in the evening Scott Foster, of Niles, and Susan Bennett, of Berrien Springs, were chosen as the king and queen of the 31st annual youth fair.

Debbie Schultz, who adds the apple queen title to her title as 1976 Miss Watervliet blossom queen, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schultz, M-140, Watervliet. Debbie's connection to the Michigan apple industry is that she works at a fruit stand in Watervliet owned by her father.

There were 11 girls entered in the 25th annual apple queen contest, which is sponsored by the Berrien County Horticultural Society. Debbie will represent Berrien county in the state apple queen contest in Grand Rapids.

First runner-up was Vickie Frazee, 18, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frazee, Nichols

Principal Quits Post At Lawton

LAWTON — The Lawton school board last night accepted the resignation of high school principal Richard Weaver who has accepted a job in another school district. Weaver, principal for the past seven years, is leaving to become an assistant high school principal in Davison, Mich.

Supt. Ray Bandlow said he would begin screening applications to fill the post.

The board also accepted a resignation from Jerome Weurding who had been athletic director and a science teacher last year. Weurding has accepted a job as middle school principal for the Hanover-Horton school district near Jackson. The board had previously appointed Jorge Ortega as athletic director for the 1976-77 school year.

In other business, the board voted to ratify a two-year contract for Bandlow with a salary of $22,000 the first year. Bandlow came to the district in July, replacing George Dannecker as superintendent.

Lakeshore Hikes Debt Millage Rate

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

Lakeshore school board last night voted to increase the school district's debt retirement property tax millage rate by 1.068 mills this year in order to meet its debt obligation.

Under the action, the district's debt retirement rate will be 4.4 mills this year, compared to 3.342 mills last year. In 1974, the debt retirement rate was 6 mills.

The board also set the district's operating millage rate at 24.876 mills for this year, the same rate as last year, bringing the district's total property tax millage rate to 28.276 mills.

The debt retirement levy was determined under a state program whereby the district receives a special state payment to make up the difference between what the local rate produces and what is required.

The district qualified for the program because it levies less than 27 mills for operations.

According to William Galbreath, assistant superintendent, the 1976 debt retirement requirement will be $496,000 with the state putting up $75,000. The rest will come from the 4.4-mill rate and $22,000 in debt retirement reserves.

In 1975, the total required to be raised was $483,000. Of that, some $94,000 was paid from a reserve and the state added $79,000, leaving only $310,000 needed from last year's 3.342-mill rate. Last year was the first year the district took part in the state payment program, resulting in the levy decrease from 1974's six-mill rate.

The district's state equalized valuation for 1976 is $91,359,079 compared to $92,688,530 in 1975.

In other areas, the board took no action on a resignation submitted by Mrs. Mary Jane Waldenmaier, board secretary. Mrs. Waldenmaier, who is beginning her seventh year on the board said her family is moving from the district. She said she would like her resignation to become effective in September.

John Steinke, board president said the board would accept her resignation at the board's regular September meeting and appoint a replacement at that time. Mrs. Waldenmaier has two years left on her second four-year term. Steinke said the appointee would only serve one year, then the seat would be up for election in June, 1977, for the remaining one year.

The board also hired another assistant high school principal. Hired was David Clark of Stanton at a first year salary of $18,000. Clark has been a social studies teacher at Central Montcalm school, Stanton, for the past five years. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Idaho, plus master's and education specialist from Western Michigan university. Clark is divorced and has one son. Dennis Kniola is the school district's other assistant high school principal.

The board awarded the milk contract for 1976-77 school year to McDonald's Dairy, Benton Harbor, on its low bids of 9.19 cents and 10.09 cents for half pints of white and chocolate milk, respectively. Lockshore Farms, Kalamazoo was the only other bidder.

Buchanan School Taxes Boosted

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan school board last night set the district's 1976 tax levy at 31.776 mills, an increase of 3.786 mills over the 1975 levy.

The increase was brought about by boosts in the levy for operations and for debt retirement and will produce an estimated $1,787,554 locally for operations and another $187,432 for debt retirement. School officials said they will have to wait until they can compute state aid and settle a teachers' contract before the budget can be set for the 1976-77 school year.

A breakdown of the 1976 levy includes 28.776 mills for operations, compared to 25.376 mills in 1975. Voters in June approved a 20.4-mill levy which included a 17-mill renewal and an added 3.4-mill levy.

For debt retirement, the new rate is three mills, compared to 2.615 for 1975.

In other business, the board approved the high school student attendance policy presented by Dr. Walter Vanderbush, high school principal.

Under the new policy, if a student is absent for more than 10 days in a 90-day semester, the student will be required to bakery products from Buttermaid Bakery of South Bend.

The board voted not to take tuition students whose parents did not pay tuition bills last year.

Business Manager Paul Montgomery was authorized to apply for $8,223 in state aid for which the district has become eligible by spreading a debt levy less than what it has authority to spread.

ARRIVAL NEAR CHRISTMAS

Berrien To Welcome 'Explorers'

The Berrien county Bicentennial commission is making preparations to host a group of 23 "French explorers" who left Montreal in canoes Aug. 11 and will be landing in St. Joseph around Christmastime midway on their 3,000 mile journey to New Orleans.

The group, made up of Elgin, Ill., high school students, six educators, a playwright and a priest, is retracing the 1681-1682 voyage of the French explorer LaSalle.

David Upton, chairman of the county Bicentennial committee handling arrangements for their visit here, said current plans for their Dec.

19-21 stop include a mass at St. Joseph Catholic church, an address to area service clubs and a community dinner in their honor.

During the arduous eight-month expedition, the voyageurs will travel up the St. Lawrence seaway, down the Great Lakes to the western shore of Lake Michigan and around the southern end of Lake Michigan to St. Joseph.

"They appear to be a group of real dedicated and enthusiastic people," said Upton who went to Montreal last week to witness the departure of the voyageurs. "They each have chosen one of the explorers. They each have chosen one of the explorers on LaSalle's voyage, researched him carefully, and will play his role throughout the entire voyage."

The group will stop off in St. Joseph, Berrien Springs, and Niles as they travel up the St. Joseph river from the Twin Cities harbor to South Bend. At South Bend, they will make a four-mile portage to the Kankakee river, then proceed down the Mississippi river to New Orleans, where LaSalle claimed the Mississippi valley for Louis the Great and France.

"When LaSalle reached this area it was snowing and the men were cold and tired," Upton said. "It probably won't be much different for the 23 voyagers who come here this winter."

VOYAGEURS EMBARK: Canoe starts out on St. Lawrence river for 3,000-mile journey from near Montreal, Canada, to New Orleans in journey that will include St. Joseph, Berrien Springs and Niles.

MEETING AT RAPIDS: David Upton of St. Joseph (right) meets on LeChemin rapids on St. Lawrence river near Montreal, Quebec, with Reid Lewis, Elgin, Ill., chief of "French explorers" group that left recently for canoe journey tracing Explorer LaSalle's journey to New Orleans. Group will stop at St. Joseph around Christmastime. Upton is chairman of Berrien Bicentennial committee handling host arrangements.

PRIEST IS READY: At age 54, Fr. Loran Fuchs, OFM, of Catholic Order of St. Anthony's Friary, St. Louis, Mo., is oldest member of French explorers group that is tracing LaSalle's canoe route from Canada to New Orleans.

Stricter rules for older exhibitors at the Berrien County Youth Fair reduced the number of items entered this year but upgraded the quality of the exhibits that were accepted, according to James Harrison, fair publicity director.

At the conclusion of Entry Day yesterday, Harrison reported that 20,104 exhibits were checked into the Berrien Springs fairgrounds by 7,408 youngsters. Last year, he said, there were 1,273 more exhibits and 677 more exhibitors.

Under rules first used this year, exhibitors aged 18 through 20 must enter at least one "major exhibit." Major exhibits require more work and time than normal entries. The older teens can no longer "just exhibit a pickle on a plate for a free pass," Harrison said.

Later in the evening Scott Foster, of Niles, and Susan Bennett, of Berrien Springs, were chosen as the king and queen of the 31st annual youth fair.

Debbie Schultz, who adds the apple queen title to her title as 1976 Miss Watervliet blossom queen, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schultz, M-140, Watervliet. Debbie's connection to the Michigan apple industry is that she works at a fruit stand in Watervliet owned by her father.

There were 11 girls entered in the 25th annual apple queen contest, which is sponsored by the Berrien County Horticultural Society. Debbie will represent Berrien county in the state apple queen contest in Grand Rapids.

LAWTON — The Lawton school board last night accepted the resignation of high school principal Richard Weaver who has accepted a job in another school district. Weaver, principal for the past seven years, is leaving to become an assistant high school principal in Davison, Mich.

Supt. Ray Bandlow said he would begin screening applications to fill the post.

The board also accepted a resignation from Jerome Weurding who had been athletic director and a science teacher last year. Weurding has accepted a job as middle school principal for the Hanover-Horton school district near Jackson. The board had previously appointed Jorge Ortegón as athletic director for the 1976-77 school year.

In other business, the board voted to ratify a two-year contract for Bandlow with a salary of $22,000 the first year. Bandlow came to the district in July, replacing George Dannecker as superintendent.

The board also accepted the low bid on dairy products from McDonald Dairy Co. of Benton Harbor at 8.29 cents for half-pints of white milk and nine cents for half-pints of chocolate milk, as well as the low bid for geniality honors, while on the girls' side the honor was captured by Diane Sonnenberg, 17, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sonnenberg, Watervliet. Diane's sister, Janice, was last year's apple queen.

Debt Millage Rate

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

Lakeshore school board last night voted to increase the school district's debt retirement property tax millage rate by 1.058 mills this year in order to meet its debt obligation.

Under the action, the district's debt retirement rate will be 4.4 mills this year, compared to 3.342 mills last year. In 1974, the debt retirement rate was 6 mills.

The board also set the district's operating millage rate at 24.876 mills for this year, the same rate as last year, bringing the district's total property tax millage rate to 29.276 mills.

The debt retirement levy was determined under a state program whereby the district receives a special state payment to make up the difference between what the local rate produces and what is required.

The district qualified for the program because it levies less than 27 mills for operations.

According to William Galbreath, assistant superintendent, the 1976 debt retirement requirement will be $498,000 with the state putting up $75,000. The rest will come from the 4.4-mill rate and $22,000 in debt retirement reserves.

In 1975, the total required to be raised was $483,000. Of that, some $94,000 was paid from a reserve and the state added $79,000, leaving only $310,000 needed from last year's 3.342-mill rate. Last year was the first year the district took part in the state payment program, resulting in the levy decrease from 1974's six-mill rate.

The district's state equalized valuation for 1976 is $91,359,079 compared to $92,688,530 in 1975.

In other areas, the board took no action on a resignation submitted by Mrs. Mary Jane Waldenmaier, board secretary. Mrs. Waldenmaier, who is beginning her seventh year on the board said her family is moving from the district. She said she would like her resignation to become effective in September.

John Steinke, board president said the board would accept her resignation at the board's regular September meeting and appoint a replacement at that time. Mrs. Waldenmaier has two years left on her second four-year term. Steinke said the appointee would only serve one year, then the seat would be up for election in June, 1977, for the remaining one year.

The board also hired another assistant high school principal. Hired was David Clark of Stanton at a first year salary of $18,000. Clark has been a social studies teacher at Central Montcalm school, Stanton, for the past five years. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Idaho, plus master's and education specialist from Western Michigan university. Clark is divorced and has one son, Dennis. Dennis is the school district's other assistant high school principal.

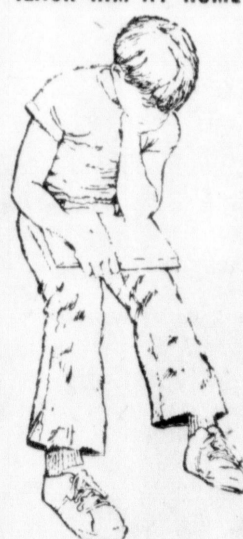

The board awarded the milk contract for 1976-77 school year to McDonald's Dairy, Benton Harbor, on its low bids of 9.19 cents and 10.09 cents for half pints of white and chocolate milk, respectively. Lockshore Farms, Kalamazoo was the only other bidder.

SINKS PRESSURE PUTT

'Positive' Stockton Wins

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Dave Stockton predicted three days before the end of the PGA national championship that he would win. Few believed him.

"I'm a positive thinker," said Stockton, a student of the science of psychology, the science of mind over matter. "I play well in the PGA more often than not."

But even Stockton, scambler extraordinaire, admitted he was shocked to learn that he led by only one stroke in Monday's final round Monday of the rain-delayed PGA tournament as he strolled down the 18th fairway. His worst fear — a sudden death playoff.

"I really chopped it up on the 13th and 14th holes and I didn't want to go back out there for a playoff," he said, adding with a smile: "I wouldn't have been the favorite."

The 34-year-old Stockton, using a three-wood because he had been wild with his driver, put his ball slightly to the right near the rough on No. 18, a 465-yard par four. He was short of the green by about five feet with a two iron, the ball on a slight downslope. He chipped to about 15 feet of the pin.

Then, with the $45,000 first prize on the line, Stockton did what he does most often — he sank the 15-foot putt to give him the title by a single stroke at 281, one over par on the Congressional Country Club course, playground of presidents in the Washington, D.C., suburb.

Stockton's one-putt on the 72nd hole was a repeat of his performance during the last 36 holes of the tournament that was twice-delayed because of rain, causing the championship round to be held on Monday.

In the last two rounds, Stockton needed only 51 putts — 25 on Saturday and 26 on Monday — which he said was about normal for him.

He needed the hot putter, however, because his driver went awry.

Stockton, who had rounds of 70, 72, 68 and 70, gained an advantage when three earlier leaders — Charles Coody, Jack Nicklaus and Don January — suffered double bogeys on the final round.

Masters champion Ray Floyd and the veteran January tied for second — they were watching by the 18th green hoping to gain a playoff spot — at 282. January had a 72 on the final round, Floyd a 71.

Defending champion Nicklaus, Australian David Graham, John Schles and rookie Jerry Pate, the U.S. and Canadian Open champion, were another stroke back at 283.

Tom Weiskopf, Ben Crenshaw, Jerry McGee, second-round leader Dr. Gil Morgan and Charles Coody, who led at the beginning of the final day, were at 284.

All had a chance to win the PGA, the last of the year's four major international tests of golfing greatness. All failed.

At the news conference, he kidded one newsmen by saying: "I gave you an exclusive three days ago when I told you I was going to win it. You blew it because you didn't use it."

Nicklaus' failure to mount a late charge deprived him of a major championship for the year and brought from him the admission that 1976 — no matter what may happen in the ensuing four months — was "a disappointment."

Connors Sweeps To Clay Crown

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "I think Jimmy Connors is the player who can produce the best (tennis) game in the world. He can lose, but if he's playing at his best, he is the best player in the world." — Wojtek Fibak.

"I'll agree to that." — Jimmy Connors.

Fibak, the No. 1 player in Poland, was openly in awe of Connors' performance Monday night in the championship match of the U.S. Clay Court tennis tournament.

Connors, playing nearly flawless tennis and displaying uncommon seriousness that showed his intent to win, never trailed, coasting to an easy 6-2, 6-4 victory and a first prize of $25,000.

"I tried my best, but he was too good, too good," Fibak said, shaking his head after the nationally televised tennis lesson that cost him $12,500 — the difference between first and second prize.

"I did have some strategy, to slow down the game," the 11th-seeded Fibak said. "But any time I did that, he hit so hard I was out of position."

Connors and Fibak are both 23 years old. Connors has been at the top of the tennis world; Fibak would like to get there.

For the second time in two weeks, Fibak reached the championship round of a major tournament, but he came up against Connors at his best and left the court still looking for his first winner's trophy.

"I had a lot of tough matches all week," said Fibak, who beat three seeded players in earlier rounds, including No. 2 Guillermo Vilas on Sunday. "But in those matches I could do what I wanted to do. Tonight, I had to do what he wanted to do."

Connors, told that Fibak considered him capable of being the best player in the world, agreed quickly. But he added, "If (Ilie) Nastase's playing at his best, then he's the best player in the world."

Connors was then asked what would happen if both he and Nastase were at their best and met each other.

"Well," Connors hesitated for a moment, "I am confident I can beat anyone, so I would have to say I'd win."

Fibak would not argue that point.

The men's doubles championship was won by top-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico and Brian Gottfried, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who beat Freddie McNeil, Chevy Chase, Md., and Sherwood Stewart, Goose Creek, Tex., 6-2, 6-2.

The winners received $3,500 each, while the losers took home $1,750 apiece.

In Sunday's women's finals, Kathy May of Beverly Hills, Calif., received $6,000 for beating South African Brigitte Cuypers, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

South Africans Linky Boshoff and Ilana Kloss beat Laura DuPont, Charlotte, N.C., and Wendy Turnbull, Australia, 6-2, 6-3, for the women's doubles title.

Prize money in the week-long tournament at the Indianapolis Racquet Club totaled $157,000.

'Positive' Stockton Wins

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Dave Stockton predicted three days before the end of the PGA national championship that he would win. Few believed him.

"I'm a positive thinker," said Stockton, a student of psychocyanetics, the science of mind over matter. "I play well in the PGA more often than not."

But even Stockton, a scrambler extraordinaire, admitted he was shocked to learn that he led by only one stroke in Monday's final round of the rain-delayed PGA tournament as he strolled down the 18th fairway. His worst fear — a sudden death playoff.

"I really chopped it up on the 13th and 14th holes and I didn't want to go back out there for a playoff," he said, adding with a smile: "I wouldn't have been the favorite."

The 34-year-old Stockton, using a three-wood because he had been wild with his driver, put his ball slightly to the right near the rough on No. 18, a 465-yard par four. He was short of the green by about five feet with a two iron, the ball on a slight downslope. He chipped to about 15 feet of the pin.

Then, with the $45,000 first prize on the line, Stockton did what he does most often — he sank the 15-foot putt to give him the title by a single stroke at 281, one over par on the Congressional Country Club course, playground of presidents in the Washington, D.C., suburb.

Stockton's one-putt on the 72nd hole was a repeat of his performance during the last 36 holes of the tournament that was twice-delayed because of rain, causing the championship round to be held on Monday.

In the last two rounds, Stockton needed only 51 putts — 25 on Saturday and 26 on Monday — which he said was about normal for him.

He needed the hot putter, however, because his driver went awry.

Stockton, who had rounds of 70, 72, 69 and 70, gained an advantage when three earlier leaders — Charles Coody, Jack Nicklaus and Don January — suffered double bogeys on the final round.

Masters champion Ray Floyd and the veteran January tied for second — they were watching by the 18th green hoping to gain a playoff spot — at 282. January had a 72 on the final round, Floyd a 71.

Defending champion Nicklaus, Australian David Graham, John Schlee and rookie Jerry Pate, the U.S. and Canadian Open champion, were another stroke back at 283.

Tom Weiskopf, Ben Crenshaw, Jerry McGee, second-round leader Dr. Gil Morgan and Charles Coody, who led at the beginning of the final day, were at 284.

All had a chance to win the PGA, the last of the year's four major international tests of golfing greatness. All failed.

At the news conference, he kidded one newsmen by saying: "I gave you an exclusive three days ago when I told you I was going to win it. You blew it because you didn't use it."

Nicklaus' failure to mount a late charge deprived him of a major championship for the year and brought from him the admission that 1976 — no matter what may happen in the ensuing four months — was "a disappointment."

Connors Sweeps

To Clay Crown

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "I think Jimmy Connors is the player who can produce the best (tennis) game in the world. He can lose, but if he's playing at his best, he is the best player in the world." — Wojtek Fibak.

"I'll agree to that," — Jimmy Connors.

Fibak, the No. 1 player in Poland, was openly in awe of Connors' performance Monday night in the championship match of the U.S. Clay Court tennis tournament.

Connors, playing nearly flawless tennis and displaying uncommon seriousness that showed his intent to win, never trailed, coasting to an easy 6-2, 6-4 victory and a first prize of $25,000.

"I tried my best, but he was too good, too good," Fibak said, shaking his head after the nationally televised tennis lesson that cost him $12,500 — the difference between first and second prize.

"I did have some strategy, to slow down the game," the 11th-seeded Fibak said. "But any time I did that, he hit so hard I was out of position."

Connors and Fibak are both 23 years old. Connors has been at the top of the tennis world; Fibak would like to get there.

For the second time in two weeks, Fibak reached the championship round of a major tournament, but he came up against Connors at his best and left the court still looking for his first winner's trophy.

"I had a lot of tough matches all week," said Fibak, who beat three seeded players in earlier rounds, including No. 2 Guillermo Vilas on Sunday. "But in those matches I could do what I wanted to do. Tonight, I had to do what he wanted to do."

Connors, told that Fibak considered him capable of being the best player in the world, agreed quickly. But he added, "If (I)be Nastase's playing at his best, then he's the best player in the world."

Connors was then asked what would happen if both he and Nastase were at their best and met each other.

"Well," Connors hesitated for a moment. "I am confident I can beat anyone, so I would have to say I'd win."

Fibak would not argue that

Surprising Browns

Overpower Vikings

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns' owner Art Modell treated the home crowd to a sensational fireworks display at halftime Monday night, but it didn't compare to the explosion by the Browns.

They stunned the partisan throng of 44,336 in Cleveland Stadium by charging to three touchdowns in the second quarter and completely overpowering the vaunted Minnesota Vikings 31-7.

With Greg Pruitt leading the way, the surprising Browns amassed 235 yards rushing and a total offense of 333 yards, while the rejuvenated Cleveland defense stopped the Vikings cold.

Playing without regulars like quarterback Fran Tarkenton and running backs Chuck Foreman and Brent McClanahan, Minnesota gained 245 yards, only 76 on the ground.

In Monday's other NFL exhibition, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the San Diego Chargers 20-10 in Tokyo in the first professional football game ever played away from the North American continent.

"I believe we're for real," Pruitt said in the happy Cleveland dressing room. "We have a good winning attitude. The team is hungry and anxious to redeem themselves from last year."

Browns' Coach Forrest Gregg also believes the improvement is real, but cautioned, "They didn't start all their regulars ... they had a lot of good football players on the bench."

Pruitt, who had 83 yards in 15 carries, capped a 70-yard drive early in the second period with a one-yard run. The Browns then took advantage of a pair of quick fumbles by Vikings fullback Willie Spencer to add a one-yard score by Cleo Miller and an eight-yard touchdown by Larry Poole.

The Browns added 10 points in the fourth period on a 43-yard field goal by Don Cockroft and a 28-yard scoring strike from rookie quarterback David Mays to wide receiver Steve Holden, completing a 90-yard drive.

The Cardinals, who let the Chargers catch up after taking a 10-0 lead, won the game on a 52-yard pass from Jim Hart to Ike Harris in the third quarter and an estimated 38,000 fans looked on at Korakuen Stadium.

St. Louis took their 10-point lead on a 30-yard Jim Bakken field goal in the first quarter and a 15-yard Jim Donckers to Pat Tilley in the second.

Strange Strikeout Snaps A's Streak

Evans, Boston Rip White Sox

From Associated Press
For it's one, two, three strikes you're out of the old ballgame... as Billy Williams learned Monday night for the first time in his brilliant 17-year career.

Williams, who had already fanned twice and grounded out, stepped to the plate in the eighth inning with runners at first and third and two out and the Oakland A's clinging to a 3-2 lead over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Danny Frisella pitched, Billy Williams watched and umpire Bill Kunkel said, "Strike one."

"I figure I know the strike-zone pretty well and that first pitch was high and inside," Williams insisted. "I complained. I have a reputation for not complaining, so I guess I'm not supposed to."

Frisella pitched again, Williams watched again and this time Kunkel said, "Strike two."

"The second pitch was on the ground," Williams said, "but because I had complained, it was called a strike. I complained again and he ordered me back into the box. But I wasn't ready to get back in because I figured anything Frisella threw anywhere near the plate would be called strike three. I wasn't ready to be called out that way."

But that's the way it was. Kunkel told Frisella to pitch even though Williams was out of the box and strike three it was, an automatic call in such cases.

What hurt even more was Von Joshua's two-run single in the bottom of the ninth, lifting the Brewers to a 4-3 victory that snapped the A's nine-game winning streak and dropped them eight games behind Kansas City in the American League West.

Elsewhere, Kansas City beat Cleveland 6-1, the New York Yankees downed Texas 5-1, Baltimore trimmed Minnesota 8-4 and Boston whipped the Chicago White Sox 12-5. Detroit and California were not scheduled.

Amos Otis and Tom Poquette hit two-run first-inning homers off Jackie Brown as Kansas City whipped Cleveland behind Marty Pattin's three-hitter, including George Hendrick's 20th homer.

Otis has socked four homers in the last seven games and the latest was the 100th of his career.

Mickey Rivers and Fred Stanley homered, Graig Nettles drove in two runs with a double and single and Chris Chambliss slammed a run-scoring double as the Yankees unleashed a 13-hit attack in support of Catfish Hunter's seven-hit pitching.

Ken Singleton's three-run homer off Tom Burgmeier capped Baltimore's five-run fifth as the Orioles won their fourth in a row to remain 9½ games behind the Yanks. Mark Belanger doubled home the first two runs while Ross Grimsley won for the fifth time in his last six decisions.

Dwight Evans drove in three runs and a shaky Luis Tiant picked up his 13th victory as the Boston Red Sox defeated the White Sox to snap a three-game losing streak.

Tiant, 13-10, allowed nine hits in five innings before needing help from Bill Lee. Evans drove in the final run of Boston's six-run third inning with a grounder and drove home two more with a bases-loaded single in the seventh when the Red Sox added five more runs.

The win was Tiant's fourth of the year against Chicago in as many decisions and his 19th career win over the White Sox. Bart Johnson, 9-11, was the loser.

Spartans Lose Kim Rowekamp

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State has lost yet another starter for the 1976 football season.

Coach Darryl Rogers said Monday veteran defensive lineman Kim Rowekamp will be on the sidelines for the season opener against Ohio State Sept. 11.

Rowekamp, a three-year letterman from Kalamazoo, tore up his knee against Illinois in the seventh game of the 1975 season and still has not fully recovered from surgery, Rogers said.

Other Spartans sidelined for the opening game include quarterback Eddie Smith, defensive backs Ted Bell and Joe Hunt, defensive linemen Melvin Land, Larry Bethea, Jim Epolito and tight end Mike Cobb.

Bell, Land, Bethea, Epolito and Smith were suspended for one game, Cobb for five and Hunt for the entire season as a result of a National Collegiate Athletic Association investigation initiated by OSU Coach Woody Hayes.

Rogers said Rowekamp's knee problem "is not the same as the others who had surgery last season and it just takes a little more time to heal. We want him as healthy as possible; we're not going to take a chance on getting him hurt."

"Kim hasn't passed the physical for leg strength yet," Rogers said. "It looks like we're not going to have him."

"He'll be here when we start practice but we don't want to rush him into anything and I wouldn't even think about using him late in the season, and losing his final year of eligibility, if he's not ready early," Rogers said.

The 6-foot-three, 253-pounder has been a starter since his sophomore year.

Ganakas Appointed

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Former Michigan State University basketball Coach Gus Ganakas has been named an assistant athletic director at MSU.

Ganakas, who will assist Athletic Director Joe Kearney, will be in charge of departmental and high school relations, it was announced Monday. The appointment is effective immediately.

Kearney said Ganakas will be involved in a planned high school advisory board made up of prep coaches, athletic directors and administrators. The board will meet periodically and confer with the university's athletic department.

Other responsibilities may include development of a speaker's bureau, film service, summer and vacation jobs for athletes and special projects for the departments, Kearney said.

Ganakas was replaced as head basketball coach earlier this year after amassing a total MSU record of 89-84 in seven seasons.

Sellout For U-M

ANN ARBOR — University of Michigan athletic department ticket manager Al Renfrew has announced that the home football game between Michigan and Wake Forest on Oct. 2 is a sellout.

It marks the second sellout of the season, the first involving the Oct. 9 date with Michigan State.

"The sellout means that we have cut off individual game sales for these particular games," said Renfrew. "However, we have set aside enough season ticket booklets to handle the anticipated requests right up until Sept. 10, the day before the home opener with Wisconsin."

Demand for season tickets is running 9,300 ahead of last year when Michigan set an NCAA record by averaging 98,449 for seven home games.

ROTARY CONTRIBUTION: Elden Butzbaugh Jr., representing the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Rotary Club, presents a $1,000 check to Dale Kubicki, new athletic director at St. Joseph, as outgoing athletic director George Waning looks on. The money is proceeds from the Rotary Track meet held in June and is going towards paying off the all-weather track. The track, which has been used three school years, was built entirely with public contributions. But when that came up short, St. Joe used general athletic funds, which is being paid back. Of the $5,000 initially borrowed, only $1,000 remains to be paid back after the latest contribution. (Staff photo)

Injured Braves Top Reds

Sperring's Hit Lifts Cubs Past Astros

From Associated Press
The Atlanta Braves have been a beleaguered tribe since the All-Star break — seven players on crutches and a myriad assortment of ailments and injuries.

"At one time it looked like we were fighting the Civil War again," says Manager Dave Bristol.

With all these walking wounded in Atlanta uniforms, one might suspect that the Cincinnati Reds were caught off guard Monday night. The National League West leaders were ambushed 4-3 by the Braves.

Adrian Devine proved to be the undoing of Cincinnati. Just when the Reds attempted an uprising in the eighth inning, the Braves' relief pitcher put out the fire. It was his fourth save of the season and his third in his last three appearances.

"He's one of the seven guys we've had on crutches since mid-summer," acknowledged Bristol.

Pete Rose reached some plateaus for the Reds, his 2,700th career hit and his 100th run scored this season. Still, he would have traded both of them for a victory.

"I should have tried it sooner," said Rose of his bunt single in the eighth inning that ignited the rally that drove Carl Morton to the showers. "We were dead. We needed something to get us going."

Morton, 3-9, allowed five hits in 7 2-3 innings, overcoming the 10-strikeout pitching of Fred Norman, 11-3, whose lifetime record at Riverfront Stadium dropped to 32-8.

After Morton gave up two runs in the eighth that cut the Atlanta lead to 4-3, he was tagged for a two-out triple by George Foster. Devine came on at this point and forced Tony Perez to ground out and retired the Reds 1-2-3 in the ninth. It was the Reds' third straight defeat, matching their longest losing streak of the season.

In the only other National League games Monday night, the San Diego Padres outscored the St. Louis Cardinals 11-7 and the Chicago Cubs whipped the Houston Astros 5-3.

Willie Davis smacked a two-run double and Enzo Hernandez a bases-loaded triple to highlight an eight-run ninth inning that carried San Diego over St. Louis. The outburst by the Padres, at the expense of four Cardinal pitchers, nullified a five-hit performance by St. Louis' Lou Brock.

Rob Sperring's two-run single with two out in the ninth inning broke a 3-3 tie, lifting the Chicago Cubs to a triumph. Bruce Sutter, 3-3, hurled the final two innings for the Cubs to gain the victory. Houston starter Larry Dierker, 12-11, absorbed the loss.

Singles by Pete LaCock and Manny Trillo and a walk to Steve Swisher preceded Sperring's two-run hit to left off Dierker as the Astros fell for the 12th time in their last 15 contests.

Stroh's Tops Plangger Ace

Ausco's Takes 'D' Title; Two Finals Tonight

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Stroh's finally found a way to beat Rich Robards Monday night. But it took a shutout to do it.

Robards was a victim of his own wildness as the Niles team claimed a thrilling 1-0 victory from Plangger's No. 2 team in the Class B district fast pitch softball tournament at Plangger's Park.

In other tournament action Monday, Clark's of Buchanan shutout Michigan Bell 5-0 in Class C and Ausco's clinched the Class D crown with a 5-4 win over Barchett's Sporting Goods.

Clark's will again take on Michigan Bell at 7:30 tonight for the Class C title. Plangger's No. 2 will face Stroh's for the Class B crown at 8:45 and Robards is again expected to be on the mound for Plangger's.

The crafty lefthander Robards had fanned 32 batters in hurling a pair of tournament shutouts. But Stroh's coach Ted Losievski said he has found the way to beat Robards.

"When we played them before everybody was going for bad pitches and he struck out 18," Losievski said. "We finally used some psychology. We worked on choking up on the bat and not trying to go for the fence and it worked out."

Plangger's coach Russ Pultz gave a different reason for the loss.

"We just didn't get Rich any hits," he said.

And indeed they didn't. Plangger's could muster just two hits off winning pitcher George Pangman, who struck out three and did not walk a batter. Pangman faced just 23 batters, two over the minimum.

The big break for the winners

came in the seventh when Robards, who struck out nine, walked the first two batters. Pangman then laid down a bunt and beat it out for an infield single to load the bases. Even then Robards nearly pitched his way out of trouble.

The husky fastballer struck out John O'Reilly and got Mike Losievski to hit one right back to him for a force out at the plate. But leadoff hitter Bill Haslett singled to center to plate the only run of the game.

"I was just wild tonight," Robards said. But even then he only issued three free passes.

Robards expects to be ready for tonight's title game.

"I'm going to go home, take a bath and get a good night's sleep," he said after the game. "The main thing I have to keep in shape is my legs because when they go, the arm will burn out."

Though just 36, Robards is playing his 24th year of softball. The last 13 have been spent with a Plangger's sponsored team, the first 10 with the No. 1 squad and the last three with Plangger's No. 2.

The change to the No. 2 team came as a result of the travel demands made on the team members of the No. 1 team.

"I played 10 years and that's long enough with all the traveling," Robards said. "It got so we played every weekend. It's a great sponsor and great team, but it just was too much on the road."

Robards, instead, went to the No. 2 team not only to play but to also help some of the younger pitchers on the team. His liking for softball began as a child and the challenge has stayed with him.

"The only thing I can do is pitch," he said. "I grew up in the country and all they let you play was softball. The challenge is the big thing, though. If you can get the batter out yourself, it gives you a feeling of pride. If you can't, that's what the other players are for."

Clark's also got a strong pitching effort in its win. Fred Olson yielded just five hits in the victory. Randy Havel collected three hits for Clark's.

Ausco's scored five times in the fifth and held off a late Barchett's rally for the win. Chuck Daniels had a triple and a single for Ausco's. Jim Etter slammed three hits for the losers.

LMC Volleyball Tryouts Slated

Lake Michigan College will hold girls volleyball tryouts from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the LMC gym. All those interested in trying out for the team must be a full time student and must attend at least two of the tryouts. For any other questions contact Liz Miller at 429-7828.

RV Calls Cagers

THREE OAKS — All girls in grades nine through 12 interested in participating on the River Valley varsity or junior varsity girls basketball teams should report at 1 p.m. Wednesday to the River Valley high school gym.

'Bird', Tanana Matched Tonight

DETROIT (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych has, at the most, only 11 starts left this season, but unless the Detroit Tigers' pitching ace totally falls apart, it may be just enough for him to win 20 games.

Fidrych, who goes for his 14th victory tonight against California, could become the first Tiger rookie to win 20 games since Oren "Kickapoo" Ed. Summers set an American League record with 24 victories in 1906.

The last Tiger pitcher to win 20 games in a season was Joe Coleman in 1973.

Dowagiac Loses Two Coaches

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac school board accepted the resignations of Dowagiac baseball coach Dave Mahar and basketball coach and girls coach Pat Taylor.

Mahar coached Dowagiac for two years and this past season the Chieftains finished with their best record (18-9) in school history. He plans to go into private business.

Taylor was the girls volleyball and basketball coach.

Fidrych, 13-4, will face the Angels' Frank Tanana tonight as the Tigers open a 10-game home stand. Tanana, a former Detroit resident, is no slouch on the mound either.

Tanana, 14-8, is second in the American League in strikeouts with 175, behind teammate Nolan Ryan, who's fanned 216 thus far.

Aalfs Standout In Softball Win

NILES — Joan Aalfs hurled a two-hitter as C&S of Buchanan topped Midwest 10-0 Monday night in women's district softball action at Plym Park. Kathy Neidbalski had two hits for the winners.

Kelly Letcher and Teresa Carson both slugged three hits as I.M.W. downed Canady Music 14-5.

Tonight's game has Canady playing C&S at 7:30.

Strange Strikeout Snaps A's Streak

Evans, Boston Rip White Sox

From Associated Press
For it's one, two, three strikes you're out of the old ballgame ... as Billy Williams learned Monday night for the first time in his brilliant 17-year career.

Williams, who had already fanned twice and grounded out, stepped to the plate in the eighth inning with runners at first and third and two out and the Oakland A's clinging to a 3-2 lead over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Danny Frisella pitched. Billy Williams watched and umpire Bill Kunkel said, "Strike one."

"I figure I know the strike zone pretty well and that first pitch was high and inside," Williams insisted. "I complained. I have a reputation for not complaining, so I guess I'm not supposed to."

Frisella pitched again. Williams watched again and this time Kunkel said, "Strike two."

"The second pitch was on the ground," Williams said, "but because I had complained, it was called a strike. I complained again and he ordered me back into the box. But I wasn't ready to get back in because I figured anything Frisella threw anywhere near the plate would be called strike three. I wasn't ready to be called out that way."

But that's the way it was. Kunkel told Frisella to pitch even though Williams was out of the box and strike three it was, an automatic call in such cases.

What hurt even more was Von Joshua's two-run single in the bottom of the ninth, lifting the Brewers to a 4-3 victory that snapped the A's nine-game winning streak and dropped them eight games behind Kansas City in the American League West.

Elsewhere, Kansas City beat Cleveland 6-1, the New York Yankees downed Texas 5-1, Baltimore trimmed Minnesota 8-4 and Boston whipped the Chicago White Sox 12-5. Detroit and California were not scheduled.

Amos Otis and Tom Poquette hit two-run first-inning homers off Jackie Brown as Kansas City whipped Cleveland behind Marty Pattin's three-hitter, including George Hendrick's 20th homer.

Otis has socked four homers in the last seven games and the latest was the 100th of his career.

Mickey Rivers and Fred Stanley homered, Graig Nettles drove in two runs with a double and single and Chris Chambliss slammed a run-scoring double as the Yankees unleashed a 13-hit attack in support of Catfish Hunter's seven-hit pitching.

Ken Singleton's three-run homer off Tom Burgeier capped Baltimore's five-run fifth as the Orioles won their fourth in a row to remain 9½ games behind the Yanks. Mark Belanger doubled home the first two runs while Ross Grimsley won for the fifth time in his last six decisions.

Dwight Evans drove in three runs and a shaky Luis Tiant picked up his 13th victory as the Boston Red Sox defeated the White Sox to snap a three-game losing streak.

Tiant, 13-10, allowed nine hits in five innings before needing help from Bill Lee. Evans drove in the final run of Boston's six-run third inning with a grounder and drove home two more with a bases-loaded single in the seventh when the Red Sox added five more runs.

The win was Tiant's fourth of the year against Chicago in as many decisions and his 19th career win over the White Sox.

Bart Johnson, 9-11, was the loser.

Injured Braves Top Reds

Sperring's Hit Lifts Cubs Past Astros

From Associated Press

The Atlanta Braves have been a beleaguered tribe since the All-Star break — seven players on crutches and a myriad assortment of ailments and injuries.

"At one time it looked like we were fighting the Civil War again," says Manager Dave Bristol.

With all these walking wounded in Atlanta uniforms, one might suspect that the Cincinnati Reds were caught off guard Monday night. The National League West leaders were ambushed 4-3 by the Braves.

Adrian Devine proved to be the undoing of Cincinnati. Just when the Reds attempted an uprising in the eighth inning, the Braves' relief pitcher put out the fire. It was his fourth save of the season and his third in his last three appearances.

"He's one of the seven guys we've had on crutches since mid-summer," acknowledged Bristol.

Pete Rose reached some plateaus for the Reds, his 2,700th career hit and his 100th run scored this season. Still, he would have traded both of them for a victory.

"I should have tried it sooner," said Rose of his bunt single in the eighth inning that ignited the rally that drove Carl Morton to the showers. "We were dead. We needed something to get us going."

Morton, 3-9, allowed five hits in 7 2-3 innings, overcoming the 10-strikeout pitching of Fred Norman, 11-3, whose lifetime record at Riverfront Stadium dropped to 32-8.

After Morton gave up two runs in the eighth that cut the Atlanta lead to 4-3, he was tagged for a two-out triple by George Foster. Devine came on at this point and forced Tony Perez to ground out and retired the Reds 1-2-3 in the ninth. It was the Reds' third straight defeat, matching their longest losing streak of the season.

In the only other National League games Monday night, the San Diego Padres outscored the St. Louis Cardinals 11-7 and the Chicago Cubs whipped the Houston Astros 5-3.

Willie Davis smacked a two-run double and Enzo Hernandez a bases-loaded triple to highlight an eight-run ninth inning that carried San Diego over St. Louis. The outburst by the Padres, at the expense of four Cardinal pitchers, nullified a five-hit performance by St. Louis' Lou Brock.

Rob Sperring's two-run single with two out in the ninth inning broke a 3-3 tie, lifting the Chicago Cubs to a triumph. Bruce Sutter, 3-3, hurled the final two innings for the Cubs to gain the victory. Houston starter Larry Dierker, 12-11, absorbed the loss.

Singles by Pete LaCock and Manny Trillo and a walk to Steve Swisher preceded Sperring's two-run hit to left off Dierker as the Astros fell for the 12th time in their last 15 contests.

Stroh's Tops Plangger Ace

Ausco's Takes 'D' Title; Two Finals Tonight

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Stroh's finally found a way to beat Rich Robards Monday night. But it took a shutout to do it.

Robards was a victim of his own wildness as the Niles team claimed a thrilling 1-0 victory from Plangger's No. 2 team in the Class B district fast pitch softball tournament at Plangger's Park.

In other tournament action Monday, Clark's of Buchanan shutout Michigan Bell 5-0 in Class C and Ausco's clinched the Class D crown with a 5-4 win over Barchett's Sporting Goods.

Clark's will again take on Michigan Bell at 7:30 tonight for the Class C title. Plangger's No. 2 will face Stroh's for the Class B crown at 8:45 and Robards is again expected to be on the mound for Plangger's.

The crafty lefthander Robards had fanned 32 batters in hurling a pair of tournament shutouts. But Stroh's coach Ted Losieviski said he has found the way to beat Robards.

"When we played them before everybody was going for bad pitches and he struck out 18," Losieviski said. "We finally used some psychology. We worked on choking up on the bat and not trying to go for the fence and it worked out."

Plangger's coach Russ Pultz gave a different reason for the loss.

"We just didn't get Rich any hits," he said.

And indeed they didn't. Plangger's could muster just two hits off winning pitcher George Pangman, who struck out three and did not walk a batter. Pangman faced just 23 batters, two over the minimum.

The big break for the winners

came in the seventh when Robards, who struck out nine, walked the first two batters. Pangman then laid down a bunt and beat it out for an infield single to load the bases. Even then Robards nearly pitched his way out of trouble.

The husky fastballer struck out John O'Reilly and got Mike Losieviski to hit one right back to him for a force out at the plate. But leadoff hitter Bill Haslett singled to center to plate the only run of the game.

"I was just wild tonight," Robards said. But even then he only issued three free passes.

Robards expects to be ready for tonight's title game.

"I'm going to go home, take a bath and get a good night's sleep," he said after the game. "The main thing I have to keep in shape is my legs because when they go, the arm will burn out."

Though just 36, Robards is playing his 24th year of softball. The last 13 have been spent with a Plangger's sponsored team. The first 10 with the No. 1 squad and the last three with Plangger's No. 2.

The change to the No. 2 team came as a result of the travel demands made on the team members of the No. 1 team.

"I played 10 years and that's long enough with all the traveling," Robards said. "It got so we played every weekend. It's a great sponsor and great team, but it just was too much on the road."

Robards, instead, went to the No. 2 team not only to play but to also help some of the younger pitchers on the team. His liking for softball began as a child and the challenge has stayed with him.

"The only thing I can do is pitch," he said. "I grew up in the country and all they let you play was softball. The challenge is the big thing, though. If you can get the batter out yourself, it gives you a feeling of pride. If you can't, that's what the other players are for."

Clark's also got a strong pitching effort in its win. Fred Olson yielded just five hits in the victory. Randy Havel collected three hits for Clark's.

Ausco's scored five times in the fifth and held off a late Barchett's rally for the win. Chuck Daniels had a triple and a single for Ausco's. Jim Etter slammed three hits for the losers.

LMC Volleyball Tryouts Slated

Lake Michigan College will hold girls volleyball tryouts from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the LMC gym. All those interested in trying out for the team must be a full time student and must attend at least two of the tryouts. For any other questions contact Liz Miller at 429-7828.

Spartans Lose Kim Rowekamp

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State has lost yet another starter for the 1976 football season.

Coach Darryl Rogers said Monday veteran defensive lineman Kim Rowekamp will be on the sidelines for the season opener against Ohio State Sept. 11.

Rowekamp, a three-year letterman from Kalamazoo, tore up his knee against Illinois in the seventh game of the 1975 season and still has not fully recovered from surgery, Rogers said.

Other Spartans sidelined for the opening game include quarterback Eddie Smith, defensive backs Ted Bell and Joe Hunt, defensive linemen Melvin Land, Larry Bethea, Jim Epolito and tight end Mike Cobb.

Bell, Land, Bethea, Epolito and Smith were suspended for one game, Cobb for five and Hunt for the entire season as a result of a National Collegiate Athletic Association investigation initiated by OSU Coach Woody Hayes.

Rogers said Rowekamp's knee problem "is not the same as the others who had surgery last season and it just takes a little more time to heal. We want him as healthy as possible; we're not going to take a chance on getting him hurt."

"Kim hasn't passed the physical for leg strength yet," Rogers said. "It looks like we're not going to have him."

"He'll be here when we start practice but we don't want to rush him into anything and I wouldn't even think about using him late in the season, and losing his final year of eligibility, if he's not ready early," Rogers said.

The 6-foot-three, 253-pounder has been a starter since his sophomore year.

Ganakas Appointed

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Former Michigan State University basketball coach Gus Ganakas has been named an assistant athletic director at MSU.

Ganakas, who will assist Athletic Director Joe Kearney, will be in charge of departmental and high school relations, it was announced Monday. The appointment is effective immediately.

Kearney said Ganakas will be involved in a planned high school advisory board made up of prep coaches, athletic directors and administrators. The board will meet periodically and confer with the university's athletic department.

Other responsibilities may include development of a speaker's bureau, film service, summer and vacation jobs for athletes and special projects for the departments, Kearney said.

Ganakas was replaced as head basketball coach earlier this year after amassing a total MSU record of 89-84 in seven seasons.

Sellout For U-M

ANN ARBOR — University of Michigan athletic department ticket manager Al Renfrew has announced that the home football game between Michigan and Wake Forest on Oct. 2 is a sellout.

It marks the second sellout of the season, the first involving the Oct. 9 date with Michigan State.

"The sellout means that we have cut off individual game sales for those particular games," said Renfrew. "However, we have set aside enough season ticket booklets to handle the anticipated requests right up until Sept. 10, the day before the home opener with Wisconsin."

Demand for season tickets is running 9,300 ahead of last year when Michigan set an NCAA record by averaging 98,449 for seven home games.

ROTARY CONTRIBUTION: Elden Butzbaugh Jr., representing the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Rotary Club, presents a $1,000 check to Dale Kubicki, new athletic director at St. Joseph, as outgoing athletic director George Waning looks on. The money is proceeds from the Rotary Track meet held in June and is going towards paying off the all-weather track. The track, which has been used three school years, was built entirely with public contributions. But when that came up short, St. Joe used general athletic funds, which is being paid back. Of the $5,000 initially borrowed, only $1,800 remains to be paid back after the latest contribution. (Staff photo)

'Bird', Tanana Matched Tonight

DETROIT (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych has, at the most, only 11 starts left this season, but unless the Detroit Tigers' pitching ace totally falls apart, it may be just enough for him to win 20 games.

Fidrych, who goes for his 14th victory tonight against California, could become the first Tiger rookie to win 20 games since Oren "Kickapoo Ed" Summers set an American League record with 24 victories in 1908.

The last Tiger pitcher to win 20 games in a season was Joe Coleman in 1973.

Dowagiac Loses Two Coaches

DOWAGIAC — The Dowagiac school board accepted the resignations of Dowagiac baseball coach Dave Mahar and basketball coach and girls coach Pat Taylor.

Mahar coached Dowagiac for two years and this past season the Chieftains finished with their best record (18-9) in school history. He plans to go into private business.

Taylor was the girls volleyball and basketball coach.

Fidrych, 13-4, will face the Angels' Frank Tanana tonight as the Tigers open a 10-game home stand. Tanana, a former Detroit resident, is no slouch on the mound either.

Tanana, 14-8, is second in the American League in strikeouts with 175, behind teammate Nolan Ryan, who's fanned 216 thus far.

Aalfs Standout In Softball Win

NILES — Joan Aalfs hurled a two-hitter as C&S of Buchanan topped Midwest 10-0 Monday night in women's district softball action at Plym Park. Kathy Neidbalski had two hits for the winners.

Kelly Letcher and Teresa Carson both slugged three hits as I.M.W. downed Canady Music 14-5.

Tonight's game has Canady playing C&S at 7:30.

Antlerless Deer Hunting Out In Upper Peninsula

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — The on-again, off-again antlerless deer season is off again for three western Upper Peninsula counties, after the Michigan Natural Resources Commission rescinded its earlier approval of doe hunting in the area.

The commission, acting on the recommendation of Department of Natural Resources Director Howard Tanner, unanimously reversed last week a July decision that would have issued 7,430 "hunter's choice" permits for parts of Menominee, Dickinson and Delta counties.

The unprecedented change in deer hunting rules means only buck hunting will be allowed in the U.P. during the Nov. 15-30 firearm deer season.

Commission Chairman Harry Whitely termed the issue "an emotional one with political overtones," and predicted many doe would starve this winter in U.P. counties if the weather is harsh.

Tanner told the commission there was virtually no support from U.P. residents for the antlerless plan.

He added that, at a packed public meeting last Tuesday in Iron Mountain, "I and the other DNR representatives were the only ones there to support the hunters choice season. We had no public spokesman on our side."

After the commission reached its decision, Steve Mitchell of Gladstone presented the commissioners with a petition he said contained 4,000 signatures of U.P. residents opposed to the hunters choice season.

Tanner said last week's decision was based in part on the fact that the state had promised to let people know about the proposed hunting rules in time for public discussion before they were passed.

"This we simply failed to do this year," Tanner said. The proposed rules were announced only five days before the July commission meeting where they were approved.

Tanner, who had supported the hunter's choice season on the basis of a growing U.P. deer population, said the number of permits which would have been issued for this fall's season was "very conservative," and would not really have significantly trimmed the herd.

Tanner told the commission that a ban on antlerless hunting will "unfortunately ... mean that a significant number of deer that could have been utilized will now be sacrificed."

Outdoor Trail

To Aid Kirtland's Warbler

Controlled Burn Planned

Nearly 1,000 acres of cutover state forest land in Ogemaw county are scheduled for burning under close supervision of the Department of Natural Resources in Michigan's first major project to improve the habitat of the endangered Kirtland's warbler.

John D. Byelich, DNR wildlife biologist who heads a state-federal endangered species recovery team, says the controlled fire will allow for regeneration of new growth jackpine — the preferred habitat for the Kirtland's warbler, whose world population is estimated at only 400.

Byelich says heat from the fire is needed to open up jackpine cones to release the seed, while the newly exposed mineral soil becomes ideal for seed germination.

Ironically, effective forest fire control in recent years has contributed to the decline of Kirtland's warbler nesting areas by allowing trees to mature. The bird, which fascinates biologists and others because of its very restrictive habitat requirements, typically lives and breeds in Christmas tree-size stands of jackpine — only in Michigan's Ogemaw, Rosconmmon, Oscoda and Crawford counties. (It winters in the Bahamas.)

"This year's burn areas are located just northeast of St. Helen, although similar prescribed burns are anticipated in the years to come in parts of these counties as the habitat outgrows the Kirtland's warbler," states Byelich. "The goal is to eventually stabilize the bird's population to about 1,000 nesting pairs, or about the number recorded as late as 1961. To do that, we would like to keep about 36,000 acres of public land in habitat production range at all times for the Kirtland's warbler."

Money donated by hundreds of conservation-minded Michigan citizens, who contributed over $25,000 to the DNR's "Living Resources" program during the last year, will help pay for the project.

A specific date for the first burn has not been set, but Byelich indicated that it will take place "on the first 'good burning' day." He notes that a specially trained crew of DNR firefighters under the direction of fire supervisor Donald D. Grant of Mio will torch the burns area only when conditions are right — as a warm, dry day with low humidity and light winds are necessary. Winds must also come from a certain direction to keep smoke from populous areas.

The DNR developed the prescribed burning program several years ago primarily to assist forestry and wildlife programs, including jackpine and aspen reproduction, deer and grouse habitat management, blueberry reproduction and maintenance of grassy openings for sharp-tail grouse and prairie chickens.

Byelich says the burns planned in Ogemaw county are the first ever conducted by the DNR to mainly benefit a non-game wildlife species, although the U.S. Forest Service's management program for the Kirtland's warbler has included cutting and burning of large stands of jackpine within the Huron National Forest. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has also been involved in warbler projects.

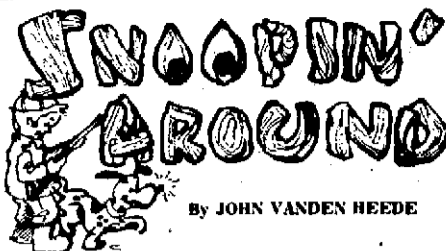

Previous management efforts concerning the Kirtland's warbler have centered on a program to control cowbirds, which have the unusual behavior of depositing their eggs in the nests of other species of birds. This leaves the warbler with the chore of hatching the cowbird eggs and rearing the young. Studies of the Kirtland's warbler-cowbird relationship estimate that up to 78 per cent of warbler eggs in parasitized nests fail to produce fledglings.

Since 1974 when the annual warbler census totaled 334 birds — lowest ever recorded — the bird's population curve seems to be swinging upward again, Byelich states. The 1974 census indicated a population of 338 birds.

"I'm still convinced that we can bring this tiny bird back from the edge of extinction," he observes. "If we can, it will be as much a human victory as a wildlife victory."

South Haven commercial fishermen are among the latest to accept state compensation for going out of business.

The Michigan Natural Resources Commission last week approved payments of $19,586 to Jensen's Fishery of South Haven and $9,886 to George and Eva Anthony of South Haven.

The compensation, part of $1.5 million appropriated by the legislature, is the result of administrative rules prohibiting use of gill nets in the Great Lakes commercial fishery. A total of $698,372 has now been awarded to 31 fishermen.

Others receiving approval for compensation last week were Leo J. Cloutier of Ludington, $8,737; Cloutier Brothers of Ludington, $21,258; James Swineheart of Muskegon, $3,985; Herman Massey of St. Ignace, $2,751; Brooks & Day of Cheboygan, $18,320; Duane Moore of Paradise, $3,582; Ron Tornovich of Spring Lake, $32,788; Howard Bröman of Brimley, $465; James Walters of Ludington, $9,891, and D.J. Voight Fisheries of Frankfort, $30,427.

Some changes in public-owned lands to be open for hunting and trapping have been made by the state parks division of the Department of Natural Resources.

The juggling will see an additional 105.5 acres open at Warren Dunes State Park in Berrien county. Also, all but 33 acres of the new Lawless State Park in Cass county will be open.

There will be no changes at Van Buren State Park in Van Buren county, with 251.1 acres open and 75.4 acres closed. And all of the Grand Mere site in Berrien county will remain closed.

Persons hunting or trapping on the state land should check with park officials to learn new boundaries.

The application for renewal of the Sarett Nature Center in Benton Harbor as a wildlife sanctuary received approval at last week's meeting of the Michigan Natural Resources Commission.

The renewal runs to Aug. 31, 1981 and prohibits hunting and trapping on the 300-acre tract.

Final watercraft control rules for Dumont Lake in Allegan county and Reynolds Lakes in Van Buren county were adopted last week by the Natural Resources Commission.

On Dumont Lake, it is now unlawful, during the period of May 15 to Sept. 15, on Saturdays, Sundays, Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor, except between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., to (1) operate a vessel at high speed, which means a speed at or above which a motorboat reaches a planing condition, and (2) have in tow, or otherwise assist in the propulsion of a person on water skis, a water sled, kite, surfboard or other similar contrivance.

And on the channel between North and South Reynolds Lakes, it is unlawful for the operator of a vessel to exceed a slow, no wake speed.

Fishing Report

Fall salmon runs can't be too far away, because a few fish are starting to show up at the mouth of the St. Joseph River.

Lake trout trollers have been working in 75 to 100 feet of water while running lures 60 to 80 feet down. The average size of the lakers, according to the Department of Natural Resources, is 7 to 10 pounds.

Meanwhile, perch continue to attract good numbers of fishermen to piers and rocky areas along the southwestern Michigan shoreline.

On inland lakes, the DNR says the summer "blahs" are now prominent. A few lakers are producing bluegills in the early morning and late evening hours.

Safety Tips Offered For Put-Take Pheasant Hunt

Michigan hunters going afield for the early put-and-take pheasant season (it started Monday) are reminded by the Department of Natural Resources to be extra cautious and to practice good hunting safety practices.

Noting that the season starts a month ahead of some traditional small game openers, the DNR points out that heavy late-summer foliage in southern Michigan woods and fields will greatly affect visibility for shooters, making blaze orange hunting gear a necessity.

Also, as sportsmen may become subjected to warm weather not normally experienced during cooler autumn hunting, special precaution should be focused on prevention of heat stroke or heat exhaustion.

Recreational safety supervisor Frank Opalka says the DNR recommends that hunters wear blaze orange clothing because it is the only color not naturally found in the outdoors, making it easily visible and distinguishable.

"Nearly 50 per cent of the hunting accidents last year happened when the shooter and victim were less than 10 yards apart," says Opalka. "Shotguns were involved in almost two-thirds of the accidents, while the most frequent cause of hunting accidents in 1975 was attributed to poor judgment on the part of the shooter."

"With these facts in mind, it is clear to understand the department's concern over hunting safety during this early put-and-take season when large numbers of sportsmen are expected to hunt when ground cover is dense," Opalka continues. "It is paramount that hunters remember the five basic safety precautions — to be certain of one's target; be certain no one is in one's line of fire; know where one's hunting partners are at all times; when unloading guns, check twice before considering them unloaded; and don't consume alcohol while hunting."

In 1975, 234 hunters were injured in hunting accidents in the state, while an estimated 12 million persons took part in hunting activities.

Especially during the early put-and-take season, the DNR advises hunters to "take it easy" while afield on hot days. Opalka suggests that sportsmen carry a canteen of water and salt tablets to prevent sickness from too much heat or sun.

If someone afield becomes ill and their skin is cool and wet from perspiration, Opalka says first aid treatment should include rest and consumption of salt water.

Heat stroke, however, detected by skin that is hot and dry (because the body cannot perspire), demands more immediate attention, says Opalka. Antlerless Deer Hunting Out In Upper Peninsula

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — The on-again, off-again antlerless deer season is off again for three western Upper Peninsula counties, after the Michigan Natural Resources Commission rescinded its earlier approval of doe hunting in the area.

The commission, acting on the recommendation of Department of Natural Resources Director Howard Tanner, unanimously reversed last week a July decision that would have issued 7,430 "hunter's choice" permits for parts of Menominee, Dickinson and Delta counties.

The unprecedented change in deer hunting rules means only buck hunting will be allowed in the U.P. during the Nov. 15-30 firearm deer season.

Commission Chairman Harry Whitely termed the issue "an emotional one with political overtones," and predicted many deer would starve this winter in U.P. counties if the weather is harsh.

Tanner told the commission there was virtually no support from U.P. residents for the antlerless plan.

He added that, at a packed public meeting last Tuesday in Iron Mountain, "I and the other DNR representatives were the only ones there to support the hunters choice season. We had no public spokesman on our side."

After the commission reached its decision, Steve Mitchell of Gladstone presented the commissioners with a petition he said contained 4,000 signatures of U.P. residents opposed to the hunters choice season.

Tanner said last week's decision was based in part on the fact that the state had promised to let people know about the proposed hunting rules in time for public discussion before they were passed.

"This we simply failed to do this year," Tanner said. The proposed rules were announced only five days before the July commission meeting where they were approved.

Tanner, who had supported the hunter's choice season on the basis of a growing U.P. deer population, said the number of permits which would have been issued for this fall's season was "very conservative," and would not really have significantly trimmed the herd.

Tanner told the commission that a ban on antlerless hunting will "unfortunately ... mean that a significant number of deer that could have been utilized will now be sacrificed."

To Aid Kirtland's Warbler Controlled Burn Planned

Nearly 1,000 acres of cutover state forest land in Ogemaw county are scheduled for burning under close supervision of the Department of Natural Resources in Michigan's first major project to improve the habitat of the endangered Kirtland's warbler.

John D. Byelich, DNR wildlife biologist who heads a state-federal endangered species recovery team, says the controlled fire will allow for regeneration of new growth jackpine — the preferred habitat for the Kirtland's warbler, whose world population is estimated at only 400.

Byelich says heat from the fire is needed to open up jackpine cones to release the seed, while the newly exposed mineral soil becomes ideal for seed germination.

Ironically, effective forest fire

control in recent years has contributed to the decline of Kirtland's warbler nesting areas by allowing trees to mature. The bird, which fascinates biologists and others because of its very restrictive habitat requirements, typically lives and breeds in Christmas tree-size stands of jackpine — only in Michigan's Ogemaw, Roscommon, Oscoda and Crawford counties. (It winters in the Bahamas.)

"This year's burn areas are located just northeast of St. Helen, although similar prescribed burns are anticipated in the years to come in parts of these counties as the habitat outgrows the Kirtland's warbler," states Byelich. "The goal is to eventually stabilize the bird's population to about 1,000 nesting pairs, or about the number recorded as late as 1961. To do that, we would like to keep about 36,000 acres of public land in habitat production range at all times for the Kirtland's warbler."

Money donated by hundreds of conservation-minded Michigan citizens, who contributed over $25,000 to the DNR's "Living Resources" program during the last year, will help pay for the project.

A specific date for the first burn has not been set, but, Byelich indicated that it will take place "on the first 'good burning' day." He notes that a specially trained crew of DNR firefighters under the direction of fire supervisor Donald D. Grant of Mio will torch the burns area only when conditions are right — as a warm, dry day with low humidity and light winds are necessary. Winds must also come from a certain direction to keep smoke from populous areas.

The DNR developed the prescribed burning program several years ago primarily to assist forestry and wildlife programs, including jackpine and aspen reproduction, deer and grouse habitat management, blueberry reproduction and maintenance of grassy openings for sharp-tail grouse and prairie chickens.

Byelich says the burns planned in Ogemaw county are the first ever conducted by the DNR to mainly benefit a non-game wildlife species, although the U.S. Forest Service's management program for the Kirtland's warbler has included cutting and burning of large stands of jackpine within the Huron National Forest. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has also been involved in warbler projects.

Previous management efforts concerning the Kirtland's warbler have centered on a program to control cowbirds, which have the unusual behavior of depositing their eggs in the nests of other species of birds. This leaves the warbler with the chore of hatching the cowbird eggs and rearing the young. Studies of the Kirtland's warbler-cowbird relationship estimate that up to 78 per cent of warbler eggs in parasitized nests fail to produce fledglings.

Since 1974 when the annual warbler census totaled 334 birds — lowest ever recorded — the bird's population curve seems to be swinging upward again, Byelich states. The 1974 census indicated a population of 358 birds.

"I'm still convinced that we can bring this tiny bird back from the edge of extinction," he observes. "If we can, it will be as much a human victory as a wildlife victory."

Fishing Report

Fall salmon runs can't be too far away, because a few fish are starting to show up at the mouth of the St. Joseph River.

Lake trout trollers have been working in 75 to 180 feet of water while running lures 60 to 80 feet down. The average size of the lakers, according to the Department of Natural Resources, is 7 to 10 pounds.

Meanwhile, perch continue to attract good numbers of fishermen to piers and rocky areas along the southwestern Michigan shoreline.

On inland lakes, the DNR says the summer "blahs" are now prominent. A few lakes are producing bluegills in the early morning and late evening hours.

Thomas Fello, a 13-year-old St. Joseph fisherman, recently caught a 33-inch, 10-pound northern pike.

The dragonfly never walks, using its legs only for catching prey and as landing and perching gear.

South Haven commercial fishermen are among the latest to accept state compensation for going out of business.

The Michigan Natural Resources Commission last week approved payments of $19,566 to Jensen's Fishery of South Haven and $9,886 to George and Eva Anthony of South Haven.

The compensation, part of $1.5 million appropriated by the legislature, is the result of administrative rules prohibiting use of gill nets in the Great Lakes commercial fishery. A total of $646,372 has now been awarded to 31 fishermen.

Others receiving approval for compensation last week were Leo J. Cloutier of Ludington, $8,737; Cloutier Brothers of Ludington, $21,258; James Swineheart of Muskegon, $3,985; Herman Massey of St. Ignace, $2,751; Brooks & Day of Cheboygan, $18,320; Duane Moore of Paradise, $3,582; Ron Tornovich of Spring Lake, $32,788; Howard Brosman of Brimley, $465; James Walters of Ludington, $9,991, and D.J. Voight Fisheries of Frankfort, $30,427.

Some changes in public-owned lands to be open for hunting and trapping have been made by the state parks division of the Department of Natural Resources.

The juggling will see an additional 105.5 acres open at Warren Dunes State Park in Berrien county. Also, all but 33 acres of the new Lawless State Park in Cass county will be open.

There will be no changes at Van Buren State Park in Van Buren county, with 251.1 acres open and 75.4 acres closed. And all of the Grand Mere site in Berrien county will remain closed.

Persons hunting or trapping on the state land should check with park officials to learn new boundaries.

The application for renewal of the Sarett Nature Center in Benton Harbor as a wildlife sanctuary received approval at last week's meeting of the Michigan Natural Resources Commission.

The renewal runs to Aug. 31, 1981 and prohibits hunting and trapping on the 300-acre tract.

Final watercraft control rules for Dumont Lake in Allegan county and Reynolds Lakes in Van Buren county were adopted last week by the Natural Resources Commission.

On Dumont Lake, it is now unlawful, during the period of May 15 to Sept. 15, on Saturdays, Sundays, Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor, except between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., to (1) operate a vessel at high speed, which means a speed at or above which a motorboat reaches a planing condition, and (2) have in tow, or otherwise assist in the propulsion of a person on water skis, a water sled, kite, surfboard or other similar contrivance.

And on the channel between North and South Reynolds Lakes, it is unlawful for the operator of a vessel to exceed a slow, no wake speed.

Safety Tips Offered For Put-Take Pheasant Hunt

Michigan hunters going afield for the early put-and-take pheasant season (it started Monday) are reminded by the Department of Natural Resources to be extra cautious and to practice good hunting safety practices.

Noting that the season starts a month ahead of some traditional small game openers, the DNR points out that heavy late-summer foliage in southern Michigan woods and fields will greatly affect visibility for shooters, making blaze orange hunting garb a necessity.

Also, as sportsmen may become subjected to warm weather not normally experienced during cooler autumn hunting, special precaution should be focused on prevention of heat stroke or heat exhaustion.

Recreational safety supervisor Frank Opalka says the DNR recommends that hunters wear blaze orange clothing because it is the only color not naturally found in the outdoors, making it easily visible and distinguishable.

"Nearly 50 per cent of the hunting accidents last year happened when the shooter and victim were less than 10 yards apart," says Opalka. "Shotguns were involved in almost two-thirds of the accidents, while the most frequent cause of hunting accidents in 1975 was attributed to poor judgment on the part of the shooter. "With these facts in mind, it is clear to understand the department's concern over hunting safety during this early put-and-take season when large numbers of sportsmen are expected to hunt when ground cover is dense," Opalka continues. "It is paramount that hunters remember the five basic safety precautions — to be certain of one's target; be certain no one is in one's line of fire; know where one's hunting partners are at all times; when unloading guns, check twice before considering them unloaded; and don't consume alcohol while hunting."

In 1975, 234 hunters were injured in hunting accidents in the state, while an estimated 1.2 million persons took part in hunting activities.

Especially during the early put-and-take season, the DNR advises hunters to "take it easy" while afield on hot days. Opalka suggests that sportsmen carry a canteen of water and salt tablets to prevent sickness from too much heat or sun.

If someone afield becomes ill and their skin is cool and wet

from perspiration, Opalka says first aid treatment should include rest and consumption of salt water.

Heat stroke, however, detected by skin that is hot and dry (because the body cannot perspire), demands more immediate attention, says Opalka. In this situation, the object is to cool the victim's body as quickly as possible by pouring water over him or by sponging him with water, followed by a trip to the nearest doctor or hospital for additional treatment.

TERMS UP TO 25 YEARS

Brothers Sentenced To Prison

Two brothers were sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to prison terms of up to 25 years for assaulting a Niles township man with a shotgun.

Sentenced for assault with intent to rob while armed were Terrence Lee Stewart, 18, of Allen road, Dowagiac, and Michael R. Stewart, 21, of 411

Dey street, Niles. Judge Julian E. Hughes sentenced Michael Stewart to 10 to 25 years and Terrence Stewart to 7 to 25 years.

The pair was accused of firing a shotgun through a window at the residence of Carl Fisher, 2635 Creek road, Niles township, on May 12. Hughes said he imposed the prison terms "reluctantly" and gave the older Stewart a longer sentence because of his prior record, which included breaking and entering and disorderly person offenses.

In other sentences by Hughes: Leonard Slocum, 19, of Sodus, drew a 3 to 10-year prison sentence for breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling — a house owned by Mrs. Willie Woods on Townline road, Benton township, on April 18.

Byron Lee Davis, 18, of Sand Ridge road, Sawyer, was placed on two years probation for malicious destruction of property at Bridgman high school on April 25. Hughes ordered Davis to spend the first four months in jail, but said if Davis pays his share of restitution for the damages he can be released after 60 days. The judge ordered restitution of $1,362.

In sentences by Judge William S. White: Calvin Anderson, 46, of 1191 1/2 Sixth street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 40 months to 5 years in prison for carrying a concealed weapon — a shotgun — in a pickup truck in Benton township on April 2.

Allen Leon Stewart, 19, of Bremen, Ind., was placed on two years probation, with the first 60 days in jail, and assessed $200 fine and costs for larceny in a building — the theft of two guns Feb. 11 from the residence of Robert Bradley, at 6031 Madison avenue, Hagar township.

Benjamin G. Gonzalez, 24, of Hammond, Ind., and Juan J. Sanchez, 26, of East Chicago, Ind., were both placed on two years probation and assessed $250 fine and costs each. Gonzalez for attempted possession of heroin and Sanchez for attempted carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol. Both offenses occurred Dec. 10 in a car on I-94 in New Buffalo township.

In arrangements before Judge Chester J. Byrns:

Tommie Lee Moore, 53, of 1015 Monroe street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of negligent homicide. He is accused as the driver of a car which killed Arnold Pratt June 6 at the intersection of Martin Luther King drive and Main street in Benton township.

Kirk A. Ward, 19, of 895 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to entering the Disco World and Variety store in Benton Harbor without breaking July 17.

Thomas C. Butler, 18, of McAllister avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a house at 1251 Ogden street in Benton Harbor on April 12.

David A. Hill, 18, of 1235 Ogden, pleaded guilty to larceny in a building — the theft of a stereo from the same house on April 12.

John Wesley Smith, 36, of Battle Creek, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of intoxicants third offense and being a disorderly person. He is accused of driving while intoxicated Jan. 30 on I-94 in Benton township, and being disorderly by attempting to bribe Trooper Charles Coleman at the Benton Harbor state police post.

Andrew Lee Butler, 25, of 106 Oden street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon — a pistol — against Napoleon Lark May 17 in Benton Harbor.

Stephenson T. Flood, 27, of East Main street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of second offense violation of the controlled substance act (delivery of heroin) Nov. 18 in Benton Harbor.

Roberto Reyes, 17, of Manistee, and Gary Olin, 23, of Filer City, Mich., both pleaded guilty to unlawful use of a motor vehicle — a truck owned by Otto Larson June 26 in New Buffalo.

Minnie Mae Fisher, 32, of 551 Heck court, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder stemming from an alleged assault against Erna Booker with a pistol July 3 in Benton Harbor.

Berrien District Judges Sentence 32 Defendants

Six people demanded examinations, one person was bound over to circuit court and 32 were sentenced during proceedings yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court. Those demanding examinations were:

Douglas Carrothers, 24, and Herman N. McGee, 20, both of Chicago Heights, Ill., each on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, an automobile, Sunday in St. Joseph township.

State police of the Benton Harbor post reported the two were arrested when a car was stopped on I-94. State troopers said their car was weaving. The car allegedly was traced to a used car lot in the Chicago area. Antonia M. Garcia, 20, Chicago, on a charge of possession of PCP Monday in New Buffalo township.

Carl B. Fulton, 23, of 1445 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon June 20, 1972 in Benton township. Bond on the charge was set at $10,000. Fulton was also sentenced to 30 days for contempt of court for failure to appear for a preliminary examination in 1972 on a charge of breaking and entering the Unity Church of God in Christ, 235 Fulton avenue, Benton township, May 25, 1972.

David A. Black, 18, of 4176 Arrowhead Curve, Benton township, on a charge of delivery of marijuana Aug. 11 in St. Joseph township.

Richard Bonds, 35, of 339 Linden avenue, Benton township, for receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, an automobile, Aug. 5 in Benton township.

Anthony L. Johnson, 17, of 171 Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, was bound over to circuit court on a charge of larceny over $100, a bicycle belonging to Timothy Zimmerman, in St. Joseph.

Sentenced yesterday for the following violations were:

Use of Marijuana — $50 fine and costs or 10 days in jail: Glen Lewis Pafford, 17, Dearborn, Mich.; Robert E. Miller, 32, of LaPorte, Ind.; Calvin Diggs, 22, Chicago; Gregory C. Parity, 17, Elkhart, Ind.; Helen F. Kirby, 20, Indianapolis, Ind.; Timothy the firm the franchise was made.

Larry Olson, chief engineer for TAB, was told by the council that the village's legal counsel has several questions about a proposed ordinance that would give TAB the franchise before any further action was taken. The questions are to be forwarded to the firm by mail, the council told Olson.

The council told Cleon Reitz, building inspector, that it wished to meet with Daniel Cristancho to further discuss his plans to expand his residence at 362 Washington street, before a building permit is issued. Cristancho currently cares for eight adults in the home that houses his family as well.

Cristancho has previously told the council he does not plan to take on any more residents, but only to add more living space for his family.

Leave Cars Home, Says Hospital

DOWAGIAC — Because much of the parking space at Dowagiac's Lee Memorial hospital is being used for construction activities, hospital officials are asking employees and visitors to leave their cars home if possible.

Thomas Dube, hospital administrator, said employees have been asked to form car pools and visitors are being asked to walk or take public transportation.

The remaining space in the visitors parking lot on the west side of the building is now restricted to vehicles coming to the emergency room. Much of the space in the employees lot on Main street has also been taken over by construction activities.

Berrien Springs Seeking Road Project Extension

By JOHN DYE

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Efforts to get the state highway commission to lengthen its planned addition of a third lane to US-31 north of here were discussed by the Berrien Springs village council last night. The efforts are being made by the village, Berrien and Oronoko townships, Andrews university and the Berrien county Youth Fair board. Representatives of the five met with state highway officials earlier this month regarding the extension.

The effort was launched because of state plans to add a third lane to the highway from College avenue south to near Apple Valley market. The addition area is north of the village.

Edgar Kesterke, village president, said the five local groups want the state to expand the plan to take the added lane to the village limits.

Kesterke told the council that state officials said the area where they plan to add the lane has been selected because of a high rate of accidents. The representatives of the groups told state officials that the addition of a third lane to the entire stretch of the area would improve traffic flow.

Councilmen added last night that a factor in urging the state to add the third lane to the village limits were plans for a new, centralized facility for education of mentally impaired children by the Berrien Intermediate school district. Buses transporting the children to the school would travel on the highway, adding further traffic congestion, the councilmen said.

In other areas, the council again met with a representative of TAB Inc., Kalamazoo, on the firm's proposed cable television franchise in the village. No decision on the proposal to grant

Heroin Dealer Finds Appeal Doesn't Work

A Benton Harbor man whose sale of heroin conviction was overturned by the state court of appeals last year was re-sentenced Monday in Berrien Circuit court to the same term he got in 1973 — 10 to 20 years in prison.

Sentenced by Judge Julian E. Hughes was Adell Cassell, 42, whom police described as the kingpin of a major heroin ring in the Twin Cities area at the time of his arrest. Cassell gets credit for more than 3 1/2 years already served in prison.

Cassell in 1973 was sentenced by Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns to 10 to 20 years but the appellate court sent the case back for trial after ruling evidence was available to the prosecution at the first trial that a defense witness lied.

He was re-tried and convicted in June on a charge that he delivered heroin to a Berrien Metro Narcotics unit agent on Sept. 19, 1972, in Benton Harbor.

Still maintaining his innocence, Cassell yesterday asked Hughes for a shorter sentence than the one imposed by Byrns, claiming he was a good prisoner and had been working with younger offenders to try and steer them away from future crimes.

But Hughes noted that after close inspection of the records "I came to the conclusion that the sentence imposed—ten years—going to stand in your way."

The sentence was imposed

Probate Judges At Conference

Berrien County Probate Judges Zoe Shaffer Burkholz and Ronald H. Lange are attending the Seventh Judicial Conference of Probate and Juvenile Court Judges on Mackinac Island where both have parts in the program.

Judge Burkholz is scheduled to deliver a report today on changes in Michigan Probate court rules adopted this year by the state Supreme court. Judge Burkholz was subcommittee chairman for the rules committee which drafted the changes for the Supreme court's review.

Judge Lange will preside at the session when Judge Burkholz gives her report. Judge Lange is first vice president of the Michigan Probate and Juvenile Court Judges association.

The three-day conference ends Wednesday.

TERMS UP TO 25 YEARS Brothers Sentenced To Prison

Two brothers were sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to prison terms of up to 25 years for assaulting a Niles township man with a shotgun.

Sentenced for assault with intent to rob while armed were Terrence Lee Stewart, 18, of Allen road, Dowagiac, and Michael R. Stewart, 21, of 411

Dey street, Niles. Judge Julian E. Hughes sentenced Michael Stewart to 10 to 25 years and Terrence Stewart to 7 to 25 years.

The pair was accused of firing a shotgun through a window at the residence of Carl Fisher, 2635 Creek road, Niles township, on May 12. Hughes said he imposed the prison terms "reluctantly," and gave the elder Stewart a longer sentence because of his prior record, which included breaking and entering and disorderly person offenses.

In other sentences by Hughes: Leonard Slocum, 19, of Sodus, drew a 3 to 10-year prison sentence for breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling — a house owned by Mrs. Willie Woods on Townline road, Benton township, on April 16.

Byron Lee Davis, 18, of Sand Ridge road, Sawyer, was placed on two years probation for malicious destruction of property at Bridgman high school on April 25. Hughes ordered Davis to spend the first four months in jail, but said if Davis pays his share of restitution for the damages he can be released after 60 days. The judge ordered restitution of $1,362.

In sentences by Judge William S. White: Calvin Anderson, 46, of 119 1/2 Sixth street, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 40 months to 5 years in prison for carrying a concealed weapon — a shotgun — in a pickup truck in Benton township on April 2.

Allen Leon Stewart, 19, of Bremen, Ind., was placed on two years probation, with the first 60 days in jail, and assessed $200 fine and costs for larceny in a building — the theft of two guns Feb. 11 from the residence of Robert Bradley, at 6031 Madison avenue, Hagar township.

Benjamin G. Gonzalez, 24, of Hammond, Ind., and Juan J. Sanchez, 26, of East Chicago, Ind., were both placed on two years probation and assessed $250 fine and costs each. Gonzalez for attempted possession of heroin and Sanchez for attempted carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol. Both offenses occurred Dec. 10 in a car on I-94 in New Buffalo township.

In arraignments before Judge Chester J. Byrns:

Tommie Lee Moore, 53, of 1015 Monroe street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of negligent homicide. He is accused as the driver of a car which killed Arnold Pratt June 6 at the intersection of Martin Luther King drive and Main street in Benton township.

Kirk A. Ward, 19, of 895 Pavone street, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to entering the Disco World and Variety store in Benton Harbor without breaking July 17.

Thomas C. Butler, 18, of McAllister avenue, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a house at 1251 Ogden street in Benton Harbor on April 12.

David A. Hill, 18, of 1235 Ogden, pleaded guilty to larceny in a building — the theft of a stereo from the same house on April 12.

John Wesley Smith, 36, of Battle Creek, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of intoxicants third offense and being a disorderly person. He is accused of driving while intoxicated Jan. 30 on I-94 in Benton township, and being disorderly by attempting to bribe Trooper Charles Coleman at the Benton Harbor state police post.

Andrew Lee Butler, 25, of 106 Oden street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon — a pistol — against Napoleon Lark May 17 in Benton Harbor.

Stephenson T. Flood, 27, of East Main street, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of second offense violation of the controlled substance act (delivery of heroin) Nov. 18 in Benton Harbor.

Roberto Reyes, 17, of Manistee, and Gary Olin, 23, of Filer City, Mich., both pleaded guilty to unlawful use of a motor vehicle — a truck owned by Otto Larson June 26 in New Buffalo.

Minnie Mae Fisher, 32, of 551 Heck court, Benton Harbor, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder stemming from an alleged assault against Erma Booker with a pistol July 3 in Benton Harbor.

Berrien District Judges Sentence 32 Defendants

Six people demanded examinations, one person was bound over to circuit court and 32 were sentenced during proceedings yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court. Those demanding examinations were:

Douglas Carrothers, 24, and Herman N. McGee, 20, both of Chicago Heights, Ill., each on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, an automobile, Sunday in St. Joseph township.

State police of the Benton Harbor post reported the two were arrested when a car was stopped on I-94. State troopers said their car was weaving. The car allegedly was traced to a used car lot in the Chicago area. Antonia M. Garcia, 20, Chicago, on a charge of possession of PCP Monday in New Buffalo township.

Carl B. Fulton, 23, of 1445 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon June 20, 1972 in Benton township. Bond on the charge was set at $10,000. Fulton was also sentenced to 30 days for contempt of court for failure to appear for a preliminary examination in 1972 on a charge of breaking and entering the Unity Church of God in Christ, 235 Fulton avenue, Benton township, May 25, 1972.

David A. Blanck, 18, of 4176 Arrowhead Curve, Benton township, on a charge of delivery of marijuana Aug. 11 in St. Joseph township.

Richard Bonds, 35, of 339 Linden avenue, Benton township, for receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, an automobile, Aug. 5 in Benton township.

Anthony L. Johnson, 17, of 171 Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, was bound over to circuit court on a charge of larceny over $100, a bicycle belonging to Timothy Zimmerman, in St. Joseph.

Sentenced yesterday for the following violations were:

Use of Marijuana — $50 fine and costs or 10 days in jail: Glen Lewis Pafford, 17, Dearborn, Mich.; Robert E. Miller, 32, of LaPorte, Ind.; Calvin Diggs, 22, Chicago; Gregory C. Paitry, 17, Elkhardt, Ind.; Helen F. Kirby, 20, Indianapolis, Ind.; Timothy

L. Carrighan, 20, Elkhardt, Ind.; Gregory A. Terry, 17, Elkhardt, Ind.; Lenise A. Brown, 19, Benton township; Jeffrey A. Bensfield, 23, Royal Oak; Wayne Shaw, 21, Chicago.

Bigos, 26, Chicago; Patrick McFarland, 23, Bay City; Robert Schlutt, 27, Route 1, Box 798, Glendora road, Buchanan; Fred Hottle, Jr., 28, Benton Farm, Watervliet.

Others sentenced yesterday were: Jeffrey R. Bostic, 24, 9691A

Berrien road, Union Pier, $102 or 90 days for impaired driving Aug. 14 in Berrien township.

Johnny Scott, 27, 2117 Holly avenue, Benton township, 5 days in jail, $200 fine and costs and two years probation for conspiracy to commit larceny under $100 June 22 at Howard Johnson's in Benton township.

Willie J. Ward, 21, 184 East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for possession of an unregistered gun Jan. 1 in Benton Harbor.

Frederick E. Booth, 17, 759 Pearl street, Benton Harbor, $125 or 20 days in jail for larceny under $100 Aug. 3 in Benton Harbor.

Millard S. Edwards, 40, Chicago, $105 for possession of an unregistered gun July 22 in Benton township.

Steven LaPlante, 21, Route 3, Box 80, North Coloma road, Coloma, 90 days in jail and restitution of $184 for conspiracy to commit petty larceny in the Harding's Market, Watervliet.

James E. Hyde, 17, of 616 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, $32 for disorderly person, creating a disturbance, Aug. 14 in Benton Harbor.

Thomas Flener, 25, of 1637 Greenley avenue, Benton Harbor, 120 days in jail, $200 fine and costs or 180 days total for driving under the influence of liquor, second offense, Monday in Lincoln township.

Randall L. Wheeler, 26, 913 Lions Park drive, St. Joseph, 3 days suspended sentence, $50 or 10 days in jail for driving with a suspended license Aug. 15 in St. Joseph.

Edward F. Snow, 20, Benton Harbor, 5 days in jail, $150 fine and costs or 35 days total for driving with a suspended license Aug. 14 in Hagar township.

Thomas H. Flener, 25, of 1637 Greenley avenue, Benton township, 120 days in jail, $152 fine and costs or 180 days total for driving under the influence of liquor Aug. 16 in Lincoln township.

the firm the franchise was made.

Larry Olson, chief engineer for TAB, was told by the council that the village's legal counsel has several questions about a proposed ordinance that would give TAB the franchise before any further action was taken. The questions are to be forwarded to the firm by mail, the council told Olson.

The council told Cleon Reitz, building inspector, that it wished to meet with Daniel Cristancho to further discuss his plans to expand his residence at 362 Washington street, before a building permit is issued. Cristancho currently cares for eight adults in the home that houses his family as well.

Cristancho has previously told the council he does not plan to take on any more residents, but only to add more living space for his family.

Leave Cars Home, Says Hospital

DOWAGIAC — Because much of the parking space at Dowagiac's Lee Memorial hospital is being used for construction activities, hospital officials are asking employees and visitors to leave their cars home if possible.

Thomas Dube, hospital administrator, said employees have been asked to form car pools and visitors are being asked to walk or take public transportation.

The remaining space in the visitors parking lot on the west side of the building is now restricted to vehicles coming to the emergency room. Much of the space in the employees lot on Main street has also been taken over by construction activities.

Berrien Springs Seeking Road Project Extension

SOUTH BERRIEN BUREAU
BERRIEN SPRINGS — Efforts to get the state highway commission to lengthen its planned addition of a third lane to US-31 north of here were discussed by the Berrien Springs village council last night. The efforts are being made by the village, Berrien and Oronoko townships, Andrews university and the Berrien county Youth Fair board. Representatives of the five met with state highway officials earlier this month regarding the extension.

The effort was launched because of state plans to add a third lane to the highway from College avenue south to near Apple Valley market. The addition area is north of the village.

Edgar Kesterke, village president, said the five local groups want the state to expand the plan to take the added lane to the village limits.

Kesterke told the council that state officials said the area where they plan to add the lane has been selected because of a high rate of accidents. The representatives of the groups told state officials that the addition of a third lane to the entire stretch of the area would improve traffic flow.

Councilmen added last night that a factor in urging the state to add the third lane to the village limits were plans for a new, centralized facility for education of mentally impaired children by the Berrien Intermediate school district. Buses transporting the children to the school would travel on the highway, adding further traffic congestion, the councilmen said.

In other areas, the council again met with a representative of TAB Inc., Kalamazoo, on the firm's proposed cable television franchise in the village. No decision on the proposal to grant

Heroin Dealer Finds Appeal Doesn't Work

A Benton Harbor man whose sale of heroin conviction was overturned by the state court of appeals last year was re-sentenced Monday in Berrien Circuit court to the same term he got in 1973 — 10 to 20 years in prison.

Sentenced by Judge Julian E. Hughes was Adell Cassell, 42, whom police described as the kingpin of a major heroin ring in the Twin Cities area at the time of his arrest. Cassell gets credit for more than 3 1/2 years already served in prison.

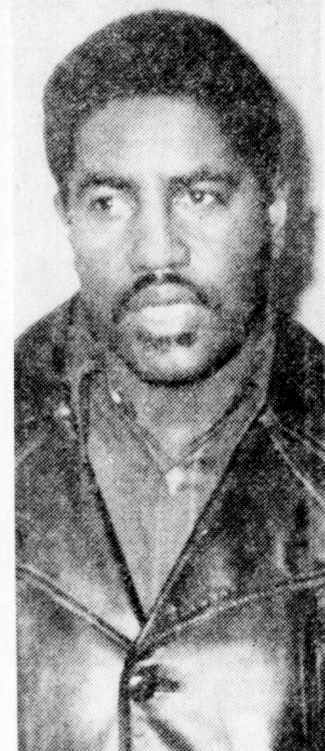

Cassell in 1973 was sentenced by Berrien Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns to 10 to 20 years but the appellate court sent the case back for trial after ruling evidence was available to the prosecution at the first trial that a defense witness lied.

He was re-tried and convicted in June on a charge that he delivered heroin to a Berrien Metro Narcotics unit agent on Sept. 19, 1972, in Benton Harbor.

Still maintaining his innocence, Cassell yesterday asked Hughes for a shorter sentence than the one imposed by Byrns, claiming he was a good prisoner and had been working with younger offenders to try and steer them away from future crimes.

But Hughes noted that after close inspection of the records "I came to the conclusion that the sentence imposed — 10 to 20 years — was going to stand in your way."

The sentence was imposed after Hughes denied motions by Cassell for a new trial, saying he had denied the motions during the trial and saw no reason to change his rulings.

Probate Judges At Conference

Berrien County Probate Judges Zoe Shaffer Burkholz and Ronald H. Lange are attending the Seventh Judicial Conference of Probate and Juvenile Court Judges on Mackinac island where both have parts in the program.

Judge Burkholz is scheduled to deliver a report today on changes in Michigan Probate court rules adopted this year by the state Supreme court. Judge Burkholz was subcommittee chairman for the rules committee which drafted the changes for the Supreme court's review.

Judge Lange will preside at the session when Judge Burkholz gives her report. Judge Lange is first vice president of the Michigan Probate and Juvenile Court Judges association.

The three-day conference ends Wednesday.

South Haven Hospital Plan To Be Discussed

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — An informational meeting for officials from governmental units that comprise the South Haven

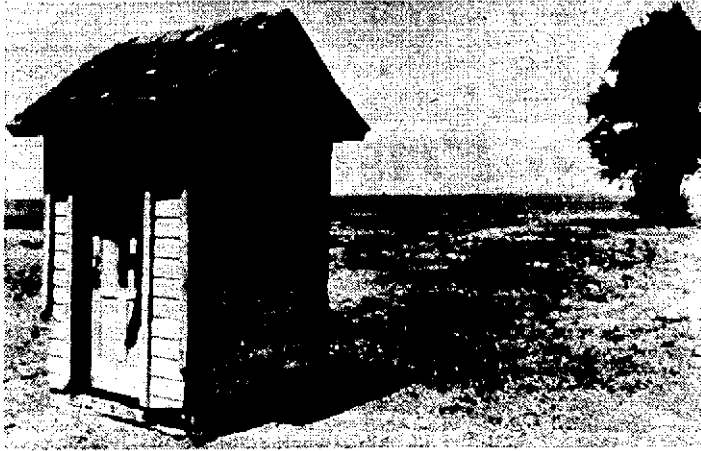

Community Hospital authority is to be held next Monday at 8 p.m. at the hospital in which a proposed building expansion program will be outlined.

The proposed building program is designed to expand the hospital's out-patient care services. The hospital has been experiencing in-patient occupancy problems recently, but its out-patient services have grown to a point where facilities are inadequate.

The program, estimated to cost $1.2 million, will probably require voted millage. Each governmental unit in the hospital authority must authorize the hospital to put a millage question on the ballot before it can be acted upon by.

Members of the hospital authority include the cities of South Haven and Bangor and townships of Arlington, Bangor, Casco, Covert, Columbia, Geneva and South Haven.

In other matters last night during the board's regular monthly meeting, a report from the women's auxiliary was presented indicating that 10,348 volunteer hours were provided during the past year.

The board approved assessing four-tenths of a mill across the authority for debt retirement. The millage has been assessed annually for several years.

Administrator Wayne Eagleson announced that Dr. Abdul Rasheed has started a practice of obstetrics and gynecology at offices in the hospital.

Dr. Rasheed graduated from the medical college of the University of Madras in India. For the past four years he has been on the staff at Westminster hospital in Ontario.

Dr. Rasheed is eligible for certification by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, according to Eagleson.

South Haven Purchasing $18,000 Accounting Unit

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — The purchase of an $18,000 bookkeeping machine for the accounting department was approved by the South Haven city council during a brief meeting last night.

Two of the council's seven members including Mayor Richard Lewis were absent.

The new Burroughs corp. machine will replace equipment that is nine years old.

In other matters, council agreed to purchase a hangar at the municipal airport from Mrs. Arthur Heald, route 3, South Haven for $5,000. Mrs. Heald has leased airport property from the city for the hangar which she and her husband paid to construct.

Council set stringent parking and concessions rules for the upcoming weekend in anticipation of large crowds for the visits of two tall ships.

The aldermen ruled they would not allow concession stands to be located on public properties and would require operators of any food or souvenir stands to purchase city licenses.

Acting City Manager Howard McDougall reported parking restrictions on the city's north side would be in effect after 4 p.m. Saturday and all day Sunday.

Black river street between Dyckman avenue and the All Seasons marine building will be closed to all traffic. There will be no parking on either side of Dyckman avenue between Williams street and North Shore drive, along the south end of North Shore drive, and on South street between North Shore drive and Black river street.

Cars pulling trailered boats will be asked to enter the Black River park via Wells street from Blue Star highway instead of through the business district.

Council accepted the low bid from the Diamond Crystal Salt company at $15.45 per ton for highway deicing salt.

A request to conduct a door-to-door solicitation for cystic fibrosis was denied.

The council said it is considering establishing a policy that would open the use of parks by groups on a first-come, first served basis. Presently the city will allow groups to reserve portions of parks for gatherings. However, the policy has caused hard feelings because local citizens are deprived use of park space because outside groups have made a reservation.

Council set its next meeting for Tuesday, Sept. 7 instead of Sept. 6 because of the Labor Day holiday.

The South Haven Jaycees were given permission to conduct a food sale in Johnston park on Aug. 28.

HOTEL RESTORATION
FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope entertained 15,000 persons at a fairgrounds to raise money to restore an historic hotel. The landmark was built by the late Adm. Chester Nimitz' grandfather in 1866, and the Nimitz Commission plans to renovate it to its old "steamboat" appearance.

New School Study Is Planned

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Department of Education will study for the first time the learning success of all Michigan elementary and high school students in all areas of study. The State Board of Education has approved the study in theory, but the department said Monday it still is working out its specifics. A spokesman said the department hopes to have bids from private contractors by the end of this year, so the study can begin by next fall.

New Super Ambulance Proposed For Fennville

FENNVILLE — The director of the Fennville area Volunteer ambulance service last night proposed that its aging 1970 Cadillac ambulance be replaced with a "full-fledged life support system" on wheels.

Director John Kelly made the proposal at a meeting of the Fennville city commission and attended by officials from the four townships served by the ambulance service. The townships served are Lee, Ganges, Clyde and the southern half of Manlius.

Kelly said the Cadillac ambulance, with 38,000 miles on it, was no longer mechanically reliable and did not meet federal specifications for ambulances.

He recommended the officials allow the purchase of a truck chassis ambulance which carries an aluminum module large enough for the attendant to stand while treating the patient.

There would also be room enough for all the latest life-saving equipment, some of which is too bulky for the present ambulance.

He said the purchase could be made from $24,874 the ambulance service has saved for equipment replacement during its three years of existence. Kelly said a request for a federal grant to help in the purchase had been rejected.

A demonstrator ambulance, on display at last night's meeting, had been offered for sale for $23,911. It had 6,800 miles on it. A new ambulance would cost $26,800 and would take three to six months to deliver, according to a representative for the manufacturer, the Horton Ambulance Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Officials from Clyde, Ganges and Manlius townships said they would present the proposal to their township boards for a recommendation.

Fennville city and Lee township officials said they had already decided a new ambulance should be purchased.

Fennville Mayor James

McCracken said that if all the townships agree to the purchase, bids will be sought in September with a bid opening tentatively scheduled for Sept. 20.

Kelly said he would also like to see the eventual purchase of equipment to treat heart attack patients and equipment to quickly extract auto accident victims from the wreckage.

He said the necessary heart attack equipment, an EKG-defibrillator, would cost about $4,800. The equipment is needed about four times a month, he said.

Kelly said he had received approval for a federal grant to purchase a two-way radio for the new ambulance. The grant would be for about $1,800 with the local share at about $800.

The radio would enable the ambulance attendant to communicate directly with doctors in the emergency room of any nearby hospital.

In other business, the commission voted to raise rates in the city cemetery.

Non-resident rates for a single grave were increased from $60 to $100. The cost for perpetual care was hiked from $35 to $70.

The resident rate for a single grave was left unchanged at $30.

The commissioners also agreed to hire an Allegan man, Marlin Dunkle, to work as a part-time policeman on Saturdays. He is to be paid $2.75 an hour.

Another Woman Justice Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some members of the Michigan Democratic Women's Caucus think the Michigan Supreme Court needs another woman on the bench — former Congresswoman Martha Griffiths. Liz Giese, spokeswoman for the caucus, said that 20 caucus leaders sent Mrs. Griffiths a mailgram urging her to consider running against Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh for the Democratic nomination. His term expires Jan. 1, 1977. The seat carries an eight-year term. The term of the only woman now on the court, Justice Mary Coleman, expires Jan. 1, 1981.

Just because there's plenty of coal, doesn't mean there'll be plenty of electricity.

By now almost everyone knows what a great resource America has in its vast coal reserves. And how important it is in making electricity.

But just having the coal doesn't make it electricity.

It has to be mined, first. Then we have to convert that coal into electricity and get it to your homes and factories.

Without facilities to do all that, all the coal in the world wouldn't generate the first kilowatt of electric power. The lights wouldn't burn. And the machines that help us do our jobs wouldn't run.

Unfortunately, the cost of building these facilities has gone up drastically. For instance, building a power plant today costs five times as much as it did 15 years ago. And it was costly, even then.

On top of that, building new facilities takes time. And it takes the cooperation and understanding of the people who will benefit from them.

You might say it's a kind of power partnership between you and us that takes a realistic approach to the needs of today. And tomorrow, too.

Without your help and understanding about the needs and the cost, facilities may never get built.

And coal, which can become electricity, will just stay coal.

Community Hospital authority is to be held next Monday at 8 p.m. at the hospital in which a proposed building expansion program will be outlined.

The proposed building program is designed to expand the hospital's out-patient care services. The hospital has been experiencing in-patient occupancy problems recently, but its out-patient services have grown to a point where facilities are inadequate.

The program, estimated to cost $1.2 million, will probably require voted millage. Each governmental unit in the hospital authority must authorize the hospital to put a millage question on the ballot before it can be acted upon by.

Members of the hospital authority include the cities of South Haven and Bangor and townships of Arlington, Bangor, Casco, Covert, Columbia, Geneva and South Haven.

In other matters last night during the board's regular monthly meeting, a report from the women's auxiliary was presented indicating that 10,348 volunteer hours were provided during the past year.

The board approved assessing four-tenths of a mill across the authority for debt retirement. The millage has been assessed annually for several years.

Administrator Wayne Eagleson announced that Dr. Abdul Rasheed has started a practice of obstetrics and gynecology at offices in the hospital.

Dr. Rasheed graduated from the medical college of the University of Madras in India. For the past four years he has been on the staff at Westminster hospital in Ontario.

Dr. Rasheed is eligible for certification by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, according to Eagleson.

South Haven Purchasing $18,000 Accounting Unit

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — The purchase of an $18,621 bookkeeping machine for the accounting department was approved by the South Haven city council during a brief meeting last night.

Two of the council's seven members including Mayor Richard Lewis were absent.

The new Burroughs corp. machine will replace equipment that is nine years old.

In other matters, council agreed to purchase a hangar at the municipal airport from Mrs. Arthur Heald, route 3, South Haven for $5,000. Mrs. Heald has leased airport property from the city for the hangar which she and her husband paid to construct.

Council set stringent parking and concessions rules for the upcoming weekend in anticipation of large crowds for the visits of two tall ships.

The aldermen ruled they would not allow concession stands to be located on public properties and would require operators of any food or souvenir stands to purchase city licenses.

Acting City Manager Howard McDougall reported parking restrictions on the city's north side would be in effect after 4 p.m. Saturday and all day Sunday.

Black river street between Dyckman avenue and the All Seasons marine building will be closed to all traffic. There will be no parking on either side of Dyckman avenue between Williams street and North Shore drive, along the south end of North Shore drive, and on South street between North Shore drive and Black river street.

Cars pulling trailered boats will be asked to enter the Black River park via Wells street from Blue Star highway instead of through the business district.

Council accepted the low bid from the Diamond Crystal Salt company at $15.43 per ton for highway deicing salt.

A request to conduct a door-to-door solicitation for cystic fibrosis was denied.

The council said it is considering establishing a policy that would open the use of parks by groups on a first-come, first served basis. Presently the city will allow groups to reserve portions of parks for gatherings. However, the policy has caused hard feelings because local citizens are deprived use of park space because outside groups have made a reservation.

Council set its next meeting for Tuesday, Sept. 7 instead of Sept. 6 because of the Labor Day holiday.

The South Haven Jaycees were given permission to conduct a food sale in Johnston park on Aug. 28.

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope entertained 15,000 persons at a fairgrounds to raise money to restore an historic hotel. The landmark was built by the late Adm. Chester Nimitz' grandfather in 1866, and the Nimitz Commission plans to renovate it to its old "steamboat" appearance.

New School Study Is Planned

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Department of Education will study for the first time the learning success of all Michigan elementary and high school students in all areas of study. The State Board of Education has approved the study in theory, but the department said Monday it still is working out its specifics. A spokesman said the department hopes to have bids from private contractors by the end of this year, so the study can begin by next fall.

New Super Ambulance Proposed For Fennville

FENNVILLE — The director of the Fennville area Volunteer ambulance service last night proposed that its ailing 1970 Cadillac ambulance be replaced with a "full-fledged life support system" on wheels.

Director John Kelly made the proposal at a meeting of the Fennville city commission and attended by officials from the four townships served by the ambulance service. The townships served are Lee, Ganges, Clyde and the southern half of Manlius.

Kelly said the Cadillac ambulance, with 58,000 miles on it, was no longer mechanically reliable and did not meet federal specifications for ambulances.

He recommended the officials allow the purchase of a truck chassis ambulance which carries an aluminum module large enough for the attendant to stand while treating the patient.

There would also be room enough for all the latest life-saving equipment, some of which is too bulky for the present ambulance.

He said the purchase could be made from $24,874 the ambulance service has saved for equipment replacement during its three years of existence. Kelly said a request for a federal grant to help in the purchase had been rejected.

A demonstrator ambulance, on display at last night's meeting, had been offered for sale for $23,911. It had 8,800 miles on it. A new ambulance would cost $26,800 and would take three to six months to deliver, according to a representative for the manufacturer, the Horton Ambulance Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Officials from Clyde, Ganges and Manlius townships said they would present the proposal to their township boards for a recommendation.

Fennville city and Lee township officials said they had already decided a new ambulance should be purchased.

Fennville Mayor James

McCracken said that if all the townships agree to the purchase, bids will be sought in September with a bid opening tentatively scheduled for Sept. 20.

Kelly said he would also like to see the eventual purchase of equipment to treat heart attack patients and equipment to quickly extract auto accident victims from the wreckage.

He said the necessary heart attack equipment, an EKG-defibrillator, would cost about $4,800. The equipment is needed about four times a month, he said.

Kelly said he had received approval for a federal grant to purchase a two-way radio for the new ambulance. The grant would be for about $1,800 with the local share at about $800.

The radio would enable the ambulance attendant to communicate directly with doctors in the emergency room of any nearby hospital.

In other business, the commission voted to raise rates in the city cemetery.

Non-resident rates for a single grave were increased from $60 to $100. The cost for perpetual care was hiked from $35 to $70.

The resident rate for a single grave was left unchanged at $30.

The commissioners also agreed to hire an Allegan man, Marlin Dunkle, to work as a part-time policeman on Saturdays. He is to be paid $2.75 an hour.

Another Woman Justice Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some members of the Michigan Democratic Women's Caucus think the Michigan Supreme Court needs another woman on the bench — former Congresswoman Martha Griffiths. Liz Giese, spokeswoman for the caucus, said that 20 caucus leaders sent Mrs. Griffiths a mailgram urging her to consider running against Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh for the Democratic nomination. His term expires Jan. 1, 1977. The seat carries an eight-year term. The term of the only woman now on the court, Justice Mary Coleman, expires Jan. 1, 1981.

Just because there's plenty of coal, doesn't mean there'll be plenty of electricity.

By now almost everyone knows what a great resource America has in its vast coal reserves. And how important it is in making electricity.

But just having the coal doesn't make it electricity.

It has to be mined, first. Then we have to convert that coal into electricity and get it to your homes and factories.

Without facilities to do all that, all the coal in the world wouldn't generate the first kilowatt of electric power. The lights wouldn't burn. And the machines that help us do our jobs wouldn't run.

Unfortunately, the cost of building these facilities has gone up drastically. For instance, building a power plant today costs five times as much as it did 15 years ago. And it was costly, even then.

On top of that, building new facilities takes time. And it takes the cooperation and understanding of the people who will benefit from them.

You might say it's a kind of power partnership between you and us that takes a realistic approach to the needs of today. And tomorrow, too.

Without your help and understanding about the needs and the cost, facilities may never get built.

And coal, which can become electricity, will just stay coal.

Dowagiac Adopts Development Plan

DOWAGIAC — An Economic Development Corp. to encourage industrial growth in Dowagiac became a reality last night when the city council here adopted an ordinance approving its articles of incorporation.

The corporation was created to enable revenue bonds for industrial development to be sold in order to strengthen and revitalize the city's economy and provide a means for assisting businesses to stay or relocate in Dowagiac.

In a related matter, the council also approved a nine-member board of directors for the corporation as proposed by Mayor Graham Woodhouse. They are Ray Tutwiler, Dr. James Burke, Richard Judd Jr., Eugene Jenison, James Judd, David Groner, James Giles, Henry Graper Jr., city manager, and Woodhouse.

A public hearing was set for Tuesday, Sept. 7, at 7:45 p.m. in council chambers to consider the designation of the first project area, as requested by the Economic Development Corp. The area being considered is a five-acre plot owned by C.E. Hess and Sons, in the NiDow Industrial Development park.

Glencroft Inc., Houston, Tex., manufacturers of polyfoam plan to build a factory at the site. The Economic Development Corp. will purchase the land from Hess as part of the project.

In other areas, a contract was awarded to C.E. Hess and Sons, low bidder at $1,675 for demolition of two structures under the community development block grant. The properties are located at 202 Cora street and 302 Thickston street.

A resolution prepared by the state department of natural resources to set a speed limit for boats on Mill pond not to exceed five miles per hour was approved. The resolution must also be approved by the Wayne and LaGrange township boards and then by the state before it is law.

The council heard the second reading and adopted the amendments to the city's pension program, one of which, reduces the compulsory retirement age of city policemen from 65 to 55 unless special permission is obtained.

The council granted a one-day liquor license to the Lee Memorial hospital auxiliary on Oct. 23, for a dance to be held at the Dowagiac Armory.

The council changed its next regular meeting date from Monday, Sept. 6, to Tuesday, Sept. 7 at 8 p.m., because of the Labor Day holiday.

According to Mrs. Noack, the developer must bear the cost of installing all water and sewer lines and streets in the development.

No decision on the rezoning request could be made last night due to the absence of two commission members.

Under the city charter, three-fourths of the seven-member commission must vote on the rezoning proposal, or six members.

Arlington Considers Tax Vote

BANGOR — The Arlington township board last night indicated it would put a South Haven Community hospital tax proposal on the November general election ballot if other members of the hospital authority do likewise.

The hospital has been seeking public reaction to a six-tenths of-a-mill levy proposal that would finance a proposed $1.2 million expansion.

Arlington township is among a number of north central and northwestern Van Buren county municipalities that are part of the authority.

The authority's tax base is about $137 million and the six-tenths of-a-mill would raise about $100,000 yearly, hospital officials have said previously.

Arlington township officials added, however, that they want more information on the levy before formally agreeing to put it on the ballot.

In another area, the board said work has started on 52nd street, between 36th and 38th avenues, to raise the roadbed above standing water levels. That section of road is to be closed until the work has been completed.

Dowagiac School Tax Levy Hiked By .624 Mills

DOWAGIAC — A total property tax levy of 26.315 mills for this year was approved by the Dowagiac school board last night. The levy is .624 mills higher than the total 1975 levy of 25.691 mills.

Of the total, 24 mills will be levied for school operating costs, the same amount levied last year.

The increase comes from a hike in the debt retirement tax rate. This year's levy will be 2.315 mills, compared to 1.691 mills levied in 1975.

Based on the district's tax base of $84 million, the 24 mills for operations will raise about $2,016,000 in the coming year.

In other areas, the board approved a new three-year contract for Supt. Lionel Stacey.

The new contract set Stacey's salary for this school year at $32,400. He was paid $30,870 for the 1975-76 school year.

Dr. Joseph Andrews, high school guidance counselor, was named to the newly-created position of administrative assistant at the high school at a salary of $18,000. The post was approved by the board earlier this year because ninth grade students will be attending classes full time at the high school this year. Andrews will also work with the adult education night class program.

The board awarded a contract for medical-hospitalization insurance for administrators, clerical workers, supervisors, food service employees and custodians to Michigan Education Special Services association at a cost of $45,338. The premium is a 20.6 per cent increase of the $37,609 paid the School Employees Trust last year. School Employees Trust's bid on this year's contract was $47,830.

Klett Construction Co., Hartford, was awarded a $16,656 contract to resurface the Union high school parking lot. Klett was the lowest of three bidders for the project.

Klett was also awarded a $2,220 contract for paving of some parking and playground areas at the Lincoln and Patrick Hamilton elementary schools.

The board approved a 15-cent per hour hike in the maximum rate paid part-time employees, except for crossing guards. The new pay schedule, setting maximum hourly rates, is teacher's aides, $3.05 per hour; noon hour supervisors, elementary, $2.75; secondary, $3.10; and hall duty personnel, $3.15. Crossing guards' maximum hour rate remains the same at $3.50 per hour.

Sale of an unfinished house at $7,000 to Mr. and Mrs. James W. Ricketts, Eau Claire, was approved by the board. The house, located on East Division street, was built by high school building trades students last year.

The board approved a schedule of ticket prices for athletic events for the 1976-77 school year. The prices included varsity basketball season tickets, adult reserved, $14; adult general admission, $10; student general admission, $6; and varsity football season tickets, adult reserved, $8; adult general admission, $6; and student general admission, $4.

A 25-cent increase in adult school lunches, from 75 cents to $1, was approved by the board.

The board accepted the resignations of David Mahar, high school baseball coach and high school English and speech teacher, and Miss Pat Taylor, high school girls' sports coach and girls' physical education teacher.

Township Meeting Is Sept. 7

COLOMA — The Coloma township board will conduct its September meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 7, instead of Monday, Sept. 6, beginning at 7:30 p.m., at the township hall.

Mrs. Thelma Zoschke, deputy clerk, said the change was made due to the Labor day holiday.

Bloomington Schools Will Have New Hours

BLOOMINGDALE — Bloomington high school will have new hours when students start classes on Aug. 31, according to school officials. Buses will be running about 10 minutes earlier to get students to classes that begin at 7:20 a.m. Dismissal time will remain at 12:25 p.m., according to Dr. Stanley R. Bushouse, high school principal. The earlier starting time is necessary because the classes have been changed from six periods to five, 55-minute periods, the principal said.

Apartment Plans In Coloma City Draw Objections

COLOMA — Objections to rezoning approximately six acres of land here for a proposed 48-unit apartment development were filed last night during a public hearing held by the Coloma city commission.

Five of 13 people attending the hearing voiced objections to rezoning the site from residential to multi-family use.

Objections included the high rent of $220 to $260 for one and two bedroom units, respectively; two driveways both onto busy South Church street from the proposed site; the loss of civic pride by apartment dwellers; and the large number of apartments on the acreage.

Petitions objecting to the rezoning, signed by 14 of 18 adjacent property owners, were submitted to the commission previously.

Commissioner Mrs. Wavia Noack, mayor pro-tem, said the earliest the commission could decide on the outcome of the rezoning hearing would be at the commission's next meeting, Monday, Aug. 23.

The rezoning request was made by James Dine, the proposed developer, 4621 Red Arrow highway, Stevensville.

Proposed for the site on the west side of South Church street, is the construction of three, two-story buildings, each containing 16 apartments.

Mrs. Noack said construction of the apartment buildings would increase the city's tax base, and the water and sewer revenues from the proposed development would be considerable.

According to Mrs. Noack, the developer must bear the cost of installing all water and sewer lines and streets in the development.

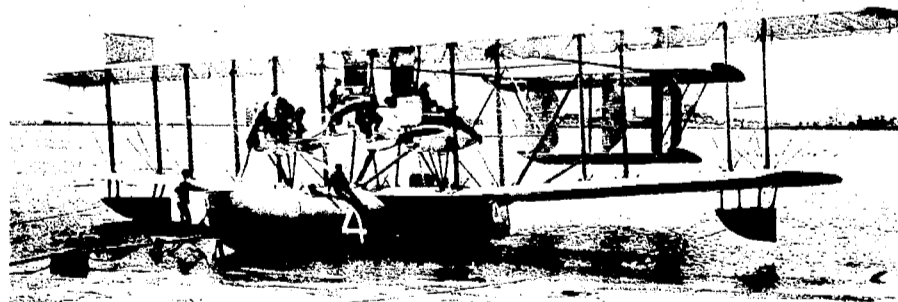

No decision on the rezoning request could be made last night due to the absence of two commission members.

Under the city charter, three-fourths of the seven-member commission must vote on the rezoning proposal, or six members.

Fever Contact Is Suspected

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit-area couple may have come in contact with a Canadian woman suspected of having a rare, deadly African disease on a flight to Toronto two weeks ago, according to Michigan health officials. The two are under surveillance for symptoms of the disease, known as Lassa fever, officials said. Michigan officials would not disclose the couple's name or location. Dr. Maurice Reizen, director of the Michigan Health Department, said victims have to suffer the disease before they can transmit to others. Thus, "it is relatively safe to observe rather than isolate" the couple, he said.

Viking Begins
New Series
Of Experiments

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Viking 1 is busy on a new series of tests that could unmask a chemical process in the Martian soil which many scientists believe has been yielding deceptive, life-mimicking results. Meanwhile, Viking 2 still is scanning the rust-colored planet seeking a base for its landing craft, which is loaded with new instructions on what to do once it touches down. Controllers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory sent Viking 2 a series of computer commands that would keep its landing craft busy for several weeks should communications be broken after landing.

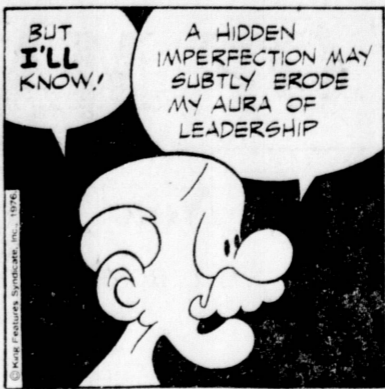

Turkish Ship

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — The Turkish survey ship that provoked the current war of words between Greece and Turkey has returned to port to take on provisions, but Energy Minister Selahattin Kilic says it will go out again on Wednesday.

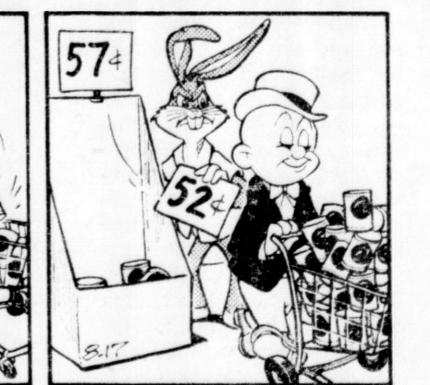

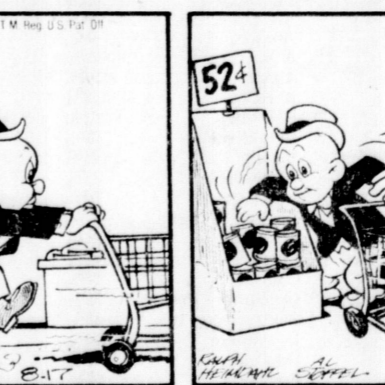

TO BE RELEASED

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany expects to be released soon from the hospital where he spent his 82nd birthday undergoing treatment for chronic bronchitis, aides say.

BH Attorney Has Article In Magazine

The accounting profession should be more proficient and candid when reporting to stockholders and the public, says a Benton Harbor attorney in a recent magazine article for certified public accountants.

Atty. J.D. Hartwig, of the Benton Harbor law firm of Hartwig, Crow, Jones and Postelli, made his feelings known under the title "What the CPA is doing wrong" in the August edition of the Michigan CPA.

Hartwig said he had been challenged to give a talk about what the CPA profession was doing wrong, and said the speech was favorably accepted, so he authored the article.

Hartwig, a former chairman of the section of taxation of the State Bar and present member of taxation committees for several professional associations, contends in the article that CPA's should give investors the straight facts instead of dwelling on extraneous material that may not provide the true picture on an investment.

PAW PAW SCHOOLS

Budget Proposal Totals $3,232,127

PAW PAW — A 1976-77 budget proposal calling for expenditures of $3,232,127 was presented at last night's regular monthly meeting of the Paw Paw school board.

The proposal is approximately four per cent higher than expenditures of $3,108,127 in the 1975-76 school year. Supt. Norval Bovee noted that one of the big reasons for the increase was a large boost in fixed costs (including teacher insurance premiums, retirement benefits, and unemployment compensation) from $149,381 to $254,000.

The proposal is based on anticipated revenues of $1,187,883 in local taxes, $1,946,922 in state aid, and $87,874 from miscellaneous sources.

Dr. Bovee said he prepared the proposal on the assumption that enrollment will remain the same this fall as next year — 2,503 students. Actual K-12 enrollment is expected to fall from 2,121 to 2,108, but the community education enrollment is figured to climb from 382 to 400.

The proposal supersedes a tentative budget prepared in the spring for submission to the Van Buren county tax allocation board.

In reviewing the budget draft, the board set the total property tax levy for 1976 at 30.5 mills. The figure includes a 27-mill rate for debt retirement.

A hearing on the final budget will be held Oct. 18.

Major items in the budget, with last year's figure in parentheses, include: instruction $2,256,017 ($1,970,778); administration $135,612 ($116,178); health services $3,000 ($2,000); transportation $157,800 ($146,953); operation of plant $250,250 ($257,477); maintenance $118,000 ($146,953); fixed charges $254,000 ($149,381); and capital outlay $7,000 ($61,118).

A donation of $135 from a group of parents at the Black River school was returned by the board. The money had been earmarked to air condition the library, but board member Douglas Howe noted that the sum would not begin to cover the cost.

The board also authorized continued participation in the federal hot lunch program and heard a report on the summer recreation program by Dean Wells, community education director.

Market Edges Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged upward today, continuing Monday's gradual advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up more than a point in the early going, and gainers outnumbered losers by a slight margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said hopes appeared to be persisting that a market rally might be possible once the Republicans formally choose their presidential candidate Wednesday night.

Uncertainty over who would get the GOP nomination has been cited as one inhibiting influence on the market this summer.

Xerox was the early volume leader among NYSE stocks, up 1/2 at 66. A 125,000-share block traded at that price.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 2.58 to 992.77.

Advances outpaced declines by about a 5-4 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index added .10 to 55.79.

Big Board volume came to 16.21 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .09 at 103.89.

Lower Speed Limit Asked

BARODA — The Baroda township board last night voted to recommend to the Berrien county road commission that the speed limit on Stevensville-Baroda road, from Ruggles cemetery to the village limits, be reduced from 55 to 40 or 45 miles per hour.

The decision came after three residents said the present speed limit is too high for cars to safely make a curve located in that section of the road.

Mrs. Ed Klug, Jr., Harold Widdis and Robert Hendrix, all who own property on that road, said drivers often lose control of their cars while on the curve and end up in their yards.

Mrs. Klug told the board a curve sign with a suggested speed limit of 35 m.p.h. is posted on the west side of the road but could not be enforced.

She also voiced disapproval of a "rescue speed" sign located on the east side of the road, north of the village limits and just before the curve.

Mrs. Klug stated a Berrien county road commission official told her the township board would have to make the recommendation before the commission would consider reducing the speed limit.

In other business, the board authorized Leonard Tollas, fire chief, to obtain bids for a fire truck chassis. The bids will be opened at the Sept. 30 meeting.

Richard Bolin, Snow road, was told by the board his neighbor is permitted to use bird chasing guns on his property because it is located in an agriculture zoned area. The guns discharge automatically at various intervals to scare the birds.

Bolin complained of the noise being made by the three guns, owned by Herman Pintke, and used to keep the birds out of his blueberries. Supervisor Orland Mead stated Pintke has used the guns for some 20 years and thus far the board had not received any complaints from neighbors. Bolin has lived in the area for three years and is about one-quarter mile from the guns.

Treasurer Donald Gast suggested the matter be brought up at the next meeting of the Michigan Townships association in an attempt to solve the problem birds cause farmers, thus eliminating such things as bird chasing guns.

Clerk Emil Nitz reported 2,059 people were reported to be living in the township, according to a preliminary count from the census taken July 26.

James Huh of Burnham and Flowers Insurance agency, Kalamazoo, discussed several policies through the Michigan Townships association. He was instructed by the board to obtain the necessary information from Nitz and return to the board with costs for the policies.

Large rubbish pick-ups will be made on Oct. 23 in the village, Oct. 30, Shawnee road and south and Nov. 6, north of Shawnee road. No building materials, tree limbs or car mufflers will be picked up.

BH Attorney Has Article In Magazine

The accounting profession should be more proficient and candid when reporting to stockholders and the public, says a Benton Harbor attorney in a recent magazine article for certified public accountants.

Atty. J.D. Hartwig, of the Benton Harbor law firm of Hartwig, Crow, Jones and Postell, made his feelings known under the title "What the CPA is doing wrong" in the August edition of the Michigan CPA.

Hartwig said he had been challenged to give a talk about what the CPA profession was doing wrong, and said the speech was favorably accepted, so he authored the article.

Hartwig, a former chairman of the section of taxation of the State Bar and present member of taxation committees for several professional associations, contends in the article that CPA's should give investors the straight facts instead of dwelling on extraneous material that may not provide the true picture on an investment.

Budget Proposal Totals $3,232,127

PAW PAW — A 1976-77 budget proposal calling for expenditures of $3,232,679 was presented at last night's regular monthly meeting of the Paw Paw school board.

The proposal is approximately four per cent higher than expenditures of $3,109,127 in the 1975-76 school year. Superintendent Bovee noted that one of the big reasons for the increase was a large boost in fixed costs (including teacher insurance premiums, retirement benefits, and unemployment compensation) from $149,381 to $254,000.

The proposal is based on anticipated revenues of $1,197,883 in local taxes, $1,946,922 in state aid, and $87,874 from miscellaneous sources.

Dr. Bovee said he prepared the proposal on the assumption that enrollment will remain the same this fall as next year — 2,503 students. Actual K-12 enrollment is expected to fall from 2,121 to 2,103, but the community education enrollment is figured to climb from 382 to 400.

The proposal supersedes a tentative budget prepared in the spring for submission to the Van Buren county tax allocation board.

In reviewing the budget draft, the board set the total property tax levy for 1976 at 30.5 mills. The figure includes a 27-mill rate for debt retirement.

In other areas, teachers Pamela Sang and Jane Roush outlined a recently completed summer program they conducted for gifted children in the district. The teachers said parents were very receptive, and both urged integrating a similar program into the regular curriculum.

A low bid of $11,220 by R.W. Lapine, Inc., Paw Paw, for installation of ventilation systems in two science rooms and the wood shop at the high school was accepted.

The board gave permission to a group of parents from the Cedar Street elementary school to send out a questionnaire to elementary parents on report cards. A spokesman for the group said the present cards are not informative, too infrequent, hard to interpret, and lack continuity.

A donation of $135 from a group of parents at the Black River school was returned by the board. The money had been earmarked to air condition the library, but board member Douglas Howe noted that the sum would not begin to cover the cost.

The board also authorized continued participation in the federal hot lunch program and heard a report on the summer recreation program by Dean Wells, community education director.

A boy, weighing 7 pounds, 6 ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Neapass, 1914 Nichols, Monday at 5:46 p.m.

Eau Claire — A girl, weighing 7 pounds, 2 ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Whorton, route 2, Box 82, Monday at 12:56 a.m.

Market Edges Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged upward today, continuing Monday's gradual advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up more than a point in the early going, and gainers outnumbered losers by a slight margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said hopes appeared to be persisting that a market rally might be possible once the Republicans formally choose their presidential candidate Wednesday night.

Uncertainty over who would get the GOP nomination has been cited as one inhibiting influence on the market this summer.

Xerox was the early volume leader among NYSE stocks, up 1/2 at 66. A 125,000-share block traded at that price.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 2.58 to 992.77.

Advances outpaced declines by about a 5-4 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index added 10 to 55.79.

Big Board volume came to 16.21 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .09 at 103.89.

HENRY TOP TARGET

MONTREAL (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger bore the brunt of the attack, satire and ridicule aimed at politicians from around the world at the 13th International Salon of Cartoons at the Man and His World exhibition.

Lower Speed Limit Asked

BARODA — The Baroda township board last night voted to recommend to the Berrien county road commission that the speed limit on Stevensville-Baroda road, from Ruggles cemetery to the village limits, be reduced from 55 to 40 or 45 miles per hour.

The decision came after three residents said the present speed limit is too high for cars to safely make a curve located in that section of the road.

Mrs. Ed Klug, Jr., Harold Widdis and Robert Hendrix, all who own property on that road, said drivers often lose control of their cars while on the curve and end up in their yards.

Mrs. Klug told the board a curve sign with a suggested speed limit of 35 m.p.h. is posted on the west side of the road but could not be enforced.

She also voiced disapproval of a "resume speed" sign located on the east side of the road, north of the village limits and just before the curve.

Mrs. Klug stated a Berrien county road commission official told her the township board would have to make the recommendation before the commission would consider reducing the speed limit.

In other business, the board authorized Leonard Tollas, fire chief, to obtain bids for a fire truck chassis. The bids will be opened at the Sept. 20 meeting.

Richard Bolin, Snow road, was told by the board his neighbor is permitted to use bird chasing guns on his property because it is located in an agriculture zone area. The guns discharge automatically at various intervals to scare the birds.

Bolin complained of the noise being made by the three guns, owned by Herman Pintke, and used to keep the birds out of his blueberries. Supervisor Orland Mead stated Pintke has used the guns for some 20 years and thus far the board had not received any complaints from neighbors. Bolin has lived in the area for three years and is about one-quarter mile from the guns.

Treasurer Donald Gast suggested the matter be brought up at the next meeting of the Michigan Townships association in an attempt to solve the problem birds cause farmers, thus eliminating such things as bird chasing guns.

Clerk Emil Nitz reported 2,059 people were reported to be living in the township, according to a preliminary count from the census taken July 26.

James Hult of Burnham and Flowers Insurance agency, Kalamazoo, discussed several policies through the Michigan Townships association. He was instructed by the board to obtain the necessary information from Nitz and return to the board with costs for the policies.

Large rubbish pick-ups will be made on Oct. 23 in the village, Oct. 30, Shawnee road and south and Nov. 6, north of Shawnee road. No building materials, tree limbs or car mufflers will be picked up.

Gallen Board Halts Closed Sessions

GALIEN — The Gallen school board last night voted to discontinue its closed work study sessions prior to school board meetings.

The unofficial closed sessions have been a bone of contention for some time in the district and the board said it would discontinue them until the state's "open meetings" bill issue is settled.

Dr. Robert Tilmann, superintendent, said both Houses have passed different versions of the bill and it is currently in a joint state House/Senate committee, which is trying to iron out the differences.

In other areas, the board accepted bids for various school supplies. The contract for gasoline supplies was awarded to the present supplier, Texaco Inc., Grand Rapids, at 33.36 cents per gallon.

The contract, for bread products was awarded to Kreamo Bakeries Inc., South Bend, for the lowest overall price on various products. Scholl Dairy, Co., Michigan City, receive the milk contract on its bid of 8.8 cents for a half-pint of white milk and 9.3 cents for chocolate. McDonald's Dairy, Benton Harbor, submitted a slightly lower bid on the white milk, but its bid was rejected in favor of Scholl's, because Scholl's bid explained its escalator clause in detail.

The school district's property tax levy for 1976 was set at a total millage rate of 28.876 mills, the same rate as last year. The district has 27,076 mills for operations and 1.8 debt retirement millage.

Fleet insurance contracts for the district's school buses was awarded to George C. Koebel of Three Oaks (State Farm Insurance agent) with a low bid of $1,692. The high bid was $2,049.

The board approved paying substitute teachers during the 1976-77 school year at the rate of $5 per contract hour and that substitutes who remain in the same position for more than five consecutive days be paid for an additional hour of planning time for each consecutive day.

Accused Getaway Driver Linked To Murder Scene

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A state police officer testified yesterday that Edwin Lamar Langston told him he was at a neighborhood grocery store moments before the wife of a South Haven city councilman was shot and killed during a holdup there.

Det. Sgt. John Karsen of the South Haven post quoted Langston, 23, South Haven, as saying he went to the store with Ronald Wilson, then went inside and bought a can of orange juice.

When he returned outside, Wilson demanded to know how many people were inside, but Langston replied that he "didn't want to get involved in anything," the officer said Langston told him.

The testimony was delivered during Langston's trial in Van

Buren circuit court here on a charge of murder in connection with the shooting death of Mrs. Arretta Lou Ingraham, wife of Councilman Wilbur Ingraham, last Dec. 1. The trial began July 20, but had been recessed for two weeks until yesterday while Mrs. Alta Madry, a prosecution witness, recovered from surgery.

Wilson, 27, Gary, Ind., was convicted of first-degree murder by a circuit court jury on June 4 and subsequently sentenced to a life prison term. The prosecution has alleged that while Langston did not take part in the shooting, he acted as an accomplice as the getaway car driver.

Karsen also testified that on the day of the shooting Langston told him Wilson asked him if he (Langston) knew of anyone who wanted to buy a pistol. Wilson also asked Langston if he knew of anyone he could "stick up," but Langston replied that "he did not do things like that," the officer said.

Karsen also said Langston told him that he had only planned on going over to a girl's house near the store when he and Wilson left. He quoted Langston as saying that when the girl asked where Wilson was, Langston said he was at the store, "busting them up."

Mrs. Madry, who is Wilson's sister, said that later that night after the robbery, she overheard a conversation between Wilson and Langston at her home.

"It didn't go like you told me it would," she quoted Wilson as saying to Langston.

"When I went in there there was (sic) only two ladies in there," Mrs. Madry said was Langston's reply.

She also said she overheard Wilson describe a struggle in the store, and admit firing at a woman.

Mrs. Madry said that when she entered the room the two men were in, there was a wallet, driver's license, AAA card, and several keys on the bed.

"Man I'm going to keep this," she said Langston stated, referring to one of the keys. "It's probably the key that opens up the store. If they go out of town on the weekend, I'm going to rip them off."

Wilbur Ingraham, in later testimony, identified the wallet, keys, and credit card as being his.

Defense Atty. Andrew Burch of Coloma attempted to hammer away at Mrs. Madry's credibility, getting her to admit that on the night of the shooting she had made no mention of seeing either a gun or the wallet.

She also admitted under cross-examination that she had been arrested on a charge of larceny in a building last September. She said the charge was dropped after the shooting, but not because of any deal she had made with the prosecutor's office in exchange for her testimony.

Ingraham, occasionally breaking into tears, described being grabbed around the throat by the holdup man, and also said a customer, Gordon Hoag, struggled with the bandit briefly.

He said his wife was attempting to call police when she was shot.

"Her last words were 'I love you'," he said.

L'Taska Courtney, Wilson's girlfriend, said she overheard Langston telling Wilson to move his car from the backyard of the Madry residence, before "they got them both busted."

She also said Langston told

Wilson he'd better get out of town because the police had a full description of him. Langston also said he planned to "lay low and get out of town for a couple of days," she said.

The prosecution was expected to wind up its presentation early today, with the case going to the jury on Wednesday or Thursday.

Second City Name Irks His Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame has nothing against Chicago as long as it stays in its place.

Its place is many miles west of the Hudson River, so the mayor was none too tickled to look out of his window every day and see a sign proclaiming, "Chicago, Chicago."

The sign had been put up when a new owner renamed Longchamps Restaurant, a political hangout, after the Second City.

After discreet diplomatic negotiations, the owner was persuaded to rename the eatery.

"New York, New York" reads the sign Beame now sees.

Accused Getaway Driver Linked To Murder Scene

Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A state police officer testified yesterday that Edwin Lamar Langston told him he was at a neighborhood grocery store moments before the wife of a South Haven city councilman was shot and killed during a holdup there.

Det. Sgt. John Karsen of the South Haven post quoted Langston, 23, South Haven, as saying he went to the store with Ronald Wilson, then went inside and bought a can of orange juice.

When he returned outside, Wilson demanded to know how many people were inside, but Langston replied that he "didn't want to get involved in anything," the officer said Langston told him.

The testimony was delivered during Langston's trial in Van

Buren circuit court here on a charge of murder in connection with the shooting death of Mrs. Arretta Lou Ingraham, wife of Councilman Wilbur Ingraham, last Dec. 1. The trial began July 20, but had been recessed for two weeks until yesterday while Mrs. Alta Madry, a prosecution witness, recovered from surgery.

Wilson, 27, Gary, Ind., was convicted of first-degree murder by a circuit court jury on June 4 and subsequently sentenced to a life prison term.

The prosecution has alleged that while Langston did not take part in the shooting, he acted as an accomplice as the getaway car driver.

Karsen also testified that on the day of the shooting Langston told him Wilson asked him if he (Langston) knew of anyone who wanted to buy a pistol.

Wilson also asked Langston if he knew of anyone who could "stick up," but Langston replied that "he did not do things like that," the officer said.

Karsen also said Langston told him that he had only planned on going over to a girl's house near the store when he and Wilson left. He quoted Langston as saying that when the girl asked where Wilson was, Langston said he was at the store, "busting them up."

Mrs. Madry, who is Wilson's sister, said that later that night after the robbery, she overheard a conversation between Wilson and Langston at her home.

"It didn't go like you told me it would," she quoted Wilson as saying to Langston.

"When I went in there there was (sic) only two ladies in there," Mrs. Madry said was Langston's reply.

She also said she overheard Wilson describe a struggle in the store, and admit firing at a woman.

Mrs. Madry said that when she entered the room the two men were in, there was a wallet, driver's license, AAA card, and several keys on the bed.

"Man I'm going to keep this," she said Langston stated, referring to one of the keys. "It's probably the key that opens up the store. If they go out of town on the weekend, I'm going to rip them off."

Wilbur Ingraham, in later testimony, identified the wallet, keys, and credit card as being his.

Defense Atty. Andrew Burch of Coloma attempted to hammer away at Mrs. Madry's credibility, getting her to admit that on the night of the shooting she had made no mention of seeing either a gun or the wallet.

She also admitted under cross-examination that she had been arrested on a charge of larceny in a building last September. She said the charge was dropped after the shooting, but not because of any deal she had made with the prosecutor's office in exchange for her testimony.

Ingraham, occasionally breaking into tears, described being grabbed around the throat by the holdup man, and also said a customer, Gordon Hoag, struggled with the bandit briefly.

He said his wife was attempting to call police when she was shot.

"Her last words were 'I love you'," he said.

L. Taska Courtney, Wilson's girlfriend, said she overheard Langston telling Wilson to move his car from the backyard of the Madry residence, before "they got them both busted."

She also said Langston told

Wilson he'd better get out of town because the police had a full description of him. Langston also said he planned to "lay low and get out of town for a couple of days," she said.

The prosecution was expected to wind up its presentation early today, with the case going to the jury on Wednesday or Thursday.

Second City Name Irks His Honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame has nothing against Chicago as long as it stays in its place.

Its place is many miles west of the Hudson River, so the mayor was none too tickled to look out of his window every day and see a sign proclaiming, "Chicago, Chicago."

The sign had been put up when a new owner renamed Longchamps Restaurant, a political hangout, after the Second City.

After discreet diplomatic negotiations, the owner was persuaded to rename the eatery.

"New York, New York" reads the sign Beame now sees.

TODAY In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Aug. 17, the 230th day of 1976. There are 136 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1943, in World War II, Allied forces gained complete control of the Italian island of Sicily.
On this date:
In 1649, Oliver Cromwell defeated Royalists under the Duke of Hamilton at the Battle of Preston in England.
In 1786, the hero of the Alamo, Davey Crockett, was born in Tennessee.
In 1863, Federal batteries and ships bombarded Fort Sumter in Charleston harbor during the Civil War.
In 1879, the French Panama Canal Company was formed under Ferdinand de Lesseps.
In 1967, it was announced that the toll of Americans killed in the Vietnam War had climbed to more than 15,000.
In 1969, Hurricane Camille slammed into the U.S. Gulf Coast. Some 300 people were killed as the storm battered Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, West Virginia and Virginia.
Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson applauded the Alliance for Progress in Latin America and proposed economic integration of the 19 countries in the program.
Five years ago: Pro-British Ulstermen in Northern Ireland organized a new right-wing alliance to oppose the government.
One year ago: The U.S. Coast Guard seized a Russian trawler off New Jersey on grounds the vessel was taking lobsters from the Continental Shelf in violation of U.S. law.
Today's birthdays: Entertainer Mae West is 82. Franklin Roosevelt Jr. is 82.
Thought for today: Art may make a suit of clothes, but nature must produce a man. — David Hume, Scottish philosopher, 1711-1776.
Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the New York Convention followed George Washington's advice to provide the evacuation of women and children from the city as British forces appeared about to attack.

Aid For Retarded Persons To Be Hiked

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments to retarded adults and adults with retarded children will be increased Sept. 1 according to Harry Gelander, district manager of the federal Social Security Administration's Benton Harbor area office.
Gelander said the maximum payment would be increased from $182 a month to $192.10 a month. He also said the increased benefits would be retructive to July 1.

A total of $167.50 of the SSI payment comes from the federal government with the state of Michigan contributing the remaining $24.30 toward the maximum, Gelander added.
All recipients do not get the full payment, Gelander said.
"Some individuals receive less because of their living arrangement or other income they may have," he stated.
Individuals in public institutions are generally not eligible for the SSI payments unless Michigan's Medicaid program pays more than half the cost of the person's care, Gelander continued. If the Medicaid program does pay for more than half the cost, recipients could qualify for federal payments of up to $25 a month.

There are several conditions under which an adult is considered retarded and eligible for the state and federal payments,

Gelander said. They are:
— If he or she has an IQ of 70 or less.
— If he or she has an IQ of 50 to 69 with an inability to perform routine repetitive tasks and a physical or other mental impairment resulting in restricting the ability to function normally.
— Severe mental and social incapacity which creates a marked dependence on others for meeting personal needs.

This would be characterized by an inability to understand the spoken word, avoid physical danger, follow simple directions, read, write or do simple addition arithmetic. Gelander said further information is available by calling the Benton Harbor area Social Security office at Fairplain Plaza.
